13 persons held hostage, one woman shot

Ten hours of terror by a bungling burglar

HOUSTON (UPI) — A bungling young burglar held 13 persons at gunpoint in a northside grocery for nearly 10 hours Saturday, then took three hostages on a wild ride that ended in his arrest on a dead end dirt road 30 miles north of the city.

One hostage, a woman, was shot in the head during the chase.

The bandit, Wesley Earl Evans, 22, was captured without a shot being fired near Patton Village, a small community on U.S. 59, when police units converged behind him. Police Detective Virgil Stone walked up to the car and talked Evans down gun-to-gun.

"I saw he had a .45 automatic pressed against one of the captives' heads," Stone said later. "I had the carbine stuck in his ear. I kept telling him to put it down, put it down."

Forty-five seconds later Evans finally lowered the pistol. Within the hour, Evans, who has served prison terms for felony theft and turning in a false fire alarm, was charged with aggravated kidnaping and aggravated robbery.

The injured woman, Frieda Lummus, 37, of Houston, was under intensive care and in fair condition in a Houston hospital.

The other two hostages along for the ride, Diane Lewis and Police Lt. W. C. Doss, 62, were uninjured. The rest of the hostages who had been left at the store also were unharmed.

"He saw he was boxed in," said Police Chief Carroll M. Lynn, appointed less than two weeks ago. "Essentially he gave up. We were very pleased no one was seriously injured."

Mrs. Lummus was shot by Evans as he fired at random through the rear window of the car when the four left the store shortly after 5 p.m.

Doss, 62, a 6-4, 240-pound rodeo enthusiast, had entered the store shortly after employes surprised Evans, who was still at work inside at 7:45 a.m. Doss was taken hostage and all day relayed messages between the bandit and police.

Minutes after Doss was taken, police sharpshooters surrounded the Kroger store. Men with rifles and shotguns took up positions in the parking lot and on nearby rooftops in a steady rain that varied between mist and downpour most of the day.

Store manager Wayne Stephens, 28, said although Evans spent the night in the store and appeared to know its floor plan well, he failed to leave in time for the start of morning business.

Stephens, who opened his store along with his employes, was confronted by Evans who was armed and had emptied the safe. Stephens later escaped when Evans agreed to let him make his usual rounds in the store.

Chief Lynn dickered with Evans most of the day about the release of the hostages and about surrendering, but all attempts were rebuffed.

At one point, Evans threatened to shoot all the hostages if local radio stations did not stop broadcasting and then fired a shot at Francis Williams, an attorney who offered to help him.

At 5:05 p.m. police placed three sets of handcuffs, as requested by Evans through Doss, in the front seat of Doss's patrol car. A few minutes later the bandit led the hostages out, ignoring Mayor Fred Hofheinz's bullet proofed Cadillac he had requested and left in Doss's car with Doss driving.

With Evans handcuffed to the two women and lying on the rear floorboard, the four drove north along U.S. 59 at speeds up to 90 miles an hour. Police trailed them in unmarked cars and a police helicopter.

On the outskirts of the city, they stopped briefly at a service station and then later at a hardware store near Patton Village where Evans tried to get more ammunition.

At that point, he ordered Doss to phone police to call off the helicopter. He also ordered Doss to say that he and a woman had been shot in hopes of frightening police off.

It did not work. A few miles and a few minutes away Doss turned off U.S. 59 onto a dirt road where the car was finally cornered by police.

Battle for Islands

Chinese planes bomb S. Viets

SAIGON (UPI) — Chinese MIGs bombed three South Vietnamese-occupied islands in the disputed Paracels group early Sunday and Chinese army troops followed up the air assault with ground attacks, military sources said.

"We have lost radio contact with the Vietnamese troops on all three of the islands," one officer said.

Military sources said at least six South Vietnamese were killed and 16 wounded in the first moments of the latest battle.

The sources said four MIGs made bombing runs on three islands, then flew cover for the troop landings.

One of the jets made a pass at a Vietnamese navy ship trying to steam toward the threatened islands, driving the vessel away, the sources said.

The renewed fighting followed sharp fighting Saturday that caused casualties on both sides and resulted in the sinking of two Vietnamese ships and the "probable" sinking of a Chinese ship, spokesmen said.

Vietnam ordered its big naval task force out of the Paracels back to South Vietnam following the battles, but replaced it with a group of smaller ships.

President Nguyen Van Thieu abruptly canceled a trip to the field to visit front-line troops and remained in Saigon to keep in touch with the situation, political sources said.

In addition to the one battle on Robert, Chinese and Vietnamese forces faced each other on two other tiny islands— Duncan and Hoang Sa, separated from Robert only by a water-covered sandbar, the sources said.

Military sources said a Vietnamese destroyer and an escort ship were knocked out by fire from Chinese ships, including Komar class missile boats.

The Chinese made no mention of ship losses and only said the Vietnamese killed and wounded an undisclosed number of Chinese fishermen. The Vietnamese also said an unknown number of men were missing from the sunken ships.

A radar-guided Styx sank the Vietnamese patrol ship, Saigon said. Following that, Vietnamese ships "disengaged," spokesmen said, and sailed for Da Nang, 200 miles to the west.

"The situation is this...," said one source, "we have ships on the west side of the archipelago, and the Chinese are on the east. We are watching each other."

The Chinese have built up their task force to 14 ships, the Vietnamese said, and have landed troops on three of the islands.

Fleeing burglary suspect shot by Pomona officer

POMONA — A burglary suspect was listed in serious condition at Pomona Valley Hospital after he had been shot twice by a local police officer Saturday.

Police have identified the suspect as Edward La Verne Hays. His home address was not given.

Police reported that two women employes entered Home Stretch and Sew at 280 E. Holt at 9:41 a.m. and discovered Hays inside the store.

They called police from a nearby store. Hays reportedly fled from the store and was pursued by several men along Center Street.

Officer Victorio Mancini, detailed to the area, confronted Hays in the 200 block of East Holt Avenue, and ordered the man to halt.

Hays reportedly pointed a gun at the officer. Mancini again called Hays to stop, then shot at the burglary suspect.

Hays again pointed a gun at the policeman, according to police reports, and Mancini shot a second time at the man.

PARTED BY DEATH

Tells nation he'll crack down on windfall profits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told the nation Saturday that because of "solid progress" in voluntary energy conservation, Americans can expect to get through next spring without gasoline rationing.

In a live, 15-minute radio address from his White House office, the President assured the public that while the energy crisis is real —and could get worse —he will crack down on any signs that oil companies are making "unconscionable profits" out of the energy crisis.

Nixon said he would press Congress for passage of a windfall profits tax, make a critical review of tax breaks for U. S. oil companies operating overseas, and meet personally with corporate executives to get the facts if a government audit of oil company supplies and pricing policies is unsatisfactory.

He said he also would propose legislation requiring full oil company disclosure of their inventories, production, costs and reserves.

The President pledged, too, to "do everything I can to hold down the price of foreign oil" which is driving up domestic prices for gasoline, heating oil and other petroleum products. But he dismissed as "ridiculous" reports that gasoline will reach $1 a gallon, or that bread will cost $1 a loaf.

"The American public cannot afford to pay such prices, and I can assure you that we will not have to pay them," he said.

Together with a warmer-than-expected winter and some leakage through the Arab oil embargo, Nixon said, voluntary public cooperation in turning down thermostats, "gasless Sundays" and reduced consumption of natural gas and electricity was paying off.

"If this voluntary cooperation continues, I can say confidently to you today that we can prevent hardships this winter and that we can avoid gas rationing this spring," the President said.

In his radio speech, the President said he was convinced that "the shortages are genuine, they may become more severe, and they are potentially dangerous."

But he said he would "not allow the American people to be the victims of a 'snow job' " by the oil companies by relying solely on their private assessments of the crisis.

Hundreds of Federal Energy Office inspectors are conducting a thorough audit of oil company records, Nixon said. "If the reports are not satisfactory, I shall ask the heads of the major oil companies to meet with me personally in Washington so that I can get the facts I need to make decisions that are right," he said.

The President said he would continue diplomatic efforts to end the Arab oil embargo and stabilize prices, but that Americans must continue to conserve energy and support research for alternative power and fuel sources to make the nation self-sufficient in energy by 1980.

Nixon spoke to the nation two days before Congress returns from a monthlong recess to deal with the energy crisis, amid indications it might go even further in efforts to curb the role of the oil companies.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Saturday his House Ways and Means Committee would go to work within the next two weeks on a stiff windfall profits tax he predicted would exceed 50 per cent and would be intended to force the oil companies to spend more on research and exploratory drilling.

"I've told the industry they've had a bad image," Mills said in an interview. "The American people think they've had extra tax preferences, and they have."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said top executives of seven of the largest U. S. oil companies will testify under oath Monday before his Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee.

"We are going to ascertain, once and for all, the exact nature, extent and causes of the fuel shortage," Jackson said. "This can be the first step in presenting to the Congress and the American people all of the relevant facts, and replacing rumor and innuendo with solid, hard information" on refinery operations, costs and profits, imports and other details.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N. J., renewed his demand for information from the Justice Department's antitrust division on possible anticompetitive actions by the oil companies which might have pushed fuel prices higher.

Acting in behalf of his House Judiciary subcommittee on monopolies, Rodino requested any evidence of a conspiracy to create a fuel shortage, and data to support Assistant Attorney General Thomas E. Kauper's reported declaration that the shortages were real and not artificial.

Father saves wife, himself

7 children in family die in fire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (UPI) — Martin Bradbury fought his way up the blazing staircase of his home early Saturday, grabbed his protesting wife and flung her out through the window.

Then he jumped himself. Of his eight children in the isolated home overlooking the Atlantic ocean at Torbay, six miles north of here, only 13-year-old Terrance came stumbling out of the burning house.

Cut and bruised themselves, the three watched helplessly as oil-fed flames flashed through the woodframe two-story house.

Seven children, aged two to 14 years, died.

"The last thing he heard was Paul screaming," 19-year-old Gary Bradbury, who did not live with his parents, said after seeing his father in the hospital.

Paul, aged 2, was the youngest of the victims. The others were Craig, 4, Sharon, 6, Rodney, 7, Judy, 8, Anthony, 9, and Richard 14.

The fire apparently began while two of the children were making a cup of tea, Royal Canadian Mounted Police said.

Terry and Richard had been to a hockey game and arrived home about midnight to find their parents and brothers and sisters already upstairs and in bed, Gary said.

"Terry said he and Ricky were lighting the fire to boil the kettle for some tea," Gary said.

"They were using oil from a can to get the fire going, and sparks from the (wood) splits set fire to the oilcan. It spread from the can to the tank behind the stove and the tank exploded," Gary said.

Bradbury, a 40-year-old busdriver was awakened by the blast. He rushed downstairs and by the time he turned back to try to save the rest the staircase was awash with oil and flames.

"He had to fight his way through the fire to get back upstairs. Mom wouldn't leave the house," Gary said. "So he grabbed her and threw her out the window. Then he followed her."

Gary said 14-year-old Ricky escaped with Terry from the blazing kitchen, but Ricky ran back into the house, apparently to help his brothers and sisters. His body was found near the front door, the rest were found upstairs.

By the time neighbor John Malloy arrived, before police or firemen, the house was engulfed and there were no more screams. "I believe they were already dead," Malloy said.

Firemen from St. John's were hampered by lack of water. The house was on a 200-foot cliff above the ocean, a nearby pond was frozen over, and pumps failed to work in the zero temperatures.

It was the second bad fire in Canada within 24 hours. A day earlier, nine persons died in an apartment house fire in Winnipeg, Man.

Poisoned dinners recalled by Kraft

CHICAGO (UPI) — Kraft Foods announced Saturday it had voluntarily recalled its 7 ¼ oz. Kraft Macaroni and cheese dinners which the Food and Drug Administration said contained traces of salmonella.

A company spokesman said the dinners were distributed only in portions of Arizona, California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. According to the FDA, the dinners were also distributed in Utah and Illinois.

The only product under suspicion of reaching distribution is identification No. 9-3074c, Kraft said. In Petersburg, Ill., Mrs. Robert A. Johnson, owner of Gene Supermarket, said she had sold 50 dinners with those serial numbers.

The FDA said that 40,000 cases of the macaroni and cheese dinners were recalled from supermarket shelves.

4 vehicles burn on automobile lot

LA PUENTE — An arson investigation will be conducted Monday into the cause of a fire Saturday which resulted in $16,000 damage to two campers and two motorhomes at Abbott Ford, 1515 N. Hacienda Blvd.

A citizen waved down a sheriff's deputy unit at 5:23 a.m. and alerted them to the blaze.

County fire units from stations 43 and 26 knocked down the fire in 25 minutes.

Kissinger on road to Syria via Jordan

By United Press International

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger took his personal Middle East diplomacy to Jordan Saturday as the first step toward trying to win a Syrian-Israeli agreement to disengage their troops on the Golan Heights. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat flew to Damascus for the same purpose.

The task appeared even more formidable than the Israeli-Egyptian agreement Kissinger achieved in a week of commuter flights between Jerusalem and the Egyptian Nile River resort city of Aswan. There was a possibility that more shuttle flights, between Damascus and Jerusalem, might be necessary.

The Israeli-Egyptian agreement appeared to be taking hold Saturday as the U.N. Emergency Force headquarters in Cairo reported no cease-fire violations along the canal for the second straight day.

Syrian President Hafez Assad was reported angered by Sadat's agreement with Israel and suspicious that it might free the Israeli army to act against Syria and Jordan. If Kissinger and Sadat can soothe Assad's doubts and fears, there still remained the overriding problem of the Israeli prisoners of war held by Syria.

Israeli Deputy Premier Yigal Allon reaffirmed Saturday there can be no Israel-Syrian disengagement talks unless Syria releases a list of POWs and permits the International Red Cross to see the prisoners. Sadat says there can be no discussion of POWs until Israel withdraws from all Arab territory occupied by Israel.

The Israeli-Jordan frontier has been completely quiet although both Jordan and Israel have troops along the border. During the war Jordan made no move to cross its 230-mile border with Israel. But at the Geneva conference in December, the Jordanian delegation said it wanted disengagement along its frontier with Israel immediately.

Jordan entered the October war against Israel Oct. 13, one week after it started, by sending two elite armored brigades to fight on the Golan Heights front. The Jordanian troops remained in Syria until early this month.

King Hussein would welcome a troop disengagement, but even more he wants return of the Jordan West Bank occupied by Israel during the 1967 Six Day War.

Congress returns for second session Monday facing arduous workload

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second session of the 93rd Congress opens Monday, faced with the possible impeachment trial and ouster of President Nixon.

An arduous legislative workload faces Congress, but the election-year session will be dominated by the first serious impeachment move since the presidency of Andrew Johnson.

Major legislation in the fields of energy, wage-price controls, trade, no-fault insurance, tax reform, national health insurance, political campaign reform, housing, mass transit, and pension reform plus the annual battle of the budget are waiting for the members of Congress returning from a one-month recess.

A hoped for signal from the voters on the question of Nixon's impeachment failed to materialize during the recess, leaving House members no surer about what course to take than before they left Dec. 22.

A UPI survey showed deep concern about the energy crisis, a mood certain to be reflected in congressional votes this year. The victims may well be the major oil companies, whose activities have been traditionally inviolate.

These are the issues that should be dominant as Congress moves through the year:

Impeachment —The House Judiciary Committee has opened its inquiry into possible grounds for impeachment of Nixon. The earliest the committee could reach a finding would be the latter part of April.

Watergate —The Senate Watergate committee will decide, probably this week, whether to resume public hearings into the Watergate scandal or start writing its report and recommendations. If hearings resume, they would deal with a $100,000 campaign donation by financier Howard Hughes to President Nixon which was held for two years by C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo, Nixon's closest friend. An appearance by Rebozo could revive the flagging investigation.

Energy —An almost endless number of Senate and House committees and subcommittees are ready to investigate the energy crisis —whether it exists, who caused it, what can be done about it. The step will be an attempt to pass legislation giving President Nixon sweeping powers to deal with the crisis, including rationing of gasoline. The bill, which includes a curb on windfall profits for the major oil companies, was stymied by a Senate filibuster at the end of the last session.

Wage-price controls —Current wage-price controls expires April 30 and Congress will have to take some action —either extending Nixon's authority or possibly setting some specific guidelines.

Taxes —President Nixon has announced he will offer legislation to impose excess profits tax on oil companies for the duration of the energy crisis. Some form of this proposal is certain of enactment (it might hit the oil companies harder than the administration wants) and it could serve as a vehicle for a wide-range of tax reforms.

Trade —The House has passed trade reform legislation which gives Nixon broad authority to negotiate reductions in U. S. tariffs. It includes a provision that denies favorable trade terms to Russia until it liberalizes its emigration policy for Jews. The Senate Finance Committee will begin hearings shortly but the anti-Russian provision is sure to stay in.

Pension —The Senate has passed a bill which would protect worker's pension rights if a company has a pension plan. The House is expected to act soon on similiar legislation.

Campaign Reform — The Senate has passed and the House plans hearings soon on a broad package of political campaign reforms. The Senate bill would put strict limits on campaign spending and campaign contributions. The Senate also passed legislation which would provide federal financing of presidential elections and primaries and state and house races. But the proposal was a rider to an increase in the debt ceiling which later was passed separately.

National Health Insurance — After a year of internal squabbling, the administration finally appears ready to submit legislation which would provide insurance to pay for the increasingly high costs of health care. The administration's proposal has not been spelled out and the ideas in Congress range all the way to cradle-to-grave protection.

Budget —Nixon is ready to spring a record-breaking budget of around $300 billion for fiscal 1975. Congress will make an attempt to shape its own budget, putting more money into domestic programs, less into defense.

Reagan wins sports award for 'the Gipper'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan finally won one for "the Gipper" himself Saturday when he received the "Mr. Sam Award" of the Touchdown Club of Washington.

The former Hollywood actor's portrayal of Notre Dame's famed George Gipp in the "Knute Rockne Story" was among his contributions to sports cited by the club in making the award.

Also mentioned were Reagan's years as a sportscaster and his winning of three varsity letters at Eureka College in Illinois.

Making the presentation to Reagan was Vice President Gerald R. Ford, a football star at the University of Michigan before entering politics.

The "Mr. Sam Award," named for the late Democratic House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, is awarded annually to a government official who has "fostered and contributed to sports."

Others honored at the Touchdown Club's 39th annual awards dinner included U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who has come into the limelight by presiding over the Watergate case.

Sirica, an amateur boxer in his youth, won the club's "Local Boy Makes Good Award."

Both Ford and Reagan dodged questions about whether they were preparing to get into the "big game" for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination.

"He's too tough competition for me," Ford said when asked whether he might be competing with Reagan for the nomination.

Asked whether he thought the GOP nomination might be worth anything in light of the Watergate affair, Ford replied: "You're darn right it will be."

Asked whether he would see President Nixon before leaving, Reagan said he had come to Washington only for the Touchdown Club event and had "not been invited" to the White House.

Adm. Rickover on sea of matrimony?

Operational plan well-kept secret

CHICAGO (UPI) — Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, 73, may have sailed into matrimony Saturday with a Navy nurse 30 years his junior, but if so, he kept his operations submerged.

Rickover's intended, Navy Cmdr. Eleonore Ann Bednowicz, 43, a nurse at the Great Lakes Naval Hospital, was gone all day from her Waukegan, Ill., home.

Her father, Peter Bednowicz, of the Chicago suburb of Schaumburg, told callers, "They're getting married Saturday...but we're not telling where."

Rickover's office in Washington confirmed he was away in Chicago on "personal business," but gave no details.

Word of the impending marriage surfaced Friday with reports Rickover, a pioneer in the development of the nuclear submarine, had obtained a marriage license.

The admiral was reported to have met the nurse when she was assigned to the Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington, D.C. when he was a patient.

Rickover's first wife, Ruth, died May 25, 1972 at age 69.

Argentinan held captive freed, 2 abductors killed

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A kidnaped Argentine businessman has been freed and two of his abductors killed in a gunfight with police, authorities said Saturday. The son of an industrialist was freed after a ransom payment in a separate incident.

Detectives intercepted a ransom payment near Buenos Aires Friday, arrested a suspected member of the ring that had abducted Raul J. Osmolski on Jan. 8, and raided a hideout the prisoner located for them in a southwestern suburb, police said.

Several of 16 well armed men found in the building fired on the officers, who returned the fire and killed two members of the ring.

Osmolski was freed unharmed.

The family of Roberto J. Raichberg, 18, who was kidnaped last Wednesday, said his abductors threatened to cut his ear off if the equivalent of $150,000 in the ransom was not paid rapidly—as happened last year in Italy to the teenage grandson of multi-millionaire J. Paul Getty.

The family confirmed a ransom was paid and the boy was released early Saturday.

Police had no reports of progress in other kidnaping cases, including those of two Americans and one Frenchman.

The guerrilla group, People's Revolutionary Army (ERP.), said last week that the Esso Argentina Oil Co. had agreed to donate $10 million in supplies to poor areas in exchange for the release of Victor E. Samuelson, an American plant manager kidnaped Dec. 6. Esso has had no comment on the claim.

Another group, not identified, has demanded a $500,000 ransom for the release of Charles Hayes, an American kidnaped Dec. 20. A letter written by Hayes to local newspapers complained that his company, McKee Tesca, a subsidiary of McKee Cleveland, was not willing to pay the ransom.

The French Peugeot automobile firm has confirmed that it is in contact with the kidnapers of Yves Boisset, a Peugeot executive abducted Dec. 28.

Fire put out after 40 years

WARSAW (UPI) — A fire in a coal mine in southern Poland has been extinguished after burning for 40 years, the Polish news agency PAP said Friday.

PAP said the blaze was put out by experts who pumped dust through special vents dug into the mine, which is part of the Polska coal complex in Silesia.

Poland doubles gasoline price

WARSAW (UPI) — Poland Saturday almost doubled the price of gasoline and also announced sharp price increases on alcoholic beverages and taxi fares.

Prime Minister Piotr Jaroszewicz said the rise in gasoline prices was necessary because it had remained unchanged "for many years."

"The prices of fuels in Poland have been on the same level for many years and they were rather low," Jaroszewicz told the Polish parliament.

Under the new price system high octane gasoline from Sunday will cost $2.08 per gallon, up from $1.21 per gallon.

Jaroszewicz said the new prices "will contribute to a more rational use of cars" in Poland.

Poland instituted limited restrictions on the use of vehicles and gasoline Dec. 1. The program consisted of a 50 mile per hour speed limit and a reduction of fuel rations to state-owned cars.

Fraternity pledges beaten by gridders

Demand major penalty for roughing

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Angry fraternity brothers Saturday demanded punishment for a group of football players who, they said, beat two freshmen pledges.

Paul Lokey, a spokesman for the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity at Florida State University, said about 30 or 40 members of the Seminoles football team barged into the 20-bedroom fraternity house Tuesday night to avenge an incident that occurred three nights before.

"They took over the place and held a kangaroo court after some guy who's not even a player had the air taken out of his tires," Lokey said. "They slapped a few of our members around."

Lokey said the players pounded on pledge David Faulk until he was unconscious and "still kept beating him. It was brutal."

Faulk and another injured pledge, Robin Szabo, filed preliminary charges of malicious trespassing against the players Thursday.

The players dashed out of the house as Tallahassee police officers and campus security force arrived.

No arrests have been made, but fraternity members said they were able to identify the players involved.

"Right now, we're waiting for the university to finish an investigation of what happened," said Joe Sanfillipo, fraternity president.

Sanfillipo, a senior physical education major who plans to be a football coach, said the fraternity did not want to destroy the Seminole team, which ended an 0-11 season last year.

Lokey said the fraternity wanted some players suspended from the university and the scholarships of several others revoked.

The Seminoles' new coach, Darrell Mudra, was out of town, but FSU Athletic Director John Bridgers sent a letter of apology to the fraternity.

De la Beckwith held innocent in time bomb case

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Byron de la Beckwith, tried twice but never convicted of assassinating civil rights leader Medgar Evers in 1963, was acquitted Saturday of charges he carried a ticking time bomb into New Orleans last Sept. 27.

Beckwith promptly declared his entire five-month ordeal was the result of a "deeply laid plot."

Beckwith, 53, a Mississippi farm machinery salesman, was found innocent by an eight-man, four-woman jury after two days of deliberations that began at 1:40 p.m. Friday.

The Greenwood, Miss. resident also faces state charges in connection with the case. A trial date on those charges has not been set.

"Well, of course it was the result of a deeply laid plot. It had to be," Beckwith said. "But as was pointed out, there are people who are in high places who know how this came about.

The government claimed during the week-long trial that Beckwith wanted to plant the dynamite bomb at the home of Adolph I. Botnick, regional director of the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League.

Beckwith, taking the stand himself, denied any knowledge of the bomb or a map—showing a route stopping two blocks from Botnick's home—which reportedly was found on the front seat of his car at the time of his arrest.

Infant suffering rare ailment dies

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Eight-month-old Shane Shirley, the infant whose parents sold their home to pay for a trip to Texas in a desperate attempt to save his life, died Friday night of a rare liver problem. His parents were at his side.

"He died peacefully," said Mrs. Jimmy W. Shirley at Children's Hospital.

"We knew it was going to happen," Mrs. Shirley said, "But I feel numb. Numb and lost. After eight months of nursing him, you feel just lost. It's going to take a while for the shock to wear off."

Shane was born with a biliary atresia, a congenital closing of a normal opening.

Street lights dimmed

Moscow also facing energy cuts

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow, in the first visible sign that the Soviet Union may be experiencing an energy shortage, has dimmed its street lights.

Western diplomats said Saturday the cause appeared to be insufficient fuel for power generating stations in this city of seven million persons. They said the problem also affected many other regions in the European part of the country.

"There is plenty of fuel and natural gas in Siberia, but the problem is getting it here in sufficient quantities," said one diplomat who has studied the situation.

The first cutback of street lighting came in early December when they were dimmed at 11 p.m. instead of the usual midnight. A week or 10 days later, the cut was moved up to 9 p.m.

By the month's end, city authorities were turning on lights at dusk at half power. Illumination of monuments and buildings has also been curtailed except in Red Square and the Kremlin.

Other signs of a shortage include increasingly frequent closure of service stations for varying periods during the day for lack of fuel.

Bus and taxi drivers appear more conscientious about using the long-time Soviet habit of coasting down hills or inclines in neutral to save fuel.

The full cutback in street lighting followed a Dec. 26 front page report in Moskovskaya Pravda, the newspaper of the Communist party of Moscow, which called for greater efforts to conserve energy.

"It is necessary to conduct an all-out intensification of economy of energy resources in all enterprises — industrial, transport and construction," said V.P. Isayev, first deputy chairman of the executive committee of the Moscow council.

At the same time, he warned that the saving of energy should not "negatively affect the supply of heating to dwellings, childrens institutions, hospitals, schools and other consumers."

Some diplomats interpreted this as a sign reduced heating might have been ordered in stores, offices and factories.

Fog hampers search for bodies

PILOTTOWN, La. (UPI) — A layer of fog on the Mississippi River Saturday hampered the search for 14 missing seamen and firefighting efforts against two ships set afire by a collision.

The ships, the tanker Key Trader carrying 152,000 barrels of home heating oil, and the ore carrier Baune collided Friday at the mouth of the Mississippi. Two crewmen are known dead.

Coast Guard firefighting crews Friday night and early Saturday put out fires which ranged a mile down the surface of the river because of the floating, burning fuel oil. However, both ships continued to burn Saturday.

In the first hours of the accident, 61 crewmen were saved, either by climbing onto rescue boats or swinging into Coast Guard helicopters.

The Key Trader spewed black smoke and sometimes gave off burning oil. The Baune was smoking from her engine room.

Four Coast Guard cutters were on scene conducting traffic on the river, which was closed for a time because of the emergency and helping fight the fires on the ships.

Both vessels were leaking oil into the water.

"Our captain stayed on board until everyone was safe on the lifeboat," said crewman Frank Maniatakos, Warwick, R.I., of Capt. William M. Taylor, who later returned to the Key Trader for a time in a futile effort to activate its automatic fire control system.

The terror of the collision was still with another survivor, Mel Harrison, Monahans, Tex.

"Our lookout man, on the bow, was engulfed in flames. I don't think he made it," Harrison said.

Norris Sapp, the tanker's radio operator, was one of the lucky who jumped into the river and swam for an hour but survived. He was hospitalized with burns and bruises.

Body found near auto on Baldy Rd.

CLAREMONT — The body of an Upland businessman was discovered next to his parked car by a U. S. Forest ranger Saturday morning on Mt. Baldy Road, just north of Shinn road.

The ranger reported finding the kneeling body of Eugene Delos Yates, 46, of 330 Deborah Court, Upland, next to the passenger side of his 1972 model car, about 11:45 a.m.

Sheriff's deputies from the San Dimas substation said they discovered a self-inflicted bullet wound just behind the right ear. A 9 mm automatic pistol was in the right hand.

Mrs. David Spring of La Puente, chairman of the association's San Gabriel-Pomona Valley Regional Council, said the talk is geared primarily toward parents of asthmatic children.

A discussion period will follow Dr. Wiseman's talk.

Those interested in attending are asked to call (213) 332-3442 and ask for regional director Robert Fields.

Man dashing across street hit by auto

CHINO — A Chino man was hit by a car when he tried to dash across Central Avenue here late Friday night in heavy fog.

Neil Robert Renville, 50, of 15556 Country Club Drive, suffered multiple injuries in the accident and is reported to be in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit at Chino General Hospital.

According to investigating Highway Patrol officials, Renville was hit by a car driven by Santiago S. Canales, 52, of 12979 14th St., shortly before midnight Friday.

Car hits rock; driver injured

MT. BALDY — A 19-year-old Upland man was seriously injured here Friday night when his car slammed into a huge boulder on the edge of Mt. Baldy Road south of Shinn Road.

A rescue unit from the Los Angeles County Fire Department needed about 30 minutes to pry Jeffery Trobaugh, 805 Linden Court, from the wreckage of his car.

He was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital where he was listed Saturday in serious condition in the hospital's intensive care unit. He suffered multiple injuries.

18-foot-high, 20-mile-long curtain to be work of art

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI) — Christo Javacheff says an 18-foot-high nylon curtain he'll hang on a 20-mile-long fence that disappears into the Pacific Ocean will be a work of art. He says he isn't worried what the critics think.

"It's only an art project," said the Bulgarian-born artist who two years ago stretched a 250,000-square-foot curtain across a valley in the Colorado Rockies. "It's part of my work, that's all.

"I don't know if the public will recognize it as a work of art. They'll have to make up their minds after they see the curtain."

Javacheff, whose previous works include covering the Australian coast with plastic and draping five nudes in Philadelphia with translucent cloth, said the new curtain will stretch from Petaluma, Calif., about a quarter-mile into the Pacific.

He said he would begin hanging the curtain and fence, estimated to cost $500,000, in May and that work should be completed by next august.

Javacheff currently is building a model fence outside Golden, a Denver suburb, to test the structure against high winds. Work on the test fence began this week.

Ted Daugherty, a spokesman for the company building the prototype fence, said the finished project "will disappear, even at low tide. You won't be able to see where it stops or starts. It will fade into the ocean."

Javacheff said he didn't care how long the frence and curtain stayed up.

Crocodile may have vitamin deficiency

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Smiley, my crocodile, must have sore gums because they look bloody sometimes. The last time he bit on something — my belt buckle — was months ago so it couldn't be that. What would it be from, do you think? How do you treat it? Would a veterinarian treat his mouth? I don't plan to. — D.D.

Dear D.D.: The doctor would first try to determine the cause. Your croc — presumably a caiman? — could have a vitamin deficiency. Nutritional problems are common in captive reptiles of all types and an inadequate supply of vitamins — some of the B complex, C, and-or K — could be factors here. Certainly the sooner Smiley is treated, the sooner he will have something to smile about.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Should I worry because Tom is drinking heavier as he gets older, or do all old tom cats do this? — A.A.

Dear A.A.: Many aging tom cats do indeed drink more heavily. These fluid-favoring felines are responding to their body's increased need for fluids. This call usually results from deterioriating kidney function. The drinker should be encouraged, not deprived. Cutting down on fluids while the kidneys are calling for more will result in rapid kidney failure.

One of the problems in handling geriatric felines is frequently the fact they don't drink enough fluids to supply their body needs.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I have always used hamburger, until recently, to add to my dog's dog food. She won't eat it plain. Lately, to cut costs a little, I have started using some of this imitation hamburger. It has what is called textured vegetable protein in it. Is there anything wrong with this for my dog? — R.G.

Dear R.G.: The extended hamburger product that I am familiar with is a premixed combination of ground beef with vegetable protein derived from soybeans. This type of product contains 70 to 80 per cent hamburger. Its total protein content is equal to or above that of the hamburger. The protein portion of this particular soybean preparation is deficient in vitamins and minerals that would be found in the rest of the hamburger, though this should be of no consequence the way you are using it. (Note: Hamburger is not a complete food for your dog, anyway, of course.) The over-all product is certainly acceptable from a nutritional standpoint as you are using it. Flavor? Well, that's your dog's decision.

Oil, gas execs being probed by 2 agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) have launched an antitrust investigation of oil and gas executives who serve on the boards of one or more competing corporations, according to Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla.

Guenter said that he received a letter from Assistant Attorney General Thomas E. Kauper of the antitrust division saying a Justice Department investigation is under way and that "we understand FTC's is also."

Gunter last month urged the two agencies to investigate possible violations of the Clayton Act by high industry officials who appear to serve on multiple corporate boards of firms engaged in competing aspects of the energy business. He enclosed a list of 30 top energy officials who appear to have such conflicts.

Sleepless and all pedaled out

I had a dream the other night that bicycles became "King of the Road" and my husband and I were at the mercy of our two sons for our transportation needs.

We were sitting at the dinner table when I grumbled, "I've had my bicycle temporary license for three weeks now and do you know how many times you've taken out out? Once!"

"I've been busy," said my son. "Why don't you drive your car?"

"And get run off the road by bicycles? Besides, all the other mothers drive bicycles to the store and I'm the only one in a car. Their sons take time to take them out."

"I've been busy," he said. "Besides, I'm not sure you're ready."

"I'm 46 years old!" I shouted.

"Some people are not mature at 60," he said.

"Well, how am I ever going to get mature if you don't take me out?"

"Okay, okay," he said. "After dinned."

I hopped onto the seat and said, "Where do you want me to drive?"

"Hold it!" he said. "This bicycle doesn't move until you put on your helmet, strap your feet to the pedals and familiarize yourself with the manual."

"Big deal. I've seen you drive this a millon times." I started to pedal. My son began to perspire. "You pedal backwards one more time while you're shifting and I am taking away your bicycle clamp. I mean it. You'll tear those gears right out of there. If I've told you once I've told you a million times, you cannot shift without pedaling. Do you understand that?"

I nodded. "Good, now start off slow and ease into traffic. Not too far over, you're in the gravel. Keep in the center of the road and now shift into the next gear. No. No. YOU FORGOT TO PEDAL!"

"It's this seat," I complained. "You've got it up too high for me."

"I didn't touch the seat. That's the way it is. Use your mirror, for crying out loud, and relax!"

"How can I relax when you are shouting at me?"

As I walked into the driveway with the bike, another son asked, "How did she do?"

"She cruised in low gear, bent the reflector, broke a spoke and forgot the combination to the bike lock. She's grounded!"

I don't know about you, but I'm not sleeping until this energy mess is cleared up.

The temperature on the Dutch island of Aruba, off the South American coast, varies less than four degrees year-round. The average yearly temperature is 82 degrees.

They go to school in a real dive

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The "classroom" for one study course at Highline Community College is a 260-foot pier so new that barnacles haven't yet found it.

The subject used by students utilizing the concrete facility situated at Redondo Beach on Puget Sound, 20 miles south of Seattle, is the technique of commercial diving, or deep sea diving.

The program is financed in part through sea grant awards doled out through a division of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration of the Department of Commerce.

So far, Highline, a two-year college, has been given $215,000, most of it to support participation in the Tektite II program in the Virgin Islands. In 1970 Highline's entire diving instruction program was moved to the project site on St. John Island to serve as support and safety divers for aquanaut-scientists working in the undersea habitat project.

Since Highline began technical diving in 1967, it has graduated 72, two-thirds of whom have been placed in jobs throughout the world, mostly with off-shore oil drilling, marine construction and salvage firms. One, a woman, is an oceanographer at an eastern university.

The school has more than $165,000 worth of equipment, most of it donated or purchased with federal funds. The gear includes a diving bell, recompression chamber and dive control console. A 10-ton crane is used to raise and lower hardhat student divers as well as the bell.

The new pier, situated four miles from the college campus, was built after another nearby pier, which had been leased by the school, was condemned by county officials as unsafe to hold the equipment. The course instructors are two master divers, Peter A. Williams and Maurice P. Talbot, both with experience dating back to salvage work in World War II.

"Deep sea diving may look glamorous," said Williams, who has been with the school since the diving course began. "But actually it is a lot of hard work. A lot of attention must be paid to engineering requirements and safety procedures."

He said applications are received from throughout the country. All candidates are screened for physical as well as emotional factors. And all must have scuba diving certification to enter the program.

During the first year, students take 16 to 18 credits, one to three more than the normal student work load—for three quarters of "dry land" instruction except for life saving courses conducted in the college's indoor pool.

After that, they get down to the basics, learning skills common to all seafaring men such as marlinspike seamanship as well as the physiology and basic skills of diving, sea safety and decompression.

"SICK STOMACH OK NOW"

Says Mrs. Ruiz, "I had stomach trouble mucho malo. It used to burn like fire and I couldn't eat anything without terrible pains. I was so nervous I could hardly think. Then my brother told me to see Dr. Wing, and after a few weeks I was much better. Soon I was well enough to stop all treatments and it is now 10 years ago and my stomach and nerves are fine."

New process for gold-relief medal

By MORT REED

The Letcher Mint of Lancaster, California has just struck the first of 12 Gold Relief medals honoring 12 great Americans. It is the first attempt at striking solid gold in relief on solid silver and should not be confused with "gold leaf" or gold plating.

The bas-relief figure is 24 karat pure gold fused together in a manner that makes the completed medal one solid structure. In other words, the central device or head is a 5 grain piece of 24 Karat gold layed on a .999 pure silver planchet and permanently bonded during the striking. A most unusual process, as any metallurgist will confirm.

In the past, coins and medals containing a "gold plug" have been successfully produced to give a gold and silver combination, but this particular process took some 5 years of metallurgical research plus thousands of dollars in development costs. And while I do not own a specimen of this series, I have had the opportunity to examine a copy under laboratory conditions and found it to be fascinating.

Readers interested in the "Twelve Great American" series should direct their inquiries to The Letcher Mint, P.O. Box 107, Lancaster, California 93534. The series is limited to 5000 copies for Letcher Mint Collectors and 4,800 for public consumption.

The 12-piece set sells for $275.00 and a presentation case will accompany the second medal struck.

LOSE A POUND A DAY AND MORE

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

E-DIET AVAILABLE

To get a copy of this highly successful diet and E Tablets, send $5.00 for 10-day supply (or $7.00 for 20-day supply or $10.00 for 30-day supply) to: Vita-E Diet, Dept. D7, 11526 Burbank Bl., North Hollywood, Cal. 91601 (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied). Adv

America and the future of man

Genetic control one way science serves, harms us

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 17th of 20 essays by leading men in the world's academic community. The writer of this essay is distinguished professor of biology at the State University of New York, Stony Brook, N.Y. Herein he discusses how science can be both hero and villain.)

By BENTLEY GLASS

Copyright, 1973, Regents of the University of California

What are the implications of our new knowledge of genetics for the future of biological man? A consideration of this question well illustrates how science can be both hero and villain.

We have now completely mastered the sciences of animal and plant breeding—witness the so-called Green Revolution.

The methods used are mostly the classical ones employed by shrewd farmers and husbandmen from time immemorial, but today made more efficient by applying to them the current knowledge of genetics, the science of heredity and variation.

The animal breeder who wants a new breed of dog, or a combination in his cattle of both superior milk production and good beef qualities, uses the abundant genetic variety that already exists in every living population. He chooses certain characteristics and then crosses types that can contribute to this desired combination of qualities.

Often the desired traits are diluted or disappear completely in the hybrid offspring; but when these in turn are crossed, the wanted traits reappear together in a proportion of the offspring. The breeder then selects the wanted and discards the unwanted, controlling the matings until a pure-breeding strain is produced.

Same in plants

The plant breeder acts similarly. The "Miracle Rice" created at the International Rice Research Institute at Los Banos, in the Philippines, combines a shorter, heavier stalk that resists flattening before the wind with very high production of grain when the soil is treated with a high level of fertilizer.

There are thousands of such examples. Repeated crossing and selection are so effective that often no other procedures are required.

A few newer developments can be used whenever the basic method is insufficient. The desired characteristics may not exist in the species at present. Then one can expose the reproductive cells (eggs and sperms) to a sizable dose of X rays or to some chemical agent that will produce permanent hereditary alterations of the genes, which control all inherited qualities.

After many undesired mutations which must be discarded, eventually the right one may turn up.

In plants, other techniques can be used successfully. For example, the hybrid between a radish and a cabbage, which are plants of the same family, is usually quite sterile. However, application of the drug colchicine can double the chromosome number and restore fertility.

Poor results

Unfortunately for human use, the resulting true-breeding hybrid species has prickly leaves like a radish plant and a root like a cabbage—but things might have turned out the other way.

The cells of a carrot may be separated and then grown in an appropriate culture medium. The cells multiply and gradually come together in the right way to form a little carrot plant again.

Recently it has been shown that one can obtain plant hybrids by growing separated cells from two related species in a single culture medium. By certain treatments some of them can be induced to unite.

These fused hybrid cells serve as the originators of a pure hybrid cell culture, from which a little hybrid plant can be obtained. New species of tobacco can also be produced in this way.

Another technique of animal breeders involves freezing the semen of the male, which can then be transported by air from continent to continent and used to artificially inseminate females with different qualities. The frozen sperms can be banked indefinitely at very low temperatures, so that a bull long dead may continue to have offspring.

Frozen future

This well-established practice may in the near future be supplemented by freezing entire embryos, derived from highly selected parents; for it has recently been reported that mouse embryos, subjected to a slow freezing followed by a slow thawing, can develop normally to full term when implanted in the uterus of a foster mother.

There is little doubt that this technique will be extended to farm animals. Presumably, it should be applicable to human embryos also. Cattle embryos have already been shipped by air from continent to continent inside the uterus of a doe rabbit, in which they can survive undamaged for 48 hours or more.

Pig embryos have been similarly shipped successfully in tubes of culture medium. In both cases normal young were born to the foster mothers in whom the embryos were implanted. The shipment of frozen embryos, which may have been stored for months or years, is no longer a wild flight of fancy.

We are therefore entering a time when genetically selected plant and animal strains may be preserved indefinitely, for future use, by appropriate freezing of the reproductive cells or the young embryos. We can thus avoid one of the greatest perils now facing life on earth, the exposure of the high energy radiations of nuclear explosions and fallout of a nuclear war.

Among the living survivors—human, plant, and animal—such radiation may be expected to destory their fertility or to produce great numbers of lethal or seriously detrimental mutations of their genes.

Life banks

Governments with foresight will soon be forced to the obvious precaution. The germ plasm of selected strains of those plant and animal species on which man depends for food will need to be stored, deep frozen, in underground caverns, fully protected from the radiation above ground.

So what for mankind itself? The biologist can see no reason why, in principle, these techniques should not also be applied to that most precious of all living substances, the germ plasm of man. Already, particularly in the Physiological Laboratory of Cambridge University in England, the steps are being worked out.

Volunteer women, unable to conceive because their Fallopian tubes are blocked, are treated with gonadotropins.

These hormones produce superoculation, that is, a simultaneous release of several mature ova from the ovaries. The ova are recovered by a simple surgical operation, placed in a suitable culture medium in the laboratory, and then fertilized by sperm from the woman's husband.

Dr. R..G Edwards and his colleagues have successfully reared the embryos thus produced to the blastocyst stage of development. This is the hollow ball of a few hundred cells that normally becomes implanted in the wall of the maternal uterus, where it forms a placenta that provides for the transfer of food and oxygen to the fetus and for the transfer of wastes from the fetal blood into the mother's circulation.

Artificial birth due

Quite soon now, we may expect an announcement that an embryo has been successfully implanted in one of those women and that she has delivered a normal baby.

The growth of the embryo in the glass and plastic vessels of the laboratory offers a great opportunity to study its development and to reject any embryos with abnormalities. The many tests now being developed to detect defects in later stages of fetal growth, by means of amniocentesis (the use of a surgical needle to withdraw some amniotic fluid from the sac around the fetus for testing), can be applied to the early embryo while it is developing in the laboratory culture.

Biochemical defects, such as that which gives rise to Tay-Sachs disease, or chromosome abnormalities, such as that which causes mongolism, can be detected, and the embryo rejected in favor of one that is normal. Thus prospective parents who carry the same recessive harmful gene may be able to pretest the embryo that is to be implanted.

Genetic clinics?

Medical clinics devoted to such reproductive and genetic diagnosis and counseling will surely multiply in the near future.

But should the practice described be limited to the use of sperms from the husband and ova from the wife who desire to have an implanted embryo? Could wider extension of the practice be avoided? Might it even be eugenically desirable, say, to have frozen stocks of the "best" human spermatozoa and ova available for general use, and not just in case of a nuclear war?

The possibility clearly exists. However, one should be cautious about advocating every practice that is biologically feasible. At present we certainly do not know how to select the "best" genetic strains of a human population.

In our farm animals and cultivated plants, the "best" is simply whatever suits the needs, or even whims, of man.

The best, in an evolutionary sense, is that which holds greatest promise of adaptation to whatever sorts of environment the future will bring.

Our ability to detect specific defects of a genetic nature is increasing very raidly. Already we know that each one of us possesses about eight harmful genes of varied severity.

Consequently, none of us can guarantee to provide defect-free germ plasm for future generations, and the embroys would have to be screened for defects before they are implanted.

What do we want?

On the other hand, the very choice of a superior germ plasm, apart from freedom from gross defects, requires us to predict what the future environment of man will be, to ascertain our goals, and to be able to measure the chosen characteristics. Take superior intelligence as a specific example.

Indubitably, man has reached his present high status among animal species because of his brain and his intelligence.

It is conceivable, however, that any further advancement of intelligence might require a larger brain, and therefore a larger head that would cause extreme difficulty to the mother in labor. Perhaps Caeserian delivery or the growth of fetuses in glass chambers would be necessary.

Or a superior intelligence might simply bring into being a kind of person so sensitive as to be unable to withstand the stresses of the impoverished and overcrowded environment that is resulting from our exploitation of the biosphere. Furthermore, high intelligence without accompanying idealism, morality, and fellow-responsibility would be positively dangerous.

Can we breed such characteristics too? It is highly doubtful.

In any case, we cannot at the present time even measure intelligence very accurately. What does the IQ really measure?

Two-edged sword

Certainly not some of the highest aspects of genuis, which may be very special in an otherwise rather ordinary person. Finally, what we might sacrifice, were we to try today to breed a better mankind, could be the very diversity among races and within populations that has been fully as important in the successful evolution of man as his superior intelligence.

As in so many instances in which science has given man new powers, this power to control the course for future human evolution is a two-edged sword with which we may fatally wound ourselves. The power lies in our hands, but our goals are unsure and the road ahead is dark. Should we venture forward, or should we await better vision? The probability is that, while many hang back, a few bold adventurers will of their own free choice proceed toward the human control of human evolution.

All of us have a stake in the choice that will determine the future nature of mankind.

Fertilizer industry told to 'hold line on prices'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Concerned about the effects of higher fertilizer prices on America's grocery bill, Director John T. Dunlop of the Cost of Living Council urged the fertilizer industry Wednesday to hold the line on prices at least through mid-summer.

In telegrams to 63 fertilizer producers, Dunlop asked the manufacturers not to raise prices until at least June 30 from the level they reached on Dec. 31.

Since price controls were lifted on the industry Oct. 24, prices for fertilizer have skyrocketed. Dunlop threatened to reimpose controls if prices continued to soar.

Last week, Dunlop called in several major fertilizer industry executives for some tough talk.

Power of position

Horses sometimes don't stumble

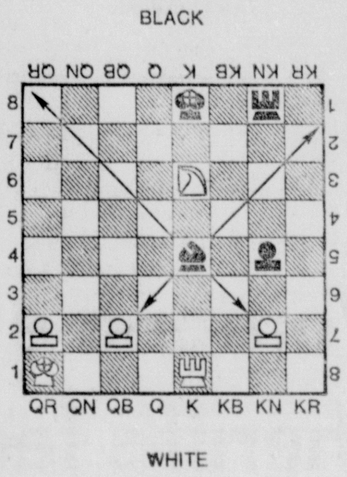
By SHELBY LYMAN

The knight is usually characterized by its relatively short range. Over the long haul, it comes off second best to the bishop more often than not.

This fact is often presented statistically by saying that the bishop is slightly more valuable than the knight. Some books tell us that if we assign a value of 3 to the knight, the bishop is worth 3¼.

Yet it is not extraordinary for the knight to demonstrate startling range. A peculiar example of knight vs. bishop is given in our first diagram.

(Diagram 1)

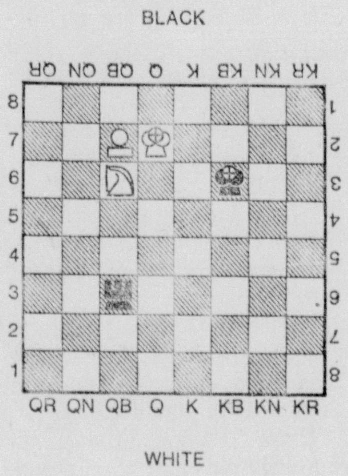


Black to move

White, who is two pawns ahead, has an easy win whatever happens. But the fact that the white knight will be able to exchange itself for the bishop makes white's job even easier.

The black bishop, under attack by the white rock, must move. Whichever of the 11 possible squares the bishop chooses to stop at, the white knight will be able to attack it with a discovered check. In a sense, the white knight "controls" the two major "white" diagonals.

(Diagram 2)

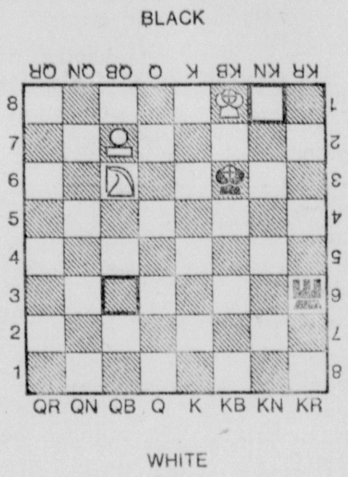


Black to move; white wins

In our second position, white must win because of its knight's effective blocking powers and surprising range.

Black can stave off immediate defeat by harassing the white king until diagram three is reached.

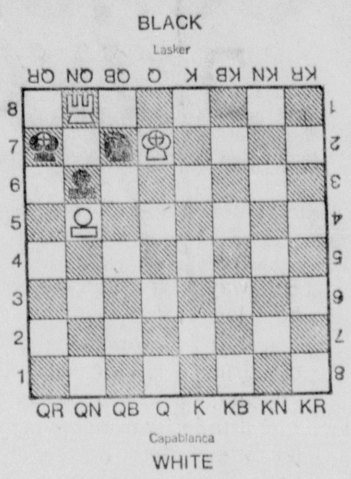
(Diagram 3)



White has a winning move

An immediate pawn promotion allows black to mate in one but white can win simply by 1. N-K7. The knight is simultaneously eyeing KN8, where it will block the rook check, and QB3, which is no longer available to the black rook because of the potential knight check and fork at Q5.

(Diagram 4)



White can win

Our last position features one of the most hapless knight situations on record. The position was reached in a speed game between Capablanca and Lasker. If you study the position, you will see that the win is not obvious. If white plays 1. KxN, the result is stalemate! If the white rook simply moves away to safety, black plays NxP and draws easily.

But there is a win for white and Capablanca found it. The winning move is 1. R-R8 check!! If 1 . . . KxR, white plays KxN and wins the king and pawn endgame. On the other hand, if 1 . . . NxR, white plays 2. K-B8! and the knight will be forced to immolate itself at B2, after which the endgame is again lost.

As always, the power of the pieces is a function of the positions the players achieve for them.

Biting off ear hardly rarity

ATHENS (UPI) — Constantine Daoutis, 25, enraged because waiter Nicos Anagnostopoulos refused to serve him a bowl of tripe soup, bit off the waiter's left ear.

Doctors at Athens Medical Center stitched back the ear.

Anagnostopoulos, 53, said it all began when he refused to serve Constantine Daoutis, a bowl of tripe soup.

"He provoked me," Daoutis said.

Doctors said the case of Anagnostopoulos was not unique in Piraeus, the seaport for Athens.

CHP action against drunken drivers cuts accident rate

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

CLAREMONT — The California Highway Patrol had its ups and downs here last year.

The "ups" were noted in the number of drunk driving arrests and the "downs" in accidents investigated.

And these two factors do have a teeter-totter effect on each other, said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander.

"By arresting the drunk drivers, we hope to have them in jail before they can kill or injure themselves and possibly others."

During 1973, local officers arrested 1,662 persons driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, a sharp increase over the 1,471 arrests recorded the previous year.

For the same period, the total number of traffic accidents decreased from 1,827 in 1972 to 1,529 last year. Twenty-six persons were killed in 25 accidents last year compared to 30 killed in 26 accidents the previous year, he added.

There were also fewer injured persons during 1973—502 compared to 615. And the number of non-injury "fender bender" accidents dropped from 1,186 to 1,529.

Ironically, the fewer accidents resulted with a lesser number of citations being issued. Officers wrote 37,059 tickets last year, compared to 37,137 in 1972.

"There was a statewide decrease in the number of accidents," said Jones. "This can be partly attributed to the highway patrol's new philosophies of management by results and preventive enforcement."

During the past year, traffic officers have been given more responsibility in determining their patrol areas. "They assign themselves to locations when and where most traffic accidents occur," explained Jones.

Regarding the "preventive" philosophy, Jones said the patrol would rather prevent a traffic accident than write a ticket. This means that officers make themselves more visible to the motorists.

"But if we go to a location where a traffic accident has occurred and see a violation, then we will take appropriate action," he noted.

Jones gave warning he would continue to give emphasis on drunk driving arrests. "As long as there are drunk drivers out there, we will find them."

This emphasis includes a reassignment of traffic officers from day and evening shifts to early morning hours when there is more "drunk driving" activity.

Most fatal accidents last year resulted from vehicles running off the roadways, he reported.

This indicates the drivers were going to sleep or traveling too fast for road conditions. Some of these fatal accidents, he added, involved motorists who had been drinking.

"The sad part is that some of these persons killed would still be alive had they been wearing seat belts." As an example, he cited an accident where a woman's car ran off Interstate 210 near San Dimas Avenue. Her car was only slightly damaged.

The publicity given to wearing seatbelts has had a good effect on reducing the number of persons killed and injured here last year, said Jones.

Safety factors have been advertised in newspapers and in the "Buckle Your Body Down" radio and television campaign.

Members of passenger vehicle inspection teams are now counting the number of seatbelts being worn and are encouraging motorists to wear them, said Jones.

"Hopefully, the number of traffic fatalities will drop even further this year."

Local officers patrol a 250-square-mile area extending from Kellogg Hill to the Ontario Motor Speedway and Mt. Baldy to the Riverside and Orange county lines.

Pomona eyes support of sheriff's fees challenge

POMONA — The City Council Monday night will consider a request for Pomona's support of a lawsuit challenging a 1973 state law limiting what Los Angeles County can charge contract cities for law enforcement and other services.

Burbank Councilman Leland C. Ayers, that city's representative to the Independent Cities, is asking that Pomona, a member of the organization, either by intervention or as a friend of the court, support the City of Los Angeles lawsuit pending on the matter.

County supervisors last November authorized the county administrative officer to reduce the bill for services to contract cities.

The new government code section which went into effect Jan. 1 prevents counties with a population of more than 6 million from charging contract cities more than the actual cost of extra services performed.

The Los Angeles City Council on Nov. 27 instructed its city attorney's office to bring a taxpayers action to compel the county to continue to charge contract cities on a full-cost basis.

"We feel that those cities which avail themselves of law enforcement services through the county sheriff's department should pay the full cost of those services," Ayers wrote the Pomona council.

"The net result of Assembly Bill 2059 is, in our opinion, a direct subsidy from the County General Fund for those services so provided. This will result in an increased cost to the county taxpayers, particularly those within cities which maintain their own police departments," said Ayers.

The Pomona council will not meet in the afternoon. Among other matters scheduled for its 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Administration of the oath of office to Mrs. Arlene Wildman, appointee to the Merit System Commission.

—Issuance of proclamation designating period of Jan. 20-26 as March of Dimes Healthy Baby Week.

—Final reading of three ordinances prohibiting the parking of trucks on streets other than designated truck routes, establishing standards for parking lot development and paving, and rezoning 450 W. Foothill Blvd.

—Planning Commission resolution recommending approval of a parcel map for the same Foothill property.

—Final reading of two ordinances applying the Redevelopment Supplemental Use Overlay to property at 605 S. Park Ave., and to property bounded by Mission Boulevard, Park, 7th and Parcels Streets.

—First reading of an ordinance deleting the requirement that a member of the City Council serve as an ex-officio member of the Merit System Commission.

—Resolution authorizing an agreement with Cashion-Horie, Architects Inc., for architectural services for parks and recreation projects at Palomares, Ganesha, Weber parks and at a Harrison School ballfield.

—Resolution of the Redevelopment Agency authorizing purchase of the Chung King Restaurant, 144 W. 4th St., and sale of property at the southeast corner of 4th and Main Streets.

—Recommendation of Insurance Committee for renewal of liability insurance with the Pacific Indemnity Co.

—Recommendation of city purchasing agent for purchase of various fleet automobiles, trucks and tractors.

LIBRARY WALLS TUMBLE DOWN

Workmen demolish the old Claremont library, built in 1928, to make way for a new facility. The demolition began last week. In the bottom photo, the library birdbath, filled with water, reflects the scene. The old structure, at 2nd Street and Harvard Avenue, was vacated last September and books and equipment were moved to a temporary site at 1375 N. Indian Hill Blvd. The new $1 million county library will provide 22,000 square feet of space and house up to 100,000 volumes.

Social Security office speeds up lagging case

Could you help our granddaughter get her Social Security checks coming again?

She is receiving Social Security benefits because her father died in 1969 and she is still in school.

In May 1973, she dropped a class or two. She was told she would not get her July and August checks because she wasn't a full-time student. This we accepted.

Then in September, she registered at Chaffey College as a full-time student. We informed the Social Security office of this, presenting her college registration as verification.

The months fly by and she is not receving her checks. In spite of a lot of phoning, we seem to get nowhere.

Please see what you can do for her. She feels that she is a burden on us and it is upsetting her. — Mr. and Mrs. E. W., Chino.

Officials at the local Social Security office say they didn't get records from the college until Nov. 8, 1973. They sent them to the reviewing office in San Francisco the same day.

After our inquiry, they designated your granddaughter's problem as critical. She has now received a check for $710.60, representing four months' benefits.

I am accustomed to buying sheets of 100 stamps each before Christmas.

In November I went to the post office with an order for 600 stamps. I received only 300 stamps, 50 stamps to a sheet.

When I went back to complain, the people at the post office refused to refund $24 due me or to give me additional stamps.

A man from the post office came out to check on my complaint but without result.

I am a widow and this loss was great. —R.R., Pomona.

H. W. Johnson, customer service representative, told us that the day after you complained the credit of the postal clerk who sold you the stamps was checked. The check did not show an overage to substantiate your claim.

Post office window service is similar to that of any bank, says Johnson, in that customers should check their purchases and change before leaving the window.

However, when the post office does receive complaints like yours, a check of the involved employe's credit is made in an effort to correct any error. If the credit check shows the employe has more money and stock than orginally issued, a refund is made. This did not occur in your case.

A discussion came up at our house recently about state lotteries in this country.

Somebody remarked that one of our states already has such a legal lottery. He didn't remember the name of the state but he said that the Progress-Bulletin had an ad recently which stated that a legal lottery was held there.

I was under the impression that no lottery was legal in any state in this country. I was so sure of myself that I stuck to my negative answer.

Please clarify this for me. —C. B., Pomona.

The advertisement your friend saw in the Progress-Bulletin offered information about a state lottery in New Jersey.

The Pomona Library informs us that lotteries are also held legally in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New York, Pennsylvania, Alaska, Maryland and Ohio.

We hope you didn't put your money where your mouth was.

TV crews to film La Verne College discussion, activity

LA VERNE — Television cameras and crews, the Rev. Malcolm Boyd, former Hollywood press agent and now controversial Episcopal priest, and Dr. William Glasser, psychiatrist, educator and author, will be on the La Verne College campus Tuesday to tape film segments for the television series "Brainworks," formerly "On Campus."

Father Boyd will meet with La Verne College's author, lecturer and professor of religion, Dr. Vernard Eller, at noon in La Fetra Hall for a discussion of their conflicting philosophies, methods and writings.

A civil rights activist and frequent guest on national television shows, the visiting clergyman is best known for his book, "Are You Running with Me, Jesus?" His most recent works include "The Lover" and "When in the Course of Human Events."

Eller, author of eight books on the Christian life, has recently published "The Simple Life," an exploration of Christian thinking as it regards worldly possessions based on the writings and philosophy of Soren Kierkegaard.

La Verne philosophy and religion students will also take part in the discussion.

Glasser, known for his books on positive approaches to education including "Schools Without Failure" and "Identity Society," will discuss ways in which to acnieve success in college and marriage.

Later in the afternoon a student demonstration of climbing and rappelling from the roof of La Fetra Hall, under the direction of Roland Ortmayer, professor of physical education, will be filmed.

The three La Verne segments will air on Saturday afternoons at a later time. The television series, a public interest program, is sponsored by KNBC, Channel 4, and the Independent Colleges of Southern California.

Students' park meandering heads Claremont school board agenda

CLAREMONT — Schools Supt. Richard S. Kirkendall will give the school board Monday at 8:30 p.m. at La Puerta School a status report on the joint efforts of district and city personnel to resolve the problem of Claremont High students using Cahuilla Park during their free time.

Claremont High has a closed campus, but students walk to the community park adjacent to the high school campus during school hours and have caused complaints from citizens.

School and city officials have held several meetings in an effort to resolve the problems of litter and vandalism since school re-opened in September.

Included in discussion was the possible development of the area between the high school parking lot and the part of the park already developed.

The board also will discuss approval of a proposal for the development of a district logo.

Board members will review and may approve changes to the Danbury School landscaping plan.

Opinion

Profit motive much maligned

Look into the year-end report of almost any business these days and you'll find paragraphs and pages devoted not only to sales and earnings but to telling stockholders, and the public, about the company's good works in the field of community service.

"This is the age of "social responsibility" among businessmen, and is certainly a good thing, and probably long overdue.

But at least one businessman cautions that all the current talk about the social responsibilities of business, important as those responsibilities are, should not be allowed to obscure the fundamental way in which business advances the public interest.

That way, says Howard J. Morgens, chairman of Proctor & Gamble, is the much-maligned and much-misunderstood "profit motive." It is, he says, "the mainspring of our whole economic system and one of the greatest instruments of public service ever devised."

The public service activities of business today are completely dependent upon the vitality of our economic system, he points out, which in turn is dependent upon the profit motive for its energizing force.

Freedom and the profit motive go hand in hand. No other system in all history has brought such a high standard of living to such a large proportion of the population. It is the chief source of opportunity as well as material welfare for the great mass of our citizens.

Yet the strength of our economic system is gradually being eroded. Morgens charges, by government legislation and regulation which, though always aimed at "improving" the system, really weaken the incentives that are fundamental to all business enterprise.

"Whenever something occurs which indicates that some individuals or companies have been abusing the profit motive, there is usually a call for legislation to provide the federal government with new powers in order to prevent that particular abuse.

"However, the new powers usually extend far beyond the remedy of a particular evil and apply one more set of broad restraints on business enterprise and incentives."

He cites the example of the railroads, where to correct some abuses many years ago, they were put under government controls. The result has been disaster. The government's record at running the postal service is another example of what happens without the discipline of the profit motive.

Certainly, the profit motive is capable of corrupting individuals and companies, says Morgens. But so is the desire for power or fame capable of corrupting people in government. We have had abundant proof of that in the past year.

Unfortunately, all too frequently business leaders have not only welcomed but clamored for government intervention in the free market when they perceived it to be in their own immediate narrow interest. Nor have some of them shied away from making secret political campaign contributions. We have also had abundant proof of that in the past year.

Morgens calls on businessmen to help educate Americans about how the profit motive serves the public interest in order "to make sure that this miraculious business system of ours is not gradually crippled by a public and a Congress who do not understand it."

But what is needed as much as businessmen who are willing to speak out in defense of the free enterprise system is businessmen willing to practice it all the way.

A lesson for school boards

To find out just who was reading their magazine the editors of The American School Board Journal sent out a questionnaire in which readers were asked to complete such sentences as, "My age is —. My occupation is —." That sort of thing.

Everybody answering the survey played it straight on all questions except one that began. "My sex is —." Most respondents did indeed write "male" or "female," but a hefty 22 per cent seemed to have their own ideas about what the editors were trying to find out. Some of the answers.

"Excellent" (Ohio).
"So-so" (Maine).
"Not what it used to be" (Illinois).
"None of your business" (California).
"Getting better all the time" (Michigan).
"Varied" (Florida).
"Dull" (Connecticut).
"Adequate" (Nebraska).
"Inadeqaute" (Nebraska).
"Great — if you can handle it twice a year" (Pennsylvania).

The Journal may not know much more about its readership than it did before, but at least there's no doubt about what's on a lot of people's minds.

Poor need help to pay fuel bills

WASHINGTON — Unless the needy get massive federal help to pay their soaring fuel bills, warns a confidential government study, "many of the poor and weak and sick and old will die."

The report, prepared for antipoverty chief Alvin Arnett by his Boston office, warns that a sudden cold snap could actually kill many citizens in northern states.

"There can be no debate about one fact of the energy crisis," delcares the report starkly. "The poor and the near-poor will suffer the most extreme deprivation and severe hardships. . . .

"We must move dollars out of the Treasury, turn those dollars into fuel and get the fuel into the furnaces and stoves and fireplaces of the poor."

Emergency meeting

Responding to the crisis, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., is summoning federal and state officials to an emergency meeting of his nutrition subcommittee next week. He hopes to find $40 million to help the poor keep warm through the winter.

The Boston report claims that people on welfare, social security, low pensions and small fixed salaries don't have enough money these days to pay for both adequate food and home heat.

If fuel oil goes up 10 cents a gallon in Connecticut, for instance, 48,343 poor residents won't be able to afford fuel without $4 million in federal aid, the report alleges.

In Maine, "the fuel crisis has the potential (of) personal tragedy. . .," states the study. "Over 20 per cent of its population (is) in substandard housing without central heat, without insulation, without conventional weather proofing."

Maine acts

Yet Maine, showing more concern for its poor than most other states, has a program to finance plastic storm windows, caulking, wood stoves, general and emergency depots for wood, oil and kerosene.

Concludes the document: "We must move quickly. The wheels of bureaucracy turn with notorious deliberation, but Mother Nature is neither likely to be fooled by news releases nor to control her temper much longer."

FOOTNOTE: A staff memo, prepared for McGovern, recommends a supplemental appropriation of $40 million. This would provide a fuel stamp and voucher system, a federal program on the Maine model and "energy offices" around the country to assist the poor.

SLAVE CHILDREN: In Paraguay, wealthy whites have been buying primitive Indian children for $1.25 to work in their homes "where they are virtually slaves and a curiosity for friends to look at and talk about."

This is charged in a confidential Anti-Defamation League report on the strange slave trade among Paraguay's Ache Indians.

Sometimes, the children are sold outright by their tribal elders: sometimes, they are hunted and trapped like animals by Ache hunting parties organized by Paraguayans, the report alleges.

It adds, interestingly, that the child purchasers "believe they are doing the child a favor."

The Paraguayan government seems to sympathize with the Ache children, says the report, but does little to interfere with the slave traffic. In fact, a Paraguayan administrator, who headed the Ache reservation, allegedly whiled away his time hunting for child-slaves.

He was fired for stealing funds intended for the Aches, charged with drunkenness and detained for a week, according to the report. After his release, he was last seen heading for the jungle with some 20 Ache Indians to hunt for youngsters.

Adds the report: "White men in quest of wood and heart of palms are spearheading the invasion of the Indian domain. The men who do this work (are described) as the most violent types, who shoot at anything that moves in the jungle . . . Few Indians do not have at least one family member who has not been killed or wounded by adventurers."

The ADL report, by Rabbi Morton Rosenthal, estimates that "the total Ache population in Paraguay may be about 1,000 in the jungle and another 1,000 in Paraguayan homes."

FOOTNOTE: A modest Peace Corps effort has helped some Aches learn farming.

MAILMEN PRAISED: We have written our share of stories criticizing the Postal Service. But internal documents show that the nation's mailmen made a tremendous effort to avoid a Christmas logjam.

"At 7 a.m., December 24," states one memo, "the letter mail volume on hand at our 88 largest offices was 6.3 million pieces. This was normal workload and reflected no delays . . . .Last year hundreds of millions of delayed pieces of . . . mail were on hand.

"The largest 116 post offices reported current mail processing . . . with the exception of a few scattered delays due to weather." Denver, which was snowbound on Christmas Eve, was one of the worst trouble points.

The giant postal complex at St. Louis was snowbound on December 19 and caravans of piggy back trucks carrying mail to Texas had to be routed via Chicago. The documents show emergency fuel was begged, borrowed and all but stolen from federal allocators to meet the crisis.

"There are tens of thousands of guys in the Postal Service," said one high official, "who simply get a kick out of moving mail. This year, they moved it."

THE MUSTARD WAR — Americans, who have watched hot dogs and hot dog buns climb in price, are about to bite into a new crisis. There soon may be a shortage of mustard to put on top of the franks.

Already, according to experts in the mustard seed trade, there is a brisk business in bootleg mustard in Western Canada, where much of the world's supply is grown. Europe and Japan, as well as the United States, depend on the Canadian crop.

Like many of our current food shortages, the mustard crisis has its roots in the Russian wheat deal. Farmers, seeing the price of feed grain skyrocket, planted wheat rather than mustard.

Faced with a shortage, the Continental Grain Co., an American giant which participated heavily in the Russian wheat deal, began offering much higher prices for the available mustard crop. This has started a mustard war, which has the industry in an uproar.

The Canadian Department of Consumer Affairs, which has jurisdiction over antitrust enforcement there, is not allowed to comment on investigations. Other mustard middlemen, however, say they have lodged complaints about Continental's black market tactics.

"They are driving us out of business," one supplier said. "Continental is buying up seed we had under contract."

Another supplier said he had just called all his regular buyers and told them he would be able to deliver only half of this year's orders. "It is a disaster," he said.

A spokesman for Continental's Canadian operations in Winnipeg hummed softly when asked about the mustard war. He refused any other comment.

Consumers, still in the dark about the impending crisis, are left with the Biblical injunction: "If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, nothing shall be impossible unto you."

That, however, doesn't do much to improve the taste of a hot dog.

Gossip for today

In retrospect it is fairly safe to say that 1973 will go down in history as the year most Americans would be happy to forget. —It was the year we added troubled oil to troubled waters and over the floodgates came pouring ever increasing adversities.

—A year that not only gave us an energy crisis but also an honesty crisis.—A year during which, when forced to make a decision between profits or patriotism, far too many of our leaders settled for profits.

—It was a year when, if all the political commentators, columnists and cartoonists had been laid end to end instead of being allowed to write, we would not now be experiencing a paper shortage.

The year which proved Eugene O'Neill was right when he wrote "The Iceman Cometh."—It was the year when someone was killed by a drunken driver every 20 minutes. —The year when it was discovered that more motorists were driving without licenses in Los Angeles than in any other city in the United States. —A year in which murders in the U.S. increased by 5 per cent.

In 1973, in order to have a better record of who was an enemy of whom, police began invading the individual's right to privacy by compiling a list of names of people who sign petitions. —And so, in view of all these momentous happenings, it should come as no surprise that during that same 12 month period California beer drinkers consumed 13½ million barrels of suds to help drown their sorrows.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

World must seek growth slowdown

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — World population today is roughly 3.6 billion. Daily, instances are drawn that show earth-support systems for this mass of humanity are dwindling.

The energy shortage threatens havoc with the world's economy. Super-seeds—heralded a few short years ago as the answer to short food supplies—haven't created the expected "Green Revolution." Indeed, the hybrid miracle workers are now suspected of being highly susceptible to blight and cause ecological imbalance by requiring greater quantities of fertilizer and water.

Toilet paper, newsprint, vital minerals, these are vivid reminders that humans threaten to topple nature's order of supply and demand. Imagine the grotesque implications of a world population that could conceivably reach 6.5 billion in the year 2,000 and go from there to an incredible 20 billion by 2050!

Some areas can be expected to attain effective population control measures within the next two generations. These include the U.S., Russia, Western and Eastern Europe and Japan.

Experts say these areas will level off at about 30-to-60 per cent more people than the present 1.1 billion. Other parts of the world will not be so fortunate.

Underdeveloped nations must now support 2.5 billion. If present population growth continues, a hundred years hence will find those same countries trying to cope with 40 billion hungry people.

Even more discouraging are reports that even if underdeveloped nations should miraculously attain U.S. birth rates, the very burden of their own present population would mean more than double the number of people by 2,000.

Malthusian checks will control some of the boom. But who can deny these controls—famine, disease, physical and mental retardation—are anything less than human disaster that is a cause for worldwide concern?

Present paltry shortfalls annoy all of us. It's disruptive to buy gas at the whim of dealers; slightly uncomfortable to turn down the thermostat on cold nights. But the message is clear—we've got to slow down something in order to preserve an orderly world for future generations.

With natural resources still available and projected new sources being developed, the way of life for most of us will remain the same. For billions others, it will be a nightmare.

There is no alternative. Without human population control we will someday have scraped the last ounce of vitality from the earth.

Governments can help, in the long run. While previous and present policies make it seen hard to believe, government policies can be created that will bring the population flood to a halt.

Strong leadership is necessary. Leadership that prompts revitalized hope in societies grown sour with governmental deceit. Strangely enough, it may well be a revolutionary government that is best equipped to bring about the needed changes. Sedentary governments have too long done nothing. A little revolutionary zeal, in the right places, could snap backward countries back to life.

Auto, cigarette tax cash split by 10 valley cities

State Controller Hugh Flournoy announced the distribution of $310,000 among 10 Pomona Valley cities from the December apportionments of highway users and cigarette taxes and state-collected in-lieu motor vehicle license fees.

Los Angeles County received $5,168,252 from the three funds. The combined total for San Bernardino County government was $710,722.

The December apportionment of highway users taxes meant a total of $16,687,064 going directly to the counties, $12,617,584 to cities, $37,971,412 for expenditures on state highways, and $30,000 to the bicycle lane account.

The apportionment for the month of motor vehicle license fees totaled $2,478,687, with half of the distribution going to the cities and half to the counties.

The distribution locally was:

Pomona, $6,746; Ontario, $5,064; Claremont, $1,922; Industry, $56; La Verne, $1,191; Walnut, $479; San Dimas, $1,322; Montclair, $1,749; Upland, $2,768; and Chino, $1,695.

His assignments have included administrative sergeant, occupational safety supervisor, passenger vehicle inspection coordinator, weapons training supervisor and equipment maintenance supervisor.

Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander, presented him a certificate of appreciation signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan and CHP Commissigner Walter Pudinski and also a pin.

Kasberg and his wife, Gloria, have one son, Kirk, of Hayward, and two grandchildren.

Fuel crisis impact on Chaffey to be told

ONTARIO — A report on how the fuel crisis is affecting the Chaffey Union High School District will be given at the Board of Trustees meeting Monday at 7 p.m.

Purpose of the report is to supplement information on the matter of gasoline supplies for the district.

Also scheduled for consideration by the board are a budget calendar for the 1974-75 school year, budget allocations for the 1974-75 year, and a request by the California School Employes Association for the mid-year salary adjustment for all classified employes.

Former Teen Post chief heads schools program

POMONA — Judy Mendoz, area director of East Los Angeles County's Teen Post program during the hey-days of President Johnson's antipoverty program, has been appointed director of the newly-formed community schools section of the Chula Vista City School District.

Mrs. Mendoza, who lived in Pomona for more than a decade prior to her move to the San Diego area five years ago, is heading a program that is described as a new concept in education—the use of school facilities during as many off-school hours as possible.

She says the number of hours the facilities would be used and the type of programs that the community schools would offer would be limited only by the imagination and the participation of residents who live in the district.

The program is still in the planning stages. Mrs. Mendoza plans to start the first classes by March.

UCR dean's list includes 13 Pomona area students

RIVERSIDE — Thirteen Pomona Valley students have been named to the fall quarter dean's honor list at UC Riverside.

Local students, who maintained a minimum "B" average include Bradford Chaney, Hollis Chaney, Susan Compton, Robert Gilmore, Robert Goldstein, Geoffrey Hamill, Ann Marie Haworth, Michael Haworth, John Origuchi, Judtih Preus and Paul Smith, all of Pomona; Joseph Claro and Karl Schutz, both of Walnut.

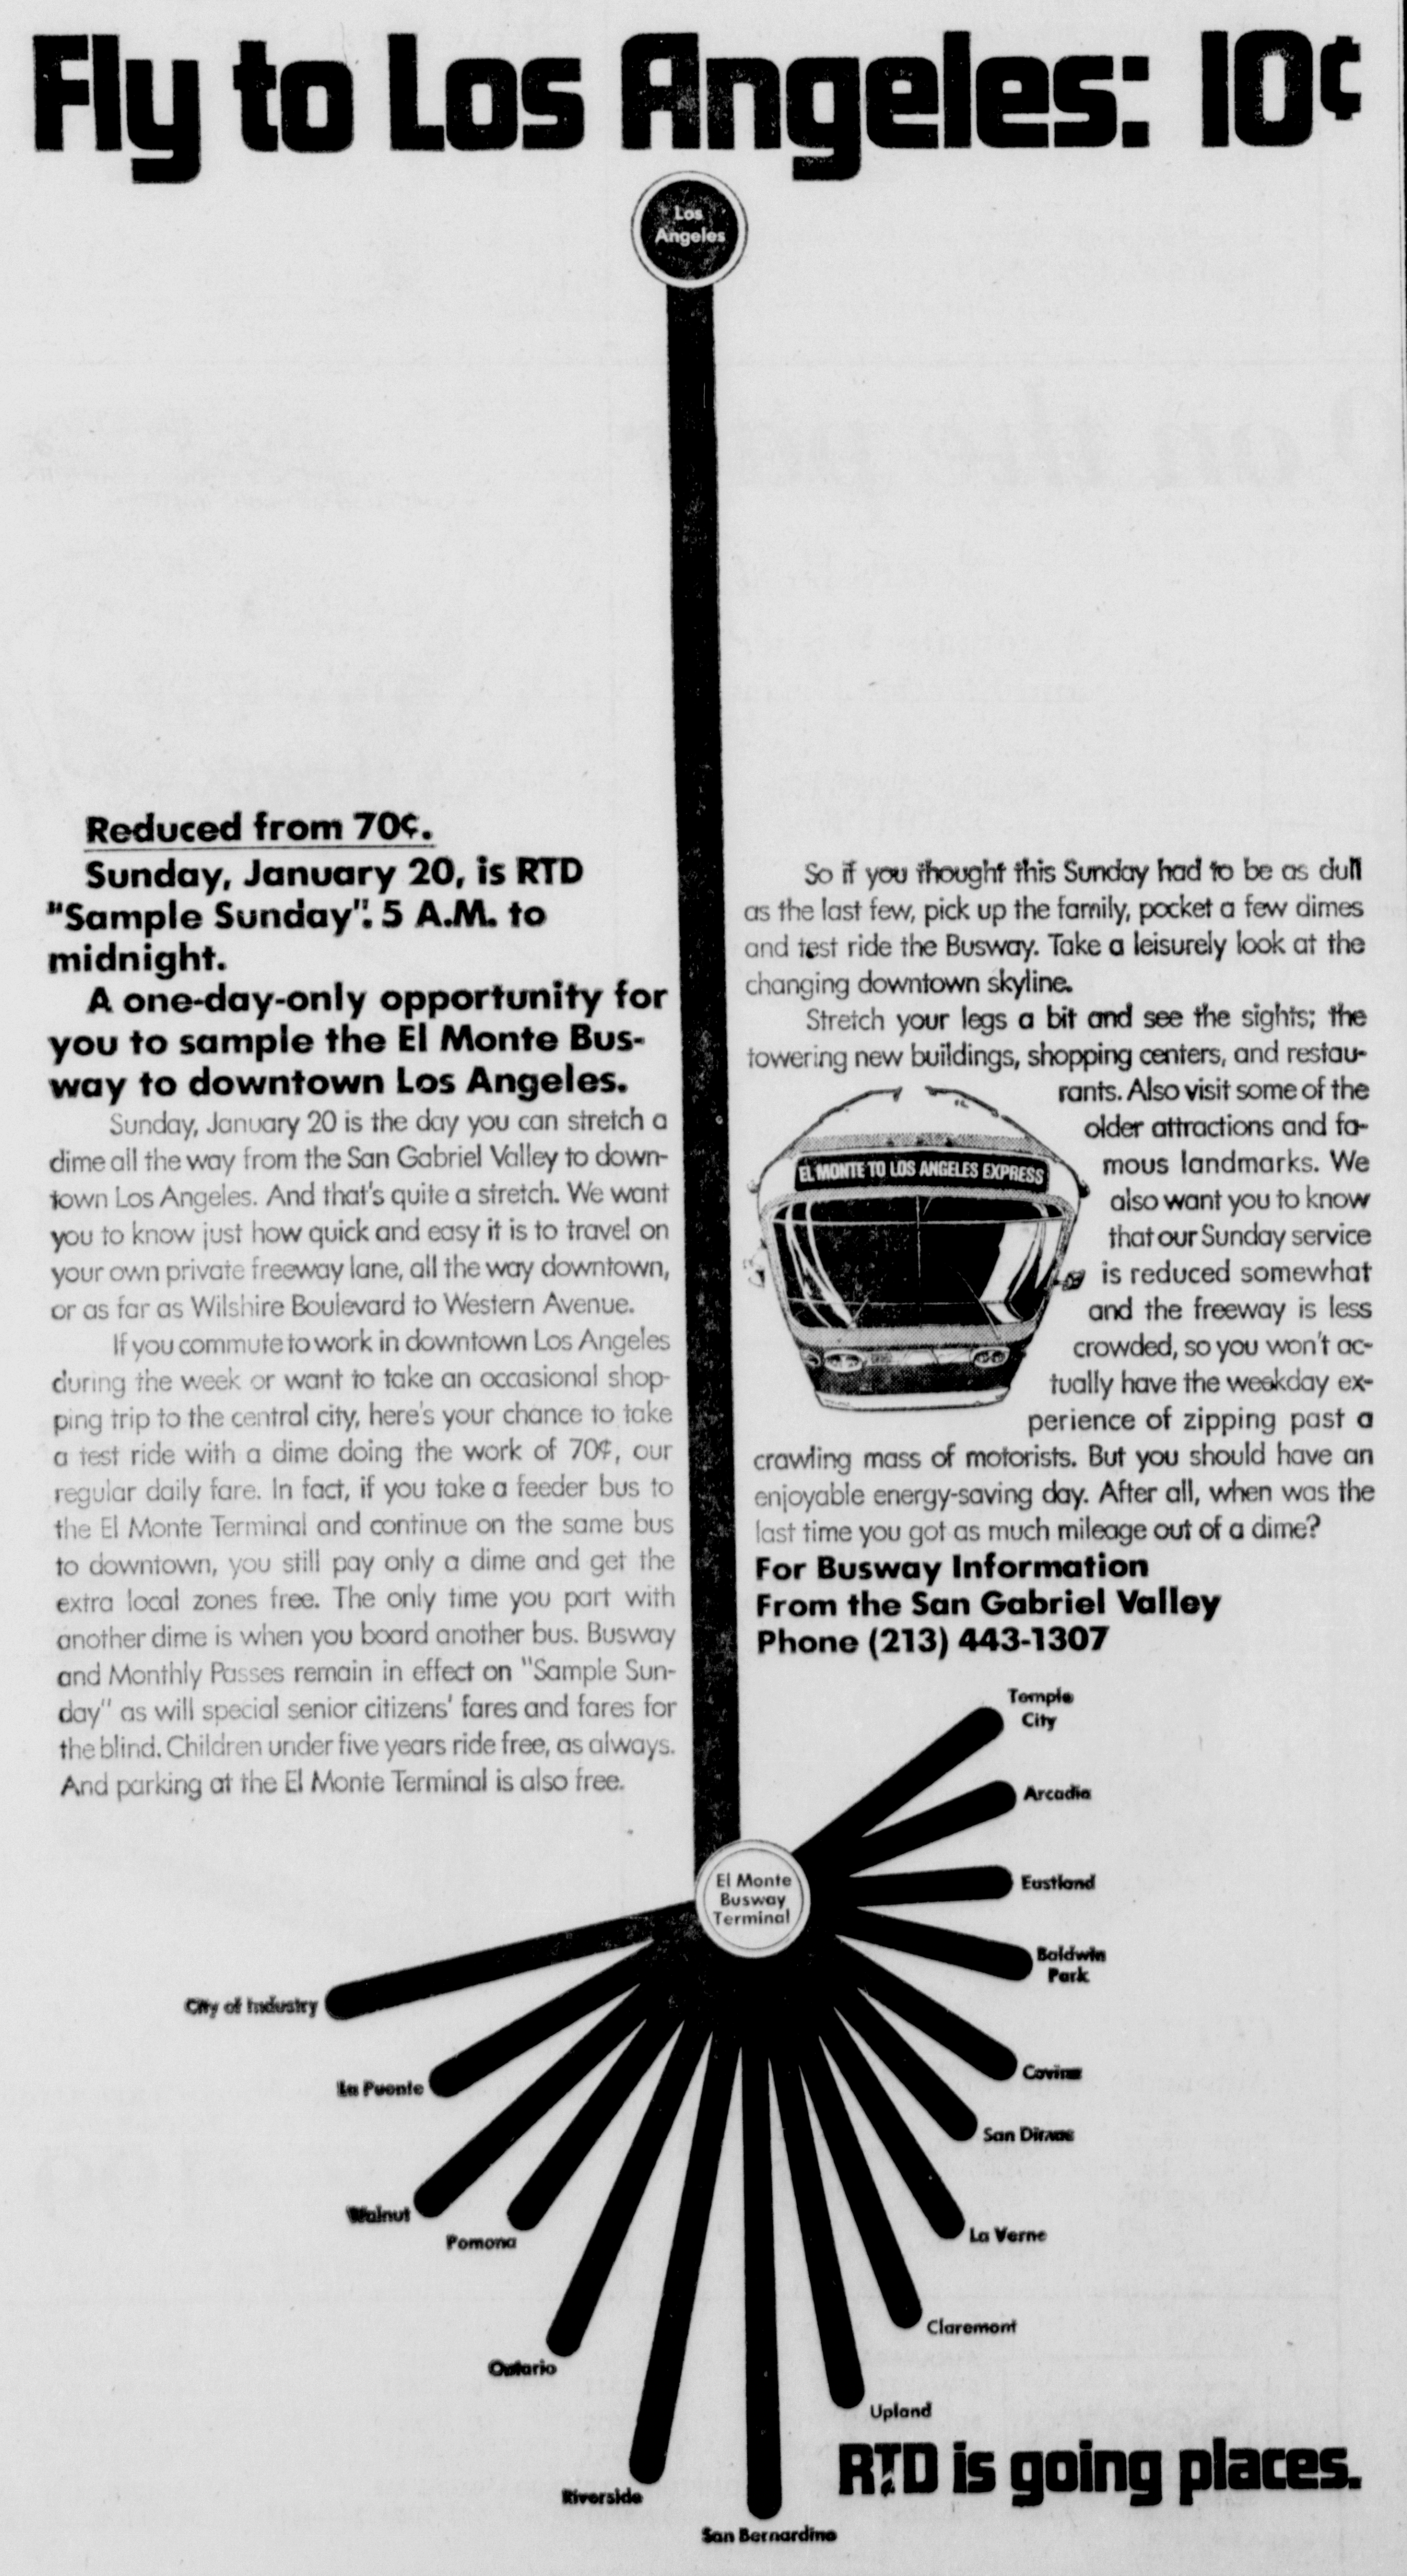
Garrett is associated with the Pomona Counseling Center.

During a short business meeting officers will be elected. An informal discussion period will follow Garrett's speech.



Fly to Los Angeles: 10¢

Reduced from 70¢.

Sunday, January 20, is RTD "Sample Sunday". 5 A.M. to midnight.

A one-day-only opportunity for you to sample the El Monte Busway to downtown Los Angeles.

Sunday, January 20 is the day you can stretch a dime all the way from the San Gabriel Valley to downtown Los Angeles. And that's quite a stretch. We want you to know just how quick and easy it is to travel on your own private freeway lane, all the way downtown, or as far as Wilshire Boulevard to Western Avenue.

If you commute to work in downtown Los Angeles during the week or want to take an occasional shopping trip to the central city, here's your chance to take a test ride with a dime doing the work of 70¢, our regular daily fare. In fact, if you take a feeder bus to the El Monte Terminal and continue on the same bus to downtown, you still pay only a dime and get the extra local zones free. The only time you part with another dime is when you board another bus. Busway and Monthly Passes remain in effect on "Sample Sunday" as will special senior citizens' fares and fares for the blind. Children under five years ride free, as always. And parking at the El Monte Terminal is also free.

So if you thought this Sunday had to be as dull as the last few, pick up the family, pocket a few dimes and test ride the Busway. Take a leisurely look at the changing downtown skyline.

Stretch your legs a bit and see the sights; the towering new buildings, shopping centers, and restaurants. Also visit some of the older attractions and famous landmarks. We also want you to know that our Sunday service is reduced somewhat and the freeway is less crowded, so you won't actually have the weekday experience of zipping past a crawling mass of motorists. But you should have an enjoyable energy-saving day. After all, when was the last time you got as much mileage out of a dime?

For Sunday, Jan. 20

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not enter into a debate today with a vocal friend who has opposing views. Nothing will be resolved. Hard feelings could result.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Set your material affairs aside for the weekend. Direct your interests to other areas. Concentrate on business during the work week.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) you will be a trifle too stubborn today for your own good. Try to see the other guy's viewpoint. Compromise to keep the peace.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a responsibility you should take care of today. Try to get it out of the way early so you can enjoy the afternoon.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will want to dodge a certain social obligation. It will be difficult to do gracefully without offending the host.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll have to be on guard to not offend one you don't know too well with a thoughtless remark she'll take the wrong way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Early in the day you're likely to look at things too negatively. This will make those you're with uncomfortable. Later on you'll be your old self.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone will want to borrow something today. Because of a past favor you'll feel obligated to oblige. Do it gracefully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You need time away from the youngsters today. You won't have the patience with them you normally do. Let them do their own things with their pals.

Johnny loves to read -- about self

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Billy Bartlett is in the second grade and he would rate reading a picture book as almost as boring as playing with girls.

So on his eighth birthday recently, Billy was less than thrilled to receive as one of his presents from his parents a bright picture book entitled "My Friendly Giraffe."

After considerable urging, he was persuaded to open the book, and discovered to his amazement that the book was about the adventures of 8-year-old Billy Bartlett.

Not only that but in the cast of people in the book were his real life young friends, Steve, Tommy and Greg. Even his dog, Buffy, was in the book plus his cat, Kitty. And there were his brother and sister, and his mother and dad.

Billy Bartlett read that book from cover to cover in one sitting. Then he read it over and over again.

Psychologists discovered long ago that the thing most people are interested in is themselves. And that goes double or triple for children.

"My Friendly Giraffe" was one of thousands of personalized books being turned out by computer by the Me-Books Publishing Co. of North Hollywood, a subsidiary of Dart Industries.

Electronic tapes are furnished with inputs of the name of the child, his pets, friends, family and other associates. The story line is the same for thousands of books but in the final printing the personal touch is applied individually.

Publisher of Me-Books is Freeman F. Gosden Jr., son of radio's original Amos of "Amos and Andy." He says the response to the books has been "phenomenal beyond anybody's projections."

Tests of the reaction to the personalized books were conducted by two reading specialists from the University of Southern California at elementary schools in Glendale, Watts, San Luis Obispo and the USC reading center.

"The concept of personalization, that is, seeing one's own name in print is a significant tool in developing enthusiasm for reading," said specialists Helen G. Oetrie and Sue Shrager.

"We expected personalization to be a major factor in the teaching of reading."

Gosden said there were a lot of bobbles at the outset.

"In one book we gave the name of only one sister and did not mention the other and that reduced the second child to tears," he said. "We also have to be careful to get the names of dogs and cats just right or there is trouble."

IT'S OVER—Irish 71, Bruins 70

Clay's jumper snaps UCLA's 88-game win streak

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — The ice man won it and didn't know it.

When Dwight Clay fired from the corner and the ball dropped through the net to give Notre Dame a 71-70 lead with 28 seconds to play, Clay didn't believe that UCLA's record 88-game college basketball winning streak had come to an end.

"I didn't think it won the game," Clay said, "because there was too much time left. But I'm glad I made it because even then I thought it put pressure on them and they would have to come back."

Clay's shot climaxed a spurt of 12 points in 3:30 in which UCLA was scoreless to give the Irish their 10th win without a loss this season and give the Bruins, gunning for an eighth straight NCAA championship, their first loss after 13 wins this season.

Ironically the UCLA streak ended on the same floor where the Bruins last lost, 89-82, to Notre Dame on Jan. 23, 1971, when Austin Carr dropped in 46 points.

"We never quit. The kids never quit and it happened," said Irish coach Digger Phelps. "For 88 other coaches including myself, it was a great win.

"We played three defenses and they were effective at the end.

"There's not much you can do about a 70-per cent shooting average which UCLA had in the first half. When we were down 11, our defense held us in there as it has all year."

UCLA Coach John Wooden, posed as usual despite the loss, commented, "I've said it a hundred times. Once we broke the record the streak was meaningless. My players are acting like they should, like men."

UCLA's All-America center, Bill Walton, played for the first time in four games for the Bruins due to a back injury, and Irish center John Shumate outmuscled him although Walton was the main cog in the Bruins play. Both Walton and Shumate had 24 points, but Shumate had 11 rebounds compared to nine for Walton and Shumate contributed two baskets in the closing spurt which carried Notre Dame to victory.

"Bill wasn't as mobile as he was in the past," Wooden said. "He was reluctant to take his hook shot and his injury hurt his board play.

"We certainly didn't figure to lose with three minutes to go and we up by 11 points," Wooden added. "Of course if you don't play your own ball game you're going to lose. They kept coming at us and they deserve a tremendous amount of credit."

UCLA, after shooting 70 per cent in the first half, sagged to 51.8 per cent for the game while Notre Dame hit 48.4 per cent from the field in the contest.

Clay won the nom-de-plume of the ice man because last year at Pittsburgh and at Marquette, where the Irish ended an 81-game home winning streak for the Warriors, he sank long jumpers in the closing seconds to give Notre Dame a win. He did the same thing to Ohio State earlier this season.

The Bruins led by as much as 15 points and were out in front 70-59 when the Irish began their winning scoring splurge.

Center John Shumate, who had 24 points in the game, hit two straight baskets. Freshman Adrian Dantley connected from 18 feet and junior Gary Brokaw, who finished with 25 for game scoring honors, hit twice from the outside in 50 seconds to pull the Irish within one point.

After the Irish pulled to within one UCLA forward Keith Wilkes got to the net on a breakaway and hit the basket, only to have it nullified by an offensive foul.

Notre Dame brought the ball down court and Clay hit a wide-open jumper from the corner.

UCLA's record winning streak ironically came to an end on the same floor where the Bruins last lost, Jan. 23, 1971, when the Irish earned an 89-82 decision with Austin Carr scoring 46 points to end a 19-game UCLA winning streak.

UCLA had four shots at the winning basket in the closing 21 seconds, but failed to put the ball through the hoop in the frantic wind up to the greatest winning streak in major college basketball history.

The Bruins were at full strength for Saturday's contest as All-America center Bill Walton rejoined the team after missing the last three games. He scored 24 points and had nine rebounds.

But Shumate, 6-9 to Walton's 6-11, outmuscled the UCLA star on the boards with 11 rebounds and Notre Dame as a team controlled the boards as well with 31 rebounds to 27 for UCLA.

Notre Dame got the first and third baskets of the game but each time UCLA rallied for a tie. Before the five minute mark had passed the Uclans had a 10-8 lead and didn't give it up until Clay's game-winning shot.

Even then, the Bruins got their chance to win but lost the ball once in the Notre Dame end of the court only to get it back on an out of bounds violation with six seconds remaining.

Walton was stationed seven feet from the hoop, got the throw-in from under the Irish basket and got away a shot, missing for only the second time in 14 attempts during the game. UCLA then had two more taps at the bucket on rebounds before Shumate rebounded the ball under the basket as time ran out.

UCLA had a 43-34 lead at the half and the Irish then scored seven of the next nine points to pull within two before UCLA went on a nine-point binge, Walton scoring six of them, to regain a 54-43 advantage.

The Bruins then maintained a lead ranging from five to 11 points before the Irish comeback began.

A BIG DAY FOR THE RECORD BOOKS

It was one of those days for the UCLA Bruins, who had their 88-game winning streak snapped by the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame Saturday in South Bend. First Bill Walton (left) fails to block Notre Dame center John Shumate's shot, and then John Wooden shows a sign of depression after the 71-70 loss. UCLA hosts the Irish next Saturday.

Cal Poly now out of CCAA title picture

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

POMONA — John Wooden and Don Hogan are sharing the same problem today. They are both trying to figure out why their basketball teams lost Saturday.

But Hogan wishes his team, Cal Poly, would be in as good shape as UCLA. At least the Bruins are still undefeated in conference play.

Poly was as flat as a pancake in dropping a 71-60 decision to Cal State Fullerton at Kellogg Gym Saturday night to virtually eliminate itself as a serious contender in the California College Athletic Association (CCAA) chase.

With an 1-3 CCAA record, Poly has its back to the wall. It would need to sweep its final six conference games and there's not much of that happening at the current rate.

It was the same old story Saturday night. Poly fell way behind in the first half, trailing by the final margin of 11 points (31-20) at halftime. The Broncs made one of their patented second-half spurts but it too little too late to overcome the Titans' advantage.

"I wish I could figure it out," Hogan said. "We seem to be too content just to be on the court. We don't establish the tempo and have to play at the other team's pace."

Hogan has been following the style of former Poly coaches Bob Stull and Dan Ayala in constantly substituting his 12 players throughout the game.

Fullerton took a commanding 61-42 lead with 5:01 left in the game before the Broncos finally went to work.

Poly outscored the visitors, 14-2, during the next three minutes to cut the

Pearson leads 500 field today

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (UPI) — First in 11 of 18 NASCAR starts last season, Spartanburg, S.C., veteran David Pearson will start from the pole today in the Grand National inaugural of the year, the $103,000 Winston Western 500.

Pearson, 39, will be driving the Wood Brothers' 1971 Purolator Mercury in its final race.

Under NASCAR rules, only 1972 through 1974 model stock cars are allowed to race after the Riverside event.

Pearson, a three-time Grand National champion, qualified first in his red and white No. 21 machine on Friday at 110.090 miles per hour.

Sitting next to the South Carolina veteran in the front row for the race over Riverside's 2.62-mile road course is Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., in a '74 Chevrolet. Yarborough qualified at 109.180 m.p.h.

Driving his own 1974 Chevrolet, Grand National champion Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N.C., qualified eighth at 106.697 m.p.h., the highest placed independent among Friday's first 25 qualifiers.

Bobby Allison, Hueytown, Ala., was the No. 3 qualifier at 109.035 m.p.h. in a '74 Chevelle followed by two veteran drivers making their debut in NASCAR Grand National racing, George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., and Gary Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill.

Follmer, in a '72 Ford, was clocked at 108.762 m.p.h. and Bettenhausen, in a '74 Matador, prepared by Roger Penske and Mark Donohue, was timed at 107.709 m.p.h.

Champion of the Can-Am and Trans-Am road race circuits two years ago, Follmer, of Arcadia, Calif., drove in the Formula One series in 1973.

Bettenhausen, a U.S. Auto Club championship car veteran, replaced Donohue when the latter retired last year. Donohue won the Western 500 last winter for American Motors' first stock car victory ever.

Riverside is the first major auto race in the United States since the energy crisis hit and the field has been cut from 40 to 35 cars to help the track comply with federal guidelines for a 25 per cent reduction in fuel consumption.

Track President Les Richter also eliminated two days of practice.

McGriff averaged over 97 miles per hour Saturday to win the Permatex 200 at Riverside.

McGriff, driving a '69 Chevelle, covered the 77 laps in two hours, five minutes and eight seconds for a speed of 97.081 miles per hour. He outdistanced Bobby Allison by 40 seconds.

The race, a NASCAR event for late model sportsmen stock cars, was delayed for an hour because of heavy fog which temporarily reduced visibility to 100 feet on the track.

A four-car accident brought up yellow flags on the first lap of the race. Norm Parker of Torrance spun out in front of the pack. A '67 Chevelle driven by Chuck Wahl of Burbank rolled over during the pileup. There were no injuries.

Kings shut out by Flyers, 2-0

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Veteran defenseman Ed Van Impe scored his first goal of the National Hockey League season and had one assist Saturday night to lead the Philadelphia Flyers to a 2-0 victory over the Los Angeles Kings.

The victory, which put the Flyers seven points ahead of the Chicago Black Hawks in the West Division, was the ninth shutout of the season for Philadelphia goalie Bernie Parent. Parent, with 26 victories, eight losses and five ties, leads the NHL with victories, shutouts, and goals against average of 1.78.

Van Impe, selected for the All-Star game and playing in his 533rd game in eight NHL seasons, scored with a 55-foot shot at 29 seconds of the first period with the first shot on goal of the game.

With 34 seconds left in the final period, the Kings lifted goalie Rogie Vachon, and Bill Barber took a pass from Bill Flett to score at 19:52.

A second period 35-foot goal by Flyer Jim Watson was disallowed because of a penalty called on Bobby Clarke at 17:44.

40-degree weather expected

Pro Bowl locks up '73-74 season

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Today will present the last call for the 1973-74 football season with the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl game in Arrowhead Stadium.

The National Football League, scared off by 14 straight days of sub-20-degree temperatures in Kansas City, scheduled the teams' practice sessions in San Diego.

The AFC and NFC All-Stars did not arrive in Kansas City until Friday night and held brief practices Saturday

Weather for today's 11:05 a.m. (PDT) game was expected to be partly cloudy with a high near 40 degrees. About 67,000 tickets have been sold, far short of a sellout in the 78,000-seat stadium, so the nationally telecast game will be blacked out in Kansas City.

NFC Coach Tom Landry will start John Hadl of the Los Angeles Rams at quarterback. Roman Gabriel of the Philadelphia Eagles will play the second quarter and Landry says he will see what develops after that.

AFC Coach John Madden will start Ken Stabler of the Oakland Raiders and has Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins in reserve. Madden is uncertain when Griese will enter the game.

Starting running backs will be John Brockington of Green Bay and Lawrence McCutcheon of Los Angeles for the NFC and O. J. Simpson of Buffalo and Marv Hubbard of Oakland for the AFC.

Both teams have had only five practice sessions in which to coordinate their efforts.

"The main thing is just to get the plays straight," said Landry. "Most of it is a matter of terminology and getting a little bit of timing down between the quarterbacks and receivers."

Madden added, "The terminology is the big thing. The plays are pretty basic, but everyone uses different terms for them. You just have to go over everything and make sure everyone knows what you're talking about."

The biggest problems for the coaches is developing specialty teams.

"Most of these guys usually don't do that," said Madden.

This will be the fourth Pro Bowl matching the AFC vs. the NFC. Last year, when the game was moved out of Los Angeles for the first time to Texas Stadium in Irving, the AFC scored a 33-28 victory. Simpson was voted the outstanding player in that game by rushing for 112 yards and catching three passes for 58 yards.

Members of the winning team will receive $2,000 each, while the losers will receive $1,500.

Prefontaine steals Sunkist spotlight; locals fare well

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Two records may have been achieved, San Dimas' Dan Hitchens won a high school event, but it was Steve Prefontaine who captured the hearts of the 13,601 sell-out crowd in the 15th Annual Sunkist Indoor Track Meet at the Sports Arena Saturday night.

Pre, who is the defending two-mile champion, easily defeated a nine-man field in 8:33.0. His performance, although far below last year's Sunkist record time of 8:27.4, was a world mark as far as the crowd was concerned.

Prefontaine, who led in 17 of the 22 laps, opened up his lead to 60 yards on the 14th lap and had lapped former Mt. San Antonio College star John Gregorio by the 19th lap.

Entering the final 160-yard oval, a deafening ovation spurred him on to a 100-yard lead over runnerup Barry Brown (8:40.4), the fans were on their feet even throughout his victory lap.

"This is one of the nicer crowds I've ever been in front of," said Prefontaine while signing autographs after his win.

"There's no comparison, L.A. has the best crowds. . . . maybe track will come back to L.A."

Besides Hitchens, Ganesha's Glen Harter, the West Coast Jets and MSAC's mile relay team were the top local performers in the celebrated affair.

The valley's most successful Sunkist performer was Hitchens, who won his heat of the 600-yard run in a time of 1:17.2.

The Saint star, running in the same field with Montclair's Filbert Gonzales who ran third in 1:18.6, finished with the third fastest time for the combined heats. Roth Haight of San Gorgonio High turned in the top mark of 1:16.4. Gonzales had the fifth fastest time overall.

Harter recorded a fourth place finish in the first heat of the high school 1000 yard run.

Since awards are given to the best five times in the combined heats, Harter's 2:20.7 effort earned a fifth-place award.

Harter jumped into the lead in the first lap but dipped to third in the second. He resumed the No. 1 spot in the third and fourth laps before slipping to his fourth-place finish in the sixth and final lap.

The West Coast Jets ran to a third-place finish in the woman's 640-yard sprint relay.

Willa Mae Fergerson, Shirley Lenyoun, Rochelle Brown and Mable Fergerson were timed in 1:14.6.

MSAC's quartet of Greg Whalen, Frank Acosta, Bob Kramer and Dave Kellogg turned in a fifth-place finish, but were moved to a third place position via disqualifications to Fullerton and Golden West. The Mountie mile relay team recorded a time of 3:40.0.

Spirited Leopards surprise Sagehens

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — A tight zone defense and spirited offensive play gave La Verne College an easy 62-51 victory over a flat Pomona-Pitzer team Saturday night at Bonita High.

The Leopards jumped off to a 7-2 lead and never fell behind. The Sagehens three times got as close as two points, 43-40. That was with 15-13, and 17-15.

In the second half, the 'Hens could get no closer than three points, 43-40. Thas was with 9:17 left in the game when John Huizinga sccored.

But Dwight Washington came right back for La Verne to make it 45-40. Washington was the game's leading scorer with 20 points and led the Leos in rebounds with seven.

A result of Saturday's games, Whittier and Occidental are tied for the conference lead, each 3-0. La Verne, Pomona-Pitzer, and Redlands are all tied for third place at 2-2.

"This was a good game for us," grinned La Verne coach Art Bias. "We had to have it. I'm happy with the way we're playing. I thought we played well even though we lost to Redlands (Wednesday night)."

Bias singled out guard Ken Lipkin and center Bill Rockwood for special mention.

"Lipkin played his best game tonight," he said. "He didn't score much (four points), but he did just what we wanted him to do out there."

"Rockwood did a great job of guarding (Georff) Northrop," Bias continued. "We were in a zone and one and Rockwood was the one who broke off and stayed with Northrop."

Northrop have averaged 17.3 points per game over the season. Against Bias' "zone and one" the Hen center scored just two points, both on free throws. He got off only two field goal attempts all night and missed both.

Rockwood meanwhile was scoring 18 for the Leos.

Another Sagehen Stalwart, Brandon Boyd, made only three of nine shots and scored just six points.

In two losses this week, Pomona-Pitzer has born little resemblance to the enthusiastic, spirited team that bounced to eight wins in its first 12 games.

Saturday night the Sagehens looked more like a bunch of fellows who were heading for a dance and were suddenly informed they had to stay in and play basketball instead.

From the outset their minds and spirit were not in it.

Stags upset Redlands to snap losing streak

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — All bad things must come to an end and when you've lost 12 games in a row, it's definitely a bad thing.

But it all came to an end Saturday night for Claremont-Mudd as the Stags shocked Redlands 68-66 in a hard fought Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference game.

The fans at Stag Gym were treated to a fine game as neither team could control the contest. Redlands' biggest lead was five points in the first half while Claremont led by seven at one stage early in the second half.

The victory was what can only be described as a "team victory," as each of the players used by coach Ted Ducey contributed brilliantly to a different facet of the game.

The rebounding chores were handled by Kim Cheatum, Dave Willhite and Ray Rotolo. The penetration was supplied by guard Dan Dominguez. The floorplay was provided by Norm Richards. Blocked shots were made by Cheatum and Rotolo on several occasions while the scoring punch in the first half came from sixth man Dave Waterhouse.

Probably the best team contribution was the 2-3 zone defense set up by the Stags as Redlands shot a poor 35 per cent from the field. Although the Bulldogs controlled the backboards (enjoying a 58-36 advantage) their off shotting and their tendency to foul, enabled Claremont to score its first conference victory in five outings.

Redlands got into foul trouble early in the second half as the Stags were awarded bonus shots from the free throw line starting with 10 minutes left in the game. On these one-and-one situations, Claremont connected on the first shot four out of seven times. All totaled, the Stags and Bulldogs each made 28 field goals but C-M was good on 12 of 24 foul shots while Redlands took only 14, making 10.

In any two-point game, every play is a key one, but one of the biggest of this battle came with 21 seconds to play when Richards missed the first foul shot but the rebound was controlled by Rotolo.

The junior forward was then fouled and hit on one free throw to give the Stags their final margin of victory. It was probably his best game of the year, as Rotolo led C-M with 10 rebounds besides his seven points and three or four blocked shots.

Dominguez was high with 16 points and Waterhouse, hitting seven of 10 outside jumpers, followed with 15.

Claremont, which tied its longest winning streak of the year with the win, hosts La Verne Tuesday night in another SCIAC game.

Sutherland rallies Sharks to victory, 3-2

HOUSTON (UPI) — Steve Sutherland scored twice, the second goal breaking a 2-2 tie midway through the final period, to lead the Los Angeles Sharks past the Houston Aeros, 3-2, in a WHA game Saturday night.

Sutherland broke a scoreless tie at 1:06 of the second period on a slap shot, but the Aeros' Murray Hall tied it up at 3:10. J. T. LeBlanc then returned the lead to Los Angeles at 7:05.

In the third period, Andre Hinse gave Houston a 2-2 tie at 7:24 before Sutherland won it.

The game was played before a standing-room-only crowd of 9,827, the largest audience ever for a hockey game in Houston.

Broncs fall behind early to Fullerton lead to seven points, 63-56, but could get no closer as Fullerton sank four consecutive free throws to stay out of trouble.

Bob Dye, Fullerton's new coach, has done a terrific job with the Titans. He doesn't have much talent, height or depth to work with but CSF plays its steady ball control game well.

Guard Steve Wright and reserve forward George Keefe led the Fullerton scoring attack with 15 points apiece with Paul Boskovich and former Mt. San Antonio College star Jim Bogdanowicz adding 11 and 10 respectively.

Poly's scoring totals indicates the team's balance. Only Richard Reid scored in double figures with 10 points followed by Horace Aubrey, Paul Newton, Alphonso Adair and David Kennedy with eight apiece.

Actually, Poly only had one less field goal than Fullerton. The Titans built their advantage by making 19 of 25 foul shots while the Broncs hit only 10 of 19.

Poly was also cold from the floor in connecting on 25 of 64 shots for 39 per cent while the Titans made 26 of 52 for an even 50 per cent.

For once, the Broncs actually won the rebounding edge with 31 to Fullerton's 29. Newton led Poly with 10.

The Broncs, 6-10 for the year, take a break from CCAA play to host the University of San Diego Tuesday night.

MSAC outclassed

By MIKE RAWLINSON

SANTA ANA — Mt. San Antonio met the class of the South Coast Conference Saturday night and the outcome was predictable.

Front-running Santa Ana, co-defending SCC champion, claimed its fourth consecutive conference victory with a 75-63 decision over the Mounties.

It was MSAC's third loss in four conference games and put them out of the way as a serious threat for the time being, anyway.

In a fine first half, the Dons showed their class by outshooting the Mounties 41-29. Sophomore forward Bobby Angel, a cool young gun from Detroit, canned 12 points in the first 20 minutes to lead the attack. Center Glen Clark pumped in 12 points and guard Steve Snodgrass added 10 points.

It looked like it was going to be a runaway, but MSAC came out shooting and outscored the host 16-8 in the first seven minutes of the second half and it was a different ball game for awhile.

With freshman forward Rodger Borg paving the way by scoring six points in the span, the Mounties closed the gap to 46-45.

That was as close as they would get, however, and the Dons pulled into a 10-point lead. About halfway through the final 20 minutes, center Gary Nash went out of the game with his fifth personal and coach Gene Victor, protesting the call, was slapped with a technical foul. The Dons had it their own way from there on out.

Borg, making an infrequent start, was the sparkplug in the drive that saw the Mounties erase a 12-point deficit. He had 11 points for the game and five rebounds and forward Carl Williamson matched his rebound total and added 12 points.

Nash left the game with 15 points and eight rebounds, which wasn't bad for only 30 minutes of play, and the Mounties missed him when he went to the bench. Forward Gary Melugin came off the bench to sub for Borg and Williamson and matched Nash's point total.

Angel was high for the game with 23 points, cooling off only slightly in the second half.

In the other two South Coast Conference contests Saturday night, Cerritos downed Fullerton, 92-76, and Oronge Coast whipped San Diego Mesa, 95-77.

MSAC will now take a full week off before facing Fullerton next Saturday night in the Hornets' gym.

Vanzant-led Cougars win

AZUSA — Azusa-Pacific's Dennis Vanzant proved most vexing to Cal Baptist Saturday night, as he put in 28 points and snagged 19 rebounds to lead the Cougars past Baptist 88-73 in a contest played at the Cougar gym.

The Cougars led throughout the contest, but never could pull away from the visitors from Riverside. Vanzant had 21 of his 28 markers in the first half.

Rick Reed also continued his fine scoring play with 23 points, while Doug Howard led CB with 15. Chino's Kevin Finnerty scored 10 points coming off the bench for Baptist.

The Cougars now sport a 14-3 season mark, while Cal Baptist falls to a 10-8 ledger.

STOP! — Johnny Miller grimaces and motions to his ball to stop in an effort to get a birdie in the Tucson Open. Miller shot a 71, his tenth straight sub-par round, to retain his lead.

Miller lead shrinks to two

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, fighting a nagging head cold that sapped his strength, held off charging J. C. Snead, Ben Crenshaw and Allen Miller Saturday with a one-under par 71 for a two stroke lead after three rounds of the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open.

The 26-year-old native of San Francisco, shooting for his third straight title this year, and his fourth in a row going back to 1973 thus had a 54 hole score of 12 under par 204. He said he was lucky to finish the round Saturday.

"I'm no super man," he said. "Even in the best of health, I'd still be tired after three rounds. This head cold, which I've had now for five months, seemed to sap my strength. Last night I couldn't get to sleep because of it and the last three holes today I just wanted to finish."

Despite his problems, young Miller was able to come home with his 10th consecutive subpar round this year and it was enough to keep him ahead of Snead, Crenshaw and Allen Miller with one round to go.

Snead made the most progress on a warm and sunny day in Arizona desert country with a seven under par 65 that put him at 10 under 206 along with Crenshaw, who had a third round 67, and Allen Miller, who had a 69.

Johnny Miller had started the round with a four stroke lead on Allen Miller after a course record opening round 11 under 62 and a 71 in the second round Friday.

He was in good shape at the turn, which he made in four under 32, but ran into trouble when he bogied the 10th, 12th and 15th holes over the long and tough Tucson National golf course.

Miller complained that slow play bothered him as much as his head cold.

His birdies came on the second, sixth, seventh and ninth holes—the longest putt being a 30-footer on nine. On the 10th, where he picked up his first bogey, Miller pulled his drive to the right against a tree.

On the 12th, he chipped to within three feet but two-putted for his second bogey and on the 15th, he bunkered his second shot, blasted out across the green and had to scramble to keep from taking a double bogey.

Kermit Zarley, with a 68, and Jerry Heard, also with a 68, moved into contention with 54 hole scores of nine under 207. Jim Colbert had a 70 for 208, while Andy North (69), Butch Baird (68), Roy Pace (70), Tom Shaw (70) and Rod Curl (71) were at 210.

Miller won the individual title in the World Cup in his final event of 1973, then opened the 1974 PGA tour by winning the rain-shortened, 54-hole Crosby National Pro-Am two weeks ago. He followed that victory by taking the Phoenix Open last week and already has banked $60,000 this year.

Victory in the Tucson is worth $30,000. But win, lose or draw here, Miller said he plans to take off next week. The tour moves from here to California again for the Andy Williams-San Diego Open starting next Thursday.

Tee to cup

Southern California golfers will have a chance to play their game and also to see one of America's most unusual attractions Sunday, Feb. 17, when the National Date Festival Tournament will be played at Indio Municipal Golf Course.

A group of pretty girls in Arabian Nights costumes to carry out the theme of the National Date Festival will act as caddies and then will go to the date festival to present trophies to tournament winners.

Trophies will be awarded in both Calloway and handicapped flites.

Tee-off will start at noon and continue until 2 p.m. There still will be time for golfers to visit the Date Festival for evening events.

Entry deadline is Feb. 10. Green fee and tournament fee is $3 for 18 holes.

Service stations in the Indio area are staggering schedules so there will be several stations open on both Sundays of the National Date Festival.

Golfers may want to to arrange to stay over Sunday night and see the Arabian fantasy street parade on Monday when Washington's Birthday anniversary is celebrated.

ROBERT HILKE heads a new slate of officers at Via Verde Country Club. Hilke was recently installed as president of the VV Men's Club. John Etienne is vice-president; Ed Flaherty treasurer, and Ed Berryman secretary.

Chuck Gilmore will serve as tournament chairman and Paul Rudibaugh will head the greens and handicap committee.

MARSHALL CANYON Women's Golf Club members have elected a new slate of officers to serve for 1974. Those elected are Ruth Ericson, president; Jeanne Keenan, first vice president and tournament chairman; Shelby Myers, second vice president and handicap chairman; Dale Harbicht, secretary; and Kay Wilson, treasurer. A guest day is set the fourth Tuesday of every month.

NEW OFFICERS for the Ontario National Women's Club include Nancy Kennon, president; Mary Richardson, handicap chairman; Lottie Parrot, tournament chairman; Nedra Voly, secretary and Helen McCaul, treasurer.

The club is accepting new members, and has lowered its yearly dues. Ladies get lower rates at Ontario National on Tuesday's and Fridays.

Miami places five on All-Pro team

NEW YORK (UPI) — The champion Miami Dolphins placed five men on the first All-Pro team as selected Saturday by the Pro Football Writers of America, but Super Bowl hero Larry Csonka had to settle for second string running back behind record-busting O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills.

Representing the Dolphins on the first team were guard Larry Little, defensive end Bill Stanfill, safeties Dick Anderson and Jake Scott and place kicker Garo Yepremian. In addition to Csonka, Miami also placed wide receiver Paul Warfield on the second team.

Simpson broke the National Football League single season rushing record in 1973, running for 2,003 yards. The other first team running back position when to Calvin Hill of the Dallas Cowboys.

In addition to Hill, the Cowboys placed three other men on the first team. They were tackle Rayfield Wright, middle linebacker Leroy Jordan and cornerback Mel Renfro.

The only rookie to be honored was tight end Charlie Young of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Repeaters from last year's All-Pro team are Simpson, Wright, Little, Anderson, center Forrest Blue of San Francisco, defensive end Claude Humphrey of Atlanta, defensive tackle Joe Greene of Pittsburgh, linebacker Dave Wilcox of San Francisco and cornerback Willie Brown of Oakland.

Crisis won't bother drags

POMONA — The National Hot Rod Association's 1974 drag racing season of National events will open on a healthy note next month, despite the energy crunch.

A whopping $281,700 has been posted for the 14th annual NHRA Winternationals, the season's traditional curtain-raiser, slated for February 1 - 3 at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

The rich prize melon, fattened by some $200,000 in manufacturers' contingency cash awards posted by major sponsors, is part of more than $2 million that will be posted for NHRA's eight National events during the coming months.

"We view it as a healthy outlook for 1974," NHRA president Wally Parks said. "The energy crisis has caused a great deal of concern in some areas but it hasn't reduced drag racing's appeal as a sport and showcase. More than 50 product lines will be represented among awards sponsors at this year's Winternationals," he added.

Ticket sales for the event, which has been reduced from four to three days to conserve energy, have been slightly ahead of normal, according to Parks, who said orders have come from as far away as Canada and the Mid-West.

Contestant-wise, NHRA officials foresee no reduction in entries this year. Some 700 are anticipated, with the biggest share coming from the West Coast, but Eastern and Mid-West entires also are coming in.

"Those faced with a long tow from other states are doing their share to conserve fuel though," Parks pointed out. "Our divisional offices around the country report mass efforts on the part of racers to double up and tow several race cars with a single tow vehicle.

"And they are using good old hot rodding ingenuity, too," Parks added. "Drag racers have always been proud of their abilities to make engines run more efficiently, and from the reports we receive, everyone is on an economy kick, trying to wring every mile per gallon from their two vehicles.

"It appears that drag racers are as concerned with the performance of their street machines as they are with their exotic race cars.'

The Winternationals, which get underway February 1 with a full day of qualifying and class eliminations leading up to the Sunday, February 3 finals, will feature championships in eight separate Eliminator categories.

A new track surface of special asphalt compound, completed just prior to the rain storm which hit Los Angeles recently, is expected to provide a string of new e.t. and speed records.

Winternationals tickets are on sale now at all Ticketron outlets, Liberty Agencies and Wallich Music City Stores.

Sports parade

NEW YORK (UPI) — At the base of it, Joe Frazier essentially is a soft, compassionate sort, the kind who goes around quietly helping orphaned kids and has real trouble disliking anybody.

He's not, however, overly crazy about Muhammad Ali, the man he'll meet for the second time in a 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden on Jan. 28.

Frazier's feelings have little or nothing to do with the game face Ali puts on outside the ring. Rather they revolve around the general attitude shown by Ali following his return to boxing after more than two years of idleness.

While Ali was on the sidelines for refusing to go into the Army, Joe Frazier never really kicked dirt on him, but Frazier feels, and with some justification, Ali gave him the back of his hand when he returned.

Someone took Joe Frazier aside the other day after he had finished his workout in the gym he uses in Philadelphia and asked him did he honestly like or dislike Muhammad Ali?

"Well," said Frazier, "you could say we couldn't live in the same house, and we surely couldn't sleep in the same bed."

Ali, on the other hand, says he has no strong feelings about Frazier one way or another— outside the ring.

"Personally, I got nothing against him," he says. "I don't like him as a fighter though. In the ring, he's my enemy."

The two men, Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali, were at a mid-town restaurant Thursday to ballyhoo their return fight. The restaurant is called the Wig and Pen, and the food is good there but the place is much too narrow to accommodate comfortably all the media people who turned out.

What the fighters had to say sounded suspiciously like the same things they said before their first fight on March 8, 1971, the one in which Frazier undisputedly won the world heavyweight title in 15 rounds.

Some variations

Oh, there were some variations, especially since this was Ali's 32nd birthday and a huge cake was brought out for the occasion, but generally speaking the whole affair looked like some re-run on late TV.

"Tomorrow's your birthday, isn't it?" someone asked Ali.

"It's today," he corrected.

"Happy birthday," said Frazier, seated close by with only Eddie Futch, his handler, between him and Ali. "How old are you?"

"Thirty-two," Ali answered.

"Gettin' old," said Frazier, who celebrated his 30th birthday last Saturday.

"We both gettin' old," Ali corrected.

There was a question from the floor and it was directed at Frazier. Ali says he thinks he won the first fight and that opinion is supported, he says, after looking at the film?

"I guess when he sits and looks at it once more, he'll see," said Frazier.

"I looked at it hundreds of times," said Ali.

"Learn anything?" Frazier needled, getting a laugh from all those in the restaurant.

Suddenly, Ali peeled off his crimson jacket. He began throwing lefts in the air ... pop ... pop ... pop.

"You can look at me and tell I'll whip him," he said. "Looka me movin' ... pop ... pop ... pop. I'll be movin' and dancin' all night. Boy, am I gonna be movin."

Ali sat down again.

He pointed to his jaw, the one broken by Ken Norton, looked at Frazier and said:

"This ain't goin' nowhere."

"You got it wired up right?" Frazier teased him.

Everybody laughed again and Ali didn't like that.

Nothin' but playboy

"You're gonna be all through after the fight," he said. "You take that pretty white mink coat, that Lincoln of yours, those girls and everything else after the fight because you're gonna become a playboy. That's right, nothin' but a playboy."

Ali removed his coat again.

"Say, boy ..." he taunted Frazier.

Now Frazier took off his jacket, a gold and brown affair.

Ali swung and hit Frazier's hand. Frazier swung back, making light contact. A ketchup bottle on the table tumbled over. Other men pulled the two heavyweights apart.

"I hope they both flatten each other," said Teddy Brenner, the Garden's matchmaker. He looked as if he meant it, but really didn't.

Drew "Budini" Brown, Ali's sidekick, stuck his head through an opening above where Ali was sitting and hollered:

"Didn't you promise you wouldn't cause any trouble in here?"

"He started it," siad Ali.

Angelo Dundee, Ali's trainer and good right arm, watched all the horseplay quietly.

When it was all over, Dundee said:

"He's in the best physical shape of his career. Better even than when he beat Sonny Liston for the title. The positions are reversed between Frazier and Ali now. My guy is the active man. He's fought 137 active rounds since their last meeting. Joe Frazier is the inactive one. He's fought only 14 rounds—Bugner and that disaster with Foreman."

By this time they had brought out the birthday cake and were cutting it.

"Make sure," commanded Budini Brown, "Ali gets the biggest piece."

Williams wanted to play against Bruins

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Playing in the shadow of the UCLA basketball dynasty doesn't bother Gus Williams.

In fact, Williams came to the University of Southern California from Mt. Vernon, N.Y., welcoming the opportunity to go against Bill Walton and the Bruins.

"I just want to play against the best," says the soft-spoken Williams, a 6-2 guard who leads his squad with a 17.2 scoring average. "I'm glad to be playing them.

"And if we play our game, we can stay right with them," he added.

Since he arrived three years ago, UCLA has won 72 straight games, stretching its record-breaking winning streak to 87 games. But Williams, a junior, has other things on his mind besides UCLA.

"They're off in the future for us," he said. "We just know all our conference games are must games for us."

The Trojans, who are 12-2 and 3-1 in Pacific-8 play, got their conference season off to a bad start with a 71-56 loss to Washington State.

"They just played good defense," said Williams. "Especially in that first half, they played us as tough as they could have."

Since the loss to the Cougars, USC has won three straight conference games, defeating Washington, Stanford and California.

"But we rebounded pretty well after the loss," he added, "and now the spirit and confidence is up. We're looking forward to the rest of our league games."

Williams, called "our most physically talented player on the squad" by Trojan coach Bob Boyd, averaged 12.2 points in his sophomore season at USC. This year, he's shooting over 56 per cent from the field.

"I know I've improved some this year," he said, "but I also know I still can improve. My defense still needs some work, but my shot selection has been pretty good.

"I had to make quite an adjustment my freshman year," said Williams, "but I felt a lot more comfortable last year. But then I had to adjust to playing varsity basketball in college."

Williams learned fast, earning a starting job in his first season. Boyd thinks Williams could become "the best guard ever to come out of USC," better than pros Paul Westphal, Dennis Layton and Mack Calvin.

"I have my heart set on making the pros too," Williams confessed. "It was in the back of my mind when I came here, but it's coming on pretty strong now."

Even if USC doesn't overtake UCLA in the Pac-8, the Trojans can earn a trip to the National Invitation Tournament in New York.

BOB DAQUST
. . . re-elected

Claremonter re-elected as USPTA Pres.

CLAREMONT — Claremont's Bob Daoust was recently re-elected for the second year in a row as President of the California Division of the U.S. Professional Tennis Association.

The USPTA is the largest national association for tennis teaching professionals.

Daoust has also been appointed as one of a three-man committee to investigate and set up a USPTA tennis college, where teaching pros would be properly screened and educated before being licensed as qualified teaching professionals.

A major problem at present, says Daoust, is the "famous or once famous player who stops his playing career and starts trying to cellent players," Daoust exteach tennis."

"They are qualified as explained, "but lack the knowledge and skill to actually teach the sport correctly." The proposed USPTA tennis college would help insure qualified and standardized instruction.

THE ROTARY-ENGINE MAZDA GETS GOOD GAS MILEAGE.

Here are the results of 11 independent road tests and surveys*:

U.S. Department of Transportation: 17.21-22.72 mpg with a 4-speed RX-2 Coupe in constant-speed tests ranging from 30 to 70 mph. (From "The Effect of Speed on Automobile Gasoline Consumption Rates," published October, 1973.)

Automobile Club of Southern California: 17.5 mpg overall with an RX-2 Sedan in a 30,000 mile test. ("Auto Club News Pictorial" published November/December, 1972.)

California State Automobile Association: 18 mpg average with an RX-2 Sedan in an 18,000 mile test. ("Motorland" published January/February, 1974.)

Road & Track Magazine: 18 mpg with an RX-3 Wagon in a test published October, 1973.

Road Test Magazine: 18.2 mpg with an RX-3 Wagon in a test published March, 1973. (Quote: "You feel a surge like maybe a big tailwind has just caught you and is pushing you along silently but strongly.")

San Diego Evening Tribune: 18 mpg was the most common fuel mileage reported by the respondents in a survey sent to 1,000 owners of Mazda RX-2 and RX-3 models; published October 11, 1973.

Consumers Digest 1974 Auto Buyers Guide: 20 mpg average with an RX-3 Wagon. (Quote "Our RX-3 car obtained about 20 miles per gallon. This was in all kinds of traffic with the air conditioner on most of the time.")

Oakland Tribune: 18.03 mpg with an RX-3 Wagon in a 1,654 mile test published October 25, 1973.

Los Angeles Herald-Examiner: 19.1-23.8 mpg with an RX-2 Coupe in a test published August 26, 1973. (Quote: "Fuel economy was better than expected, considering its startling high cruising speed potential and acceleration...")

Popular Science Magazine: 18.5 mpg average with an RX-2 Sedan in a 30,000 mile test published May, 1973.

J. D. Power & Associates (Independent Survey): 17-20 mpg. Median reported mileage— 17 mpg in city, 20 mpg on the highway. From an independently-funded survey of 636 owners of Mazda RX-2 and RX-3 models. Published January 7, 1974.

*These tests were conducted with a variety of Mazdas. Some with standard transmission and some with automatic. Many had air conditioning.

The energy crisis has caused a lot of concern about the kind of gas mileage you can expect from various new cars.

We can't speak for other car manufacturers, but we think it's important that you know the actual mileage you can expect with the rotary-engine Mazda. The mileage that counts—obtained in everyday driving conditions.

Keep in mind that the 11 reports shown above were made before the speed limits were lowered.

Remember too, that the rotary-engine Mazda not only delivers good mileage. It also gives you a driving experience you can't get in any other car.

We believe the rotary-engine Mazda offers you the best balance between fuel economy, price, size, emission control and performance. Plus quality and proven reliability.

And it's backed by a company that is dedicated to the complete satisfaction of its customers.

That's why an independent survey of Mazda owners by J. D. Power & Associates shows that 9 out of 10 would recommend Mazda to a friend.

TODAY'S Women

Spring fashion

Show is charted

An aura of elegance will pervade Griswold's Pavilion in Claremont on Feb. 2 when the Soroptimist Club of Pomona presents its Sweetheart Fashion Show.

Hearts and flowers will form the background for the haute couture fashions featuring originals by Countess de Turiani. These fashions will be augmented by men's fashions from John P. Evans Store for Men and sportswear from Gunter-Project II.

Proceeds from the philanthropic event will be presented to Pomona Valley Community Hospital for a project in the new addition to the hospital.

Countess de Turiani, who resides in Pomona Valley and is known in this area as Inez B. Stephens, will be presenting her second show in Southern California. Her first show was held in Los Angeles in October.

A number of doctors on the staff of Pomona Valley Community Hospital will assist in making the show a success by modeling the men's fashions. All other models will be professionals. Mrs. Florence Coulson will be the accompanist.

Commentator will be Phyllis Kirk Bush, who has many acting credits to her name including the lead in the Thin Man television series.

Over the past three or four years there has arisen an increasing dissatisfaction with the quality of high fashion clothing generally available to discriminating women. Inez Stephens was certainly no stranger to the discontent.

She has been particularly unhappy with the choice of fabrics and the workmanship embodied in garments. Many of her friends, sharing her sentiments and knowing her artistic abilities and background, urged her to put her talents to work to alleviate the situation. She has formed a company with her husband, Moye W. Stephens, under the name "Countess de Turiani Originals," making use of her Italian title.

Inez Emilia Caterine Buttora, Countessa Gadina de Turiani was born in Trieste, Italy. Following a more or less conventional education for young women of her station, she enrolled in the medical school of the University of Padua. Her interest was surgery. After graduation she served six months of her hospital internship before her parents persuaded her to give up the field.

Subsequent to what in this country would be her debut, she moved in international social and diplomatic circles, serving for a year as maid of honor to the Duchess d'Aosta.

She learned to fly during an extended visit to relatives in the United States and upon her return to Italy was appointed honorary lieutenant in the Italian Air Force by the Duke d'Aosta, commanding general of the air force in the Venecia Giulia province.

In 1937 she married Los Angeles-born Moye Stephens. A Stanford law graduate, he has an extensive background in business and aviation. He resigned his position as TWA captain to pilot Richard Halliburton on a flight to gather material for Halliburton's book "The Flying Carpet."

Mrs. Harriet Reiner is chairman for the fashion show and luncheon. A social hour at 11 a.m. will precede the noon luncheon.

Mrs. Bette Lutes, president, is program coordinator.

Assisting with arrangements are: Mmes. Carol Larsen, Margaret Preska, tickets; Gerry Thompson, programs; Wilma Temple, invitations; Rosamond Douglas, Miriam Cunningham, Lucille Bucher, reservations; Martha McCune, Florence Cohn, gifts; Ramona Oehmichen, Betty Sanford, Gladys Selden, Mary Wenker, Mary Remillard and Miss Helen Rose, decorations.

Uncle Sam's watt watchers urge cold water on homemakers

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maybe actress Julia Meade has caught your attention with the television commercial that suggests —"Help Keep America out of hot water."

It has to do with using cold or cool water in the washing machine. Cold or cool as opposed to hot. The hot water, in the heating, uses fuel. A switch to cold or non-heated water in the nation's 47 million washers would save the equivalent of 180,000 barrels of oil a day.

Uncle Sam's watt watchers at the Federal Energy Office are urging homemakers to adopt cold water laundering as an energy saving measure.

This, they say, would make more fuel available for the essential needs of the economy.

Miss Meade's commercial, put on by Colgate, asks that homemakers make cold water wash the rule rather than the exception. Colgate makes a cold water detergent—Cold Power.

Spokesmen for the two other major makers of detergents— Lever Brothers Inc. and Procter and Gamble—told United Press International that so far neither has a television campaign scheduled to urge homemakers to switch to cold water washing.

However, Lever and Procter and Gamble spokesmen said their respective firms make detergents that perform in hot, warm or cool water—when used correctly in accordance with package instructions.

"Washing everything in cold water will not produce satisfactory cleaning results in all cases," said the Lever spokesman.

"Universal cold water laundering would simply create more problems for homemakers than it might hope to solve.

"As just one example, skin oil and certain greasy soils may require hot water washing for adequate cleaning.

"Our present range of products provide consumers with substantial choices to meet their specific washday needs, taking in cleaning performance as well as energy conservation features."

At P and G, the spokesman said:

"All P and G detergents perform effectively in cool water. However, all detergents give better cleaning results in hot water. P and G advises consumers by specific package instructions about how to obtain the best possible results in cool water.

At the spring fashion showings sponsored by the New York Couture Business Council, Cold Power staged a presentation keyed to "energy saving fashions."

Fashion scribes were told:

"Fortunately, clothing manufacturers do not recommend hot water washing for synthetic or permanent press fabrics— which represent a major percentage of the modern woman's wardrobe.

"Today's Presentation is a collection by eleven leading designer manufacturers, demonstrating 'round-the-clock clothes that fulfill the demand for fashions that are easy and inexpensive to care for—and energy-saving, thanks to cold water laundering."

To demonstrate the effectiveness of cold water washing for the colorful prints that are popular today, the show at first focused on two outfits by Trissi —for bowling, a nulticolored floral shirt with a blue wrap skirt, and for daytime dashing, a trim red, white and navy print dress, both of 100 per cent polyester knits.

It was noted that manufacturers do not recommend hot water washing for today's synthetic or permanent press fabrics, which represent a major percentage of the contemporary wardrobe. Such clothing washed in hot water can result in set wrinkles which affect the finishes and the wearability of these fabrics.

Suds gaskets

The gaskets on refrigerators, freezers and dishwashers are usually made of vinyl and should be treated to frequent sudsy washings to perform efficiently.

Crumbs

Keep toaster crumb tray clean. Crumbs that collect in the bottom of toaster should be suds-sponged away often. Always disconnect the appliance before opening the crumb tray on the bottom.

The coffee hours have been planned as an expression of appreciation to the 150 volunteers who have donated more than 12,000 hours of service to the hospital.

"These figures reflect hours worked from March 28, when the hospital officially opened its doors, to the present time," Mrs. Bruce Van Vranken, FPH volunteer services coordinator.

The number does not include the countless hours given by volunteers before the hospital opened."

The coffee hours are scheduled from 10 to 11 a.m, Jan. 22; 7-8 p.m., Jan. 27; and 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., Jan. 29.

Switzerland film set for Friday showing

WILLIS BUTLER

The third presentation of the Claremont Travel Film Series for the 20th annual season is scheduled Friday in Garrison Theater at 2 p.m. and again at 8 p.m.

A long time favorite of the Claremont audiences, Willis Butler will narrate a picture on "Switzerland Today."

Famous for its scenery, Switzerland is also unique among the world's nations. The ingenious, well-organized Swiss have turned a country of limited natural resources into a democratic nation with one of Europe's highest standards of living and one of the world's most stable currencies.

In his latest films, Willis Butler makes use of his usual talent for combining showmanship with information. The film includes the spectacular Alps, picturesque villages and life in the cities.

Chairman for the series is Mrs. Milo Tigner and assisting her are Mmes. Wesley Leighton, Roy Miller, Alfred Ambrogi, Charles Gill, Earle Jones, Jackson Niebrugge, Jules Plaut, Cass Arthur Reed, Stuart Wheeler, Walter Whitney and Miss Esther Ballew.

Season tickets for the series and single tickets for the current production may be purchased at the box office. Courtesy coffee will be served in the foyer during intermission at the evening performance.

Methodist Women set potluck

The first unit meeting of the United Methodist Women of the Chino United Methodist Church will be a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the church social hall.

Those attending are asked to bring a hot dish, salad or dessert and their own table service. The dinner will be hosted by the executive committee.

Mrs. Jack Sawyer will preside as each of the Mission Coordinators tells about her responsibility in developing the purpose of the organization.

Mrs. Ed Czeschin, treasurer, will be in charge of a pledge service.

The Tuesday evening fellowship group will meet after the regular program to select a chairman and name for their group.

The diets of infants and pregnant women need special attention to see that they contain the iron needed.

Horse show plans told by auxilians

Members of Casa Colina Auxiliary have begun work on the first annual Casa Colina Benefit Amateur Horse Show to be held March 30 with the Pacific Walking Horse Association.

The association has provided a film, "Cradle to Crown," featuring the Tennessee Walking Horse, which will be shown to auxiliary members and interested persons Monday in the Commons Room of the hospital, 255 E. Bonita Ave.

The meeting will open with a social hour at 11:30 a.m. and will be followed by luncheon and the film.

Reservations may be made for the luncheon by calling Mrs. Herbert Johnson, 626-6928.

Mrs. Veatch to address secretaries

The Pomona Chapter of the National Secretaries Association will meet Wednesdays at 7 p.m. at the Centro Basco Restaurant, 13432 Central Ave., Chino.

Mrs. Linda Veatch, department head in the business and vocational department at Claremont High School, will be the speaker. Her topic will be "Cooperating with the Co-ops."

Secretaries interested in learning more about the program or the organization are invited to call Mrs. Barbara Condit, 626-7511, extension 2255.

Afraid she's pregnant

By JEAN ADAMS

FORCED: (Q.) My friend had been asking me for a long time to have sex with him. I told him no again and again. Last week he forced himself upon me. I haven't told anyone and am afraid I am pregnant. Please help me. I am 14. He is 15 — Scared in New York.

(A.) By now you should know whether you are pregnant. If you are, tell your parents and ask them to help you. If you aren't, avoid the boy who wouldn't take no for an answer and look for friends who will respect your personal wishes.

COUSINS: (Q.) Three hours after I was introduced to Marge we were in each other's arms watching TV. Three hours later we were seriously talking about getting married. I am 17 and she is 15 and we are first cousins. I love her and she loves me.

We both have hereditary blood problems, so if we marry we will have to adopt our children. We also know about the dangers when first cousins marry.

And we do not plan to marry soon. I am going into the service when I get out of school and she is going to be a model. We will both be in our 20s before we marry.

But how do we tell our parents? — In Love in California

(A.) Tell them just as you have told me. Give them all the facts including time element and the plans regarding children.

And here is some advice you did not ask for. In the months and years ahead, keep your minds open. There may be changes in the way you or she feels. If so, be honest with each other.

Extension of disclosure law sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Many of California's top educators would be required to disclose their personal finances under a bill introduced recently by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose.

The measure (AB2759) would extend the new state conflict-of-interest law to ccover the University of California regents. California state university trustees, and the community colleges board of governors.

The bill, sponsored by the Joint Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education, would force education officials to disclose to the public their sources of income over $250 and assets exceeding $1,000.

Similar disclosure requirements now apply to various state and local officials under a new conflict-of-interest state law

Indonesia is target of America's search for new oil

BUSINESS NEWS
Financial

By ROBERT KAYLOR

OFF THE EAST KALIMANTAN COAST, Indonesia (UPI) — As the Arab embargo tightens, American oil companies are pushing ahead as fast as they can in the quest for new supplies in Indonesia.

"The North Sea and Indonesia are the two places where there's the most interest in oil exploration right now," says Jim King, boss of one of the offshore drilling platforms that dot the waters throughout the country.

King, 54, a grizzled veteran of oil fields in the United States who has the title "Ramrod" stencilled on the front of his hard hat, is one of thousands of oil men who have poured into Indonesia as the search has gathered momentum.

For the past two and a half years, King has been drilling wildcat exploration wells in the Indonesian archipelago, which stretches for 3,000 miles between the Southeast Asian mainland and Australia. Hs he will be here a good deal longer.

"There's going to be a lot more exploration here," he says in the drawl of his native Abbeville, La. "There are huge parts of this country that are still undeveloped. It's a hot area. The ratio of successes to failures is pretty good."

Exploration is going on throughout the country, but much of the recent interest has centered on East Kalimantan, an Indonesian province which straddles the equator on the island of Borneo.

California's Union Oil Co. discovered oil here three years ago and now is producing more than 100,000 barrels daily from Indonesia's largest offshore oil field at Attaka.

On the average of every three days, tankers running up to 100,000 tons or more leave the modern storage terminal that Union has hacked out of the steamy jungle at nearby Santan for the trip to Japan or the United States.

The $9 million drilling platform of which King is boss is further down the coast, jacked up on its three huge steel legs in 140 feet of water. During the last three weeks it has bored its way 9,000 feet down into the sea bed in hopes of hitting more oil. Less than a mile away, barges are at work on a permanent installation to put into production a well which King and his crew recently completed.

The drilling is a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-week operation for the 90-odd men who live aboard the rig, roughly a third of whom are American or Australian oil men and the rest Indonesian workers. Costs can run up to $2.5 million for an offshore well and a quarter of that for one on shore, but the oil companies think the prospects are well worth it.

R. M. Huffington Inc. a Houston-based outfit, has uncovered a natural gas field onshore in East Kalimantan that has been estimated up to a staggering 6.5 trillion cubic feet. The find, with an even bigger one in the northern Indonesian island of Sumatra, has resulted in a $3 billion deal for the building of complex plants to liquify the gas at 260 degrees below zero farenheit so it can be safely shipped aboard specially built tankers.

The project is being handled by Pertamina, the Indonesian country. The lion's share of production will go to Japan, but after the plants start to produce in 1977 they will also supply 3.5 million tons of gas a year to two lighting and gas companies in Southern California.

Oil activity has helped turn the east Kalimantan port of Balikpapan, a backwater whose bay is still littered with ships sunk during World War II, into a frontier-style boom town with prices that match the freespending ways of the oil companies.

Two tawdry night clubs and a string of bordellos have sprung up along the shoreline in sharp contrast to neatly-manicured suburbia-style compounds being constructed for American oil families that are being transplanted from the states, and sleek executive jets now land regularly at the town's airport. Economists say that Indonesia's estimated oil reserves of 10 to 15 billion barrels and current production of about 1.4 million barrels daily are a drop in the bucket compared to the Middle East, which supplied about half the world's oil until last October. Before the embargo, Saudi Arabia alone produced more than 5 million barrels a day.

The economists also point out that Japan already gets about 70 per cent of Indonesia's production and will continue to do so because of commitments already made.

Nevertheless, oil sources see several reasons why most foreign companies that are actively exploring in Indonesia at the moment are American. Of about 35 foreign firms having agreements with Indonesia, more than 20 are based in the United States.

While some North Sea countries, such as Norway, have taken a go-slow attitude tonesia is eager to press ahead ward oil development, Indobecause it is hungry for foreign exchange for economic development programs.

Despite delays caused by shortages of steel casing pipe needed to sink wells and a need for more of the costly offshore drilling rigs, production in Indonesia is expected to hit 2 million barrels at day by 1976 and 3 million barrels a day by 1978.

U.S. oii men also like indoneisan oil because the price is right. Although prices have already doubled for Indonesian crude this year to about $6 a barrel and will go up at the beginning of 1974 to around $8, they are still far below some of the record prices of more than $17 that have been paid in the Mideast.

Although it is a Moslem country, Indonesia is expected to hold the line to what it sees as realistic level for prices. "Sharp and exorbitant rises in prices will affect everyone-even the producers—in the long run," says one Pertamina executive. "We would like to do it intelligently, and we would like to keep politics out of the oil business as much as possible."

Indonesia's crude oil is high in quality and low in sulfur content, making it high in demand in a pollution-conscious world.

"This stuff is super-crude," says Frank Gularte, a foreman for Union in the Attaka field. "The way it comes out of the ground it is practically like diesel oil. You can take it right out of a tanker from here and use it in factories without putting it through a refinery."

Mideast better -- so is trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Favorable Middle East developments lifted stock prices this week on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 13.99 to 855.47. Bargain hunting, the first solid progress toward peace in the Middle East, and optimism for a quick end to the Arab oil embargo enabled the widely followed index to gain about 32 points between Tuesday and Thursday.

But the average slumped nearly 17 points Friday, reacting in part to a report attributed to a White House source who discouraged hopes for an end to the oil embargo which has nagged Wall Street for months.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index added 1.60 to 95.56. The NYSE index rose 1.04 to 51.16.

There were 1,216 advances, 541 declines, among the 1,973 issues traded.

Sales this week totaled 80,292,810 shares, compared with 86,465,629 a week earlier, and with 93,206,990 the year before.

The stock market got its biggest lift on Thursday—when the Dow scored a 16.07-point gain—after Israel and Egypt agreed on a troop disengagement plan for the Suez Canal. In the previous two sessions, the Dow climbed nearly 17 points, as investors were encouraged by signs that real progress was being made toward lasting peace in the Middle East.

For Wall Street, the greatest dividend from an eventual peace settlement would be an end to the Arab oil embargo. Many on Wall Street appear to believe a resumption of Arab oil shipments would be the solution to the energy crisis, but others caution the soaring cost of such foreign oil would create a serious burden for the United States' already-inflated economy.

An indication of the nation's economic problems came out of the Commerce Department on Thursday. The government reported the real Gross National Product gained a sluggish 1.3 per cent in the fourth quarter, while inflation soared at a 7.9 per cent annual rate. Put together, the two government statistics spell "stagflation" to economists, a gloomy reminder of the 1969-70 recession.

The growing belief a fullfledged recession has begun led Wall Street to minimize the importance of some excellent corporate earnings reports that started to flow this week. "As far as the market is concerned," analyst Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co9 said, "fourth quarter results will have their own little impact. But investors really are looking now to poorer first quarter earnings."

Some stocks, particularly in the glamor group, did respond to strong earnings results this week, however. Burroughs, reporting fourth quarter earnings of $2.57 a share, against $2.08 the comparable period last year, advanced 14 ⅞. IBM, whose earnings in 1973 grew 23.2 per cent, gained 6.

Other earnings results went largely unnoticed. Allied Chemical, for instance, declined 5 ⅝, despite news the company earned $3.45 a share in the current period, against $2.38 the same time last year.

Record bullion prices at Zurich and Paris helped gold mining stocks, with Dome Mines ahead 7, Homestake Mining 4 ⅛, an ASA Ltd. 1 ½.

Research firm disputes EPA's Mazda mileage

LOS ANGELES — An independent study released by a Los Angeles research firm has refuted Environmental Protection Agency statistics on the performance of Mazda cars equipped with rotary engines.

Figures released by J.D. Power and Associates, consultants in marketing planning and research, show that the Mazda RX-2 and RX-3 average about 17 miles per gallon in city driving and about 20 miles per gallon on the open road.

These figures are in sharp contrast to EPA statistics released last year claiming that the cars got less than 11 miles to the gallon.

The Power survey, combining the replies of 636 Mazda owners, notes that the EPA figures were derived from laboratory testing primarily designed to- measure engine emissions, not mileage.

About half the owners surveyed had air conditioning installed in their cars and were included in the averages. Overall, only 10 per cent of the owners rated the gas mileage performance of the car as poor, with the remainder rating the performance fair, good or excellent.

The survey was mailed to owners during the last week of October and the findings are based on returned replies of 40 per cent of the questionnaires. The majority of those replying are concentrated in the Western states.

Pomona College to place art collection in gallery

CLAREMONT — Thirty-nine contemporary art works recently acquired by Pomona College will go on exhibit Monday at the Montgomery Art Gallery at the college.

The 25 prints and 14 photographs were purchased by the art department with a $10,000 grant from the Charles E. Merrill Trust.

The works are the first in a series of contemporary art purchases Pomona College expects to make to enhance its permanent collection, expecially in the fields of graphics and photography. The print collection has long been the strongest part of the gallery's permanent collection, with works dating from the 15th century to modern times.

Under terms of the Merrill grant, which was established to encourage working artists and craftsmen, all purchases have to be of contemporary arts and crafts by living and productive artists, although the actual selection of art works was left up to the discretion of the college. The Charles E. Merrill Trust made similar grants to nine other institutions, but the Pomona College grant was the only one on the West Coast.

Dr. David Steadman, former associate director of the Art Museum, Princeton University, who became director of the Galleries of the Claremont Colleges Jan. 1, and Dr. Gerald Ackerman, associate professor and chairman of the Pomona College art department, took active roles in purchasing works for the permanent collection.

"The works have been selected as an integral part of a long-range program for Pomona College," Ackerman noted. "The aim has been to select works from living artists with a large span of ages, reputations and styles.

Triple exhibit marks anniversary

PASADENA — Three exhibitions will open at the Pasadena Museum of Modern Art Saturday to coincide with the official birthday party celebrating the founding of the museum in 1924.

The exhibitions are the works of Russian Suprematist Kasimir Malevich; Indian wood carvings by Lelooska; and color photography by six California artists.

The public is invited to attend the celebration from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The exhibition of work of Malevich, from the Stedelijk Museum in Amsterdam, Holland, consists of approximately 60 pieces including paintings, drawings, and charts. The collection, one of the Stedlijk's major assets and the greatest collection of Malevich's in the western world, spans the artist's entire career. It is the first time these works have been seen in this country.

Malevich is known primarily as the founder of Suprematism, a non-objective, non-social, non-utilitarian art movement which compressed the whole of painting into a square and other geometric shapes on a white canvas. He developed this theory by the use of the simple forms of the square, triangle, and the cross. As such he was one of the most important pioneers of 20th Century art.

The photography exhibition of 65 pieces includes a wide variety of work done with the 3M Color in Color Systems. These latest and most dramatic copy machines, through use of dyes and coated papers, can produce an infinite variety of colors on any heat-resistant material. The machine itself may also be used as the camera.

Artists represented in this exhibition are Tyler James Hoare, Ellen Landweber, Cheryl Leonard, Sonia Sheridan, Keith Smith and Arthur Taussig. Their work encompasses portraits and cartoon figures, collages, quilts, and serial images taken from video tape. The exhibition was organized by the Friends of Photography, Carmel.

The woodcarvings of Lelooska are in the tradition of the Northwest Coast Indians. Pieces displayed include a large totem pole in the style of the Queen Charlotte Island Haidas, several articulated ceremonial masks influenced by the clan and tribal crests of the Kwakiutl, and other representative items from these cultures. Lelooska's carvings are often enhanced with cedar barks, feathers, and brightly-colored paints. The masks are large and theatrical since they are meant to be used dramatically in large, dark rooms.

Although a Cherokee, Lelooska lives and works in the State of Washington. His Indian name, which means "Whittling Boy," was given to him by the Nez Perce. Lelooska's chief desire is to preserve the Inidan heritage, thereby helping to maintain the ethnic pride which helps one meet present-day problems more successfully.

Using handmade traditional tools, Lelooska works with alder, red cedar and maple, plus other materials customarily used by the Indians of the region. However, he has not confined himself to the arts of the past, but has used these materials in an innovative, contemporary expression.

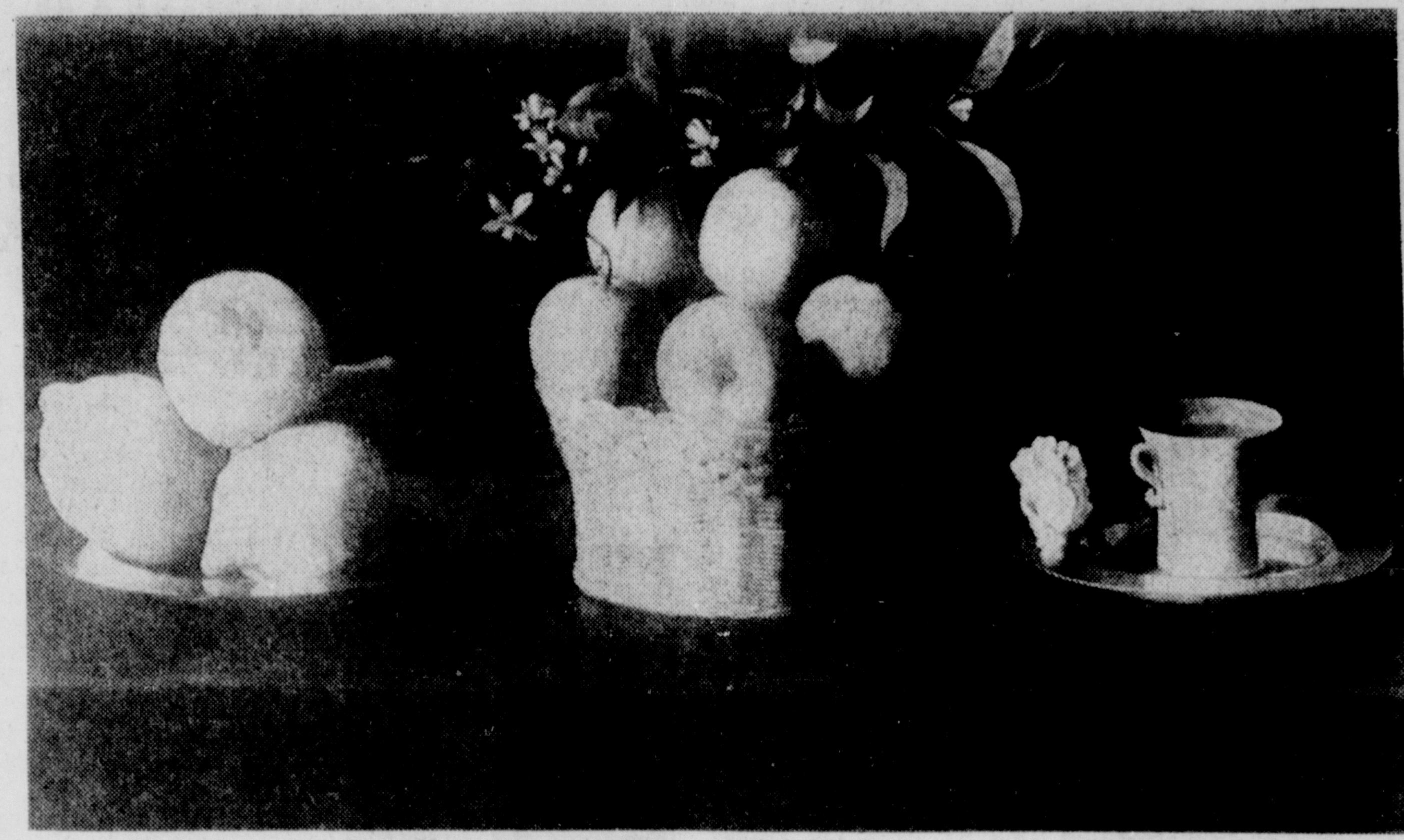
Movie posters form exhibit

POMONA — "Classic Movie Posters," an exhibition of illustrated signs advertising movies of the past, went on display last week at the Pomona Valley Center.

Among the 20 films advertised are "Beau Geste," "Gone with the Wind," "Sea Hawk," "Saratoga" and "Cruel, Cruel World."

The movies range from 1914 to 1942.

The human brain can retain 10 million bits of information and pull them out at random.



ZURBARAN MASTERPIECE — "Still Life: Lemons, Oranges and a rose" by the 17th Century Spanish artist Francisco de Zurbaran, went on exhibit last week at the county Museum of Art. The masterpiece is the only still life Zurbaran signed and dated (1633). It is on loan to the museum from the Norton Simon Foundation which acquired it in 1972 from the Contini-Bonacossi Collection in Florence, Italy.

Classical, romantic era silver artworks on display at museum

LOS ANGELES — "Monumental Silver: The Gilbert Collection," an exhibition of 50 silver and silver-gift objects, is now on view at the county Museum of Art.

The pieces, primarily from the Georgian period (18th and 19th centures), are on loan from the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gilbert of Los Angeles. They can be seen on the third level of the Ahmanson Gallery through March 3.

Included in the exhibition are center pieces, serving dishes, candelabra, monumental cups and bowls, trays and urns, most of which were made by two of the world's most famous silversmiths, Paul de Lamerie and Paul Storr.

De Lamerie, born in The Netherlands in 1688, spent most of his life in London. His early style is characterized by William Ezelle Jones, the museum's curator of decorative arts, as being "conservative, dependent on proportions and plain surfaces, with an almost total lack of all but the simplest of applied ornament." A fine example from this period is a two-handled cup and over dated 1717.

Later on De Lamerie adopted the ornamental and majestic French Baroque style for monumental pieces ordered by the court and the nobility. From this period is a pair of George I silver-gilt wall sconces, the only pair known to have been made by De Lamerie. From De Lamerie's fully-realized rococo style, for which he is famous, is a George II two-handled, vase-shaped silver-gilt cup and covered standing 15 inches high and dated 1743.

Storr was born in England 1771, and his name is associated with the most vivacious of 19th Century neoclassical silver. Particularly fine examples of his work in the exhibition are a monumetal silver-gilt center pieces dated 1813, and a pair of covered entree dishes bearing the coat of arms of the 12th Duke of Norfolk.

Also featured in the Gilbert Collection are two pairs of Russian silver gates commissioned by Catherine the Great. The larger pair, totally silver-gilt, was executed by the same master silversmith who made the more elaborate smaller pair.

Mystical forces at work in CTG season in Forum

LOS ANGELES — The Center Theater Group's eighth season at the Forum of the Los Angeles Music Center will open with American actor Stacy Keach starring in Shakespeare's "Hamlet" March 14-April 28.

Three other plays chosen so far in the five-play season are Derek Walcott's new play, "The Charlatan" (world premiere); Christopher Hampton's "Savages," a current London hit; and a new adaptation of S. Ansky's classic of the Yiddish theater, "The Dybbuk."

STACY KEACH

"Hamlet," "The Dybbuk" and "The Charlatan" share a common bond in dealing with the supernatural and with mystical and spiritual events that obsess the characters.

From the opening moments of "Hamlet," when his father's ghost reveals his need to be avenged, the Danish prince is like a man possessed by a demon, driven to his tragic destiny.

"The Dybbuk" is a tale of demonic possession of an innocent young village girl on her wedding day and the haunting and suspenseful circumstances which precede and follow that terrifying event. "The Dybbuk" has fascinated audiences throughout the world.

In contrast to the high drama and dark humor of "Hamlet" and "The Dybbuk," Walcott's "The Charlatan" takes a light look at seances, the mystical, and the magical in a bright and frothy calypso farce by the master poet-playwright of the West Indies. Laughter, lyricism, and music are joyfully intertwined in a tale from Trinidad by the author of "The Dream on Monkey Mountain," one of the major successes of the Forum's 1970 season of premiere productions and winner of a Los Angeles Drama Critics Circle Award for Distinguished Production.

In his second major appearance on the Los Angeles stage, Keach will further explore the complex character of Hamlet, a role which has already earned him critical acclaim as "one of the great Hamlets of our time" during productions at the Long Wharf Theater and at the New York Shakespeare Festival.

Growing up in his native Savannah, Ga. and later in Los Angeles in a home environment oriented to the theater (thanks to his father's own career as a drama instructor, dialogue coach, actor, and director), the young Keach was persistent in pursuing an acting career despite his parents' discouraging warnings about its vagaries. In addition to leading roles in UC Berkeley productions, he spent two summers at the Ashland, Ore. Shakespeare Festival, where he played leading roles in works such as "Henry V."

'Butley' next filmed play in AFT subscription series

CLAREMONT — The American Film Theater production of "Butley" will be screened at the Village Theater at 2 and 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Alan Bates, Jessica Tandy and Richard O'Callaghan star in this fourth motion picture in the subscription series of eight films based on classic works of the American and British stage. "Butley" was directed by Harold Pinter and produced by Ely A. Landau, based upon a screen adaptation by Simon Gray.

Prior to "Butley," the American Film Theater had presented Eugene O'Neill's "The Iceman Cometh," Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming" and Edward Albee's "A Delicate Balance."

The films are shown on once-a-month on Mondays and Tuesdays for four performances only in more than 500 theaters across the country.

Mrs. Mano, a native of Japan, has studied art extensively, working in oil, watercolor, charcoal and mixed media. She has won numerous prizes in art competitions, and her works hang in many private and public collections.

At the workshop meeting she will give instruction on painting a harbor scene.

The CAA meetings have been changed to the fourth Thurday of each month. The public is invited. Information can be obtained from Carol Joy at 627-5091.

Wild cherry choice in tasty lipsticks

ALICE LISKEY

Ontario girl to play for Bach festival

LOS ANGELES — Alice Liskey, 18-year-old Ontario pianist, will perform at the Los Angeles Bach Festival at the First Congregational Church, Sixth Street and Commonwealth Avenue, at 3 p.m. next Sunday.

Miss Liskey was chosen for the program in competition at the Southern California Junior Bach Festival at Cal State Los Angeles last May.

In 1972 Miss Liskey won first place in the John Child Walker talent contest and last year she was chosen to perform at the annual convention of the Music Teachers' Association of California.

A graduate of Ontario High School, Miss Liskey is a music major at San Diego State.

Students present play written by a college peer

CLAREMONT — "Movings," a play by Don L. Daglow, Pomona College, senior, will be presented in Edmunds Union at the college at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday.

Mark Majarian, also a senior at Pomona, will direct.

"Movings" was written in the workshop program of the college theater arts department. The student cast is made up of Charles Dougherty, Stephanie Donovan, Ron Robertson and Deborah Hicks.

Gillian Symonds did the stage design.

Realtors adopt land use guidelines

LOS ANGELES — The California Real Estate Association has adopted a 20 point guideline as its official position toward land use.

The board of directors took the action at a recent meeting here to clarify CREA's stance to its members and the public, said C. Larry Hoag of Downey, president.

"We need to conserve our resources but our association is concerned that the needs of the people might be trampled in the rush," he added.

"We won't make much progress if Californians can only enjoy clean air, clean water and clear vistas to the sea on their way to the unemployment office.

"While accomplishing those goals, we must maintain a adequate standard of living. We must accomodate natural population growth. Our association is also concerned that the rights of property owners to due process of law are respected," he added.

The CREA guidelines include:

—Public land, where practicable, should be used for more than one purpose to satisfy needs of ecology and open space.

—Aspects of the environment, subject to governmental regulation, should be specifically defined and limited to the physicial environment, excluding such social and economic factors as jobs and education.

—Regulation of land use should be by local government within guidelines established by the state. As the unit closest to the people, it can encourage public input into land use decisions.

—No state-authorized system of permits to be issued by state or regional agencies for the use of land should be established.

—The right of property owners affectd by land use decisions to due process of law should be protected and an administrative appeal process provided.

— Citizens experienced in land use should not be prohibited from participating in the planning process on grounds of conflict of interest.

—Governmental units involved in land use regulation should minimize calling for additional reports and speed up the decision making process to reduce costs to government and the individual.

—State standards should be established to assure reasonable opportunity for the people to conduct their activities consistent with nomal growth and standards of health, safety, welfare and morals.

— Existing use of land which violates newly imposed zoning, except as judged a nuisance or peculiarly offensive, should be permitted to continue unless abandoned or materially modified by the owner.

—Modifications of law and regulations should be actively sought to remove unreasonable restrictions on the owner's right to divide his property.

—Moratoriums on land use should not be established beyond a period of four months, with two extensions of four months each permitted.

—Sequential zoning, urban reserves with dates designated for development, and annual surcharges to force development should be prohibited.

—Government should be encouraged to pursue research into more effective technology for using natural resources, including those used in construction.

—When private property is taken for public use, other than for public works projects, the taking must be subject to judicial adjudication. Just compensation to the ewner must be made at the time of taking; where the purpose may be served by taking less than full title, that should be preferred.

—We concur with a system of voluntary contracts between owner and goveernment restricting the use of land for a stipulated time, provided there is adequate counseling regarding penalties and detriments which might occur.

—Further statutory requirements for dedication of land or payment of fees as a condition for the use of land should be opposed.

—We oppose the unearned increment tax, and other forms of punitive taxation.

—The use of governmental police power must be strictly limited to promote public health, safety, welfare and morals.

—Where a change in zoning significantly reduces property values, statutues should allow court action by the owner for just compensation. In such cases, revision of assessed value must be assured.

—To minimize litigation, no expansion of the standing to sue should be granted beyond those now allowed.

Restaurant is top building for December

MONTCLAIR — Construction of a new restaurant topped local building activity here during December.

City officials issued a building permit to Harry Gardner for the restaurant at 10220 Central Ave., valued at $84,300

For the month, 141 permits were issued for a total valuation of $208,760. This boosted the 12 month total to 1,233 permits and a $5.6 million valuation.

Officials also issued 18 permits for additions and alterations to non residential structures for a combined valuation of $91,450.

These projects included electrical work to Cal's Paints, 5640 E. Holt Blvd., $10,000; addition to a commercial building at 5688 Holt Blvd., $16,000; and addition to the Pizza Palace, 9430 Central Ave., $30,000.

There were also 72 permits issued for residential additions and alterations, valued at $26,560. Other permits and valuations include:

Residential garages or carports, one, $900; signs, four, $5,550; and new sewer connections, 45, no valuation.

Small wonder time faster

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Six of 43 hardy Purdue University men braved 7 degree below zero temperatures during the weekend to win the Fourth Annual Cary Quadrangle Nude Winter Olympics here. They were clad only in tennis shoes and hats.

Forty three runners entered the three-mile contest—which began in 1970 as a prank between residence halls on the men's quadrangle. The winners completed the race this year in 59 minutes, compared to one hour and 15 minutes last year.

Buyers at Cinnamon Creek need only one per cent down payment

SAN DIMAS — The Cinnamon Creek town-houses are being offered to buyers with only a one per cent down payment.

The program is available on all homes ready for occupancy at the present time, said Phil A. Moore, marketing director for Kaufman and Broad, Inc.

"The conventional financing program, based on a sales price of $26,040, will require only $260 down payment and there are no closing costs to the buyer," he added.

"The one per cent down payment will allow home-buyers to move into a townhome today and not wait until they have accumulated the large down payment that is usually required when purchasing a new home."

The $8 million community of 118 townhomes is located on Valley Center near Covina Boulevard. It features two and three bedroom units located in a rural atmosphere that is conveyed through the use of pathways, heavy landscaping and extensive use of wood fencing and siding.

A dry creek bed, located in the center of the project, has many old oak trees which are preserved and included in the landscaping.

The one and two story designs have private entrances to wood fenced patios in the front and enclosed garages in the back. Garages have direct access to the homes for safety and convenience during inclement weather.

All homes have living rooms and dining areas that overlook the enclosed patios, thus providing an extension of living and entertainment space.

Kitchens are compact, with some having breakfast bars. They are equipped with garbage disposals, dishwashers, ranges and ovens.

The developments recreational facilities include a swimming pool, cabana with kitchen, restrooms with showers and "tot lots" for children.

The purchase price includes air conditioning, wall-to-wall carpeting, custom fixtures and large closets.

Decorated model homes are located at 720 S. Valley Center.

Members are appointed to state group

SACRAMENTO — Nine persons have been appointed to a new advisory committee charged with recommending the allocation of $1.4 million appropriated from the Real Estate Fund for the advancement of real estate consumer education, said Robert W. Karpe, state real estate commissioner.

Senate Bill 1158 which appropriated the money requires the real estate commissioner to appoint two public members, three representatives from the academic community and five real estate brokers.

Donald A. Wiedmann of San Diego was named committee chairman. He is an active real estate broker and also a teacher at San Diego Community College.

Other committee members named so far are George B. Paris of Los Angeles, an attorney and educator; Richard Van Valer of San Jose, president of Van Vleck Realty; Herbert Hawkins of Temple City, president of the Herbert Hawkins Co., Inc.; William S. Reid of Santa Monica, teacher of Santa Monica Community College and past chairman of the California Association of Real Estate Teachers; Art Godi of Stockton, real estate broker and community college teacher; Dr. Robert O. Bess of Los Angeles, a state university dean; Norbert Mietus, attorney and professor at Cal State Sacramento; and Dr. William H. Hippaka, professor of real estate at San Diego State University.

Karpe has advocated a strong, continuing educational base as the vehicle for advancing competency in real estate. "Through this legislation and the appointed committee, we will develop three programs to better protect the consumer," he said. These are:

—Implementing a consumer education program in the amount of $250,000.

—Endowing a program at the State Scholarship and Loan Commission in the amount of $200,000 for worthy and disadvantaged students enrolled in real estate career oriented programs in the state universities and colleges.

—Endowing the state universities and colleges in the amount of $1 million, the earnings from which will be to further real estate education in one or more of the state universities and colleges.

Economy will expand in '74, says Fortune

NEW YORK (UPI) — Economic growth in the United States during the next 18 months will match that of the past 18 months despite the energy crisis, Sanford Parker, chief economist for Fortune magazine, predicted in an article in its January issue.

Parker said the economy will begin to expand again in the spring of 1974 and will continue its expansion until mid-1975, the growth running at an annual rate of nearly 6 per cent.

The article assumed that the Arab embargo on oil shipments to the United States will continue but that government allocation programs and civil conservation will insulate industry from disruptions resulting from a lack of fuel.

Orchard Lane has a new type of visitor

UPLAND — A noticeable trend in the type of visitors to model homes at the Orchard Lane condominium community here has been noted in the past several weeks, said Jim Noever, sales manager.

"We're getting many people who are now looking because they feel that buying a home at this time will help protect them from an inflationary trend that is almost sure to continue.

"Apartment dwellers are particularly interested in our condominiums because they offer the advantages of apartment living, plus the benefits of home ownership," he added.

The homes are priced from $19,900. Each has its own private, enclosed patio, kitchen with self-cleaning oven, automatic dishwasher and double sink with garbage disposal, luminous ceiling and adjacent laundry area.

The sales information center and model home complex can be reached by driving north from the San Bernardino Freeway on Mountain Avenue to Seventh Street, turn left to Spencer Avenue then right one block to Fredricks Lane.

Local Realtors are appointed to state association posts

LOS ANGELES — Three members of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors have been installed as state directors for the 72,000 member California Real Estate Association (CREA).

They are Mildred J. Heckmer, newly elected as local board president; James G. Odom, outgoing president: and Roger S. Wheeler.

In addition, Mrs. Heckmer, Wheeler and J. Stanley Heckmer have been appointed to CREA committees. Mrs. Heckmer will serve on the board president committee; Heckmer, Realtor institute committee; and Wheeler, land use and environmental committee.

The CREA committees work during the year to improve the service offered the public by the real estate industry and to encourage property ownership.

Some 40 statewide committees met recently in Los Angeles to organize for 1974 and plan activities. They later reported at the directors meeting.

C. Larry Hoag of Downey was installed as the 67th CREA president at an inaugural dinner held at the Biltmore Bowl. Other state officers include E. Thornton Ibbetson of Bellflower, treasurer; Richard C. Farrer of Hayward, first vice president; Zan L. Beckstead, executive vice president and state secretary.

N.Y. offering ferry for sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you've ever had the urge to take a cruise to get away from it all, maybe the City of New York can help.

The city, it seems, has no further use for the 2,216-ton ferry "Gold Star Mother," and plans to sell the 267-foot vessel to the highest bidder Feb. 21.

There is one catch, however, the buyer must agree to tow the boat away from its berth in Staten Island. Although afloat, the ferry has been cannibalized for parts to keep other ferries in the city's fleet in operation.

Dim the lights even lower

The Southern California Edison Co. has taken steps to implement the California Public Utilities Commission's second interim curtailment order which urges all California residents to reduce their use of electricity by 15 per cent.

"Our customers have already been giving excellent support to the commission's earlier order for a 10 per cent cut from year ago levels, and we feel they will do their best to accomplish this new goal," said Jack K. Horton, Edison's board chairman.

Edison customers achieved an 11.4 per cent reduction during the first week of January, as compared to the same period last year.

The company is asking its customers to make a further effort to save electricity and continue their support during the critical oil and energy shortage facing the nation.

"In anticipation of curtailment, we have been working with major commercial and industrial customers in suggesting ways they can achieve reductions, and we will accelerate our general conservation informational program to all customers," said Horton.

He added that mandatory provisions in the commission's Jan. 3 order limiting certain end uses of electricity will be promptly communicated to the various customers affected through news announcements, advertising, speeches and personal contact.

Horton noted that the mandatory curtailments ordered by the PUC, primarily affecting commercial and industrial customers, would prohibit or reduce certain uses of outdoor advertising and decorative lighting; functional outdoor lighting; lighting for outdoor public gatherings; indoor business lighting; and heating and cooling at variance from prescribed levels.

Requests by customers for special relief from prohibition or curtailment provisions because of "special hardship or impossibility of compliance" will be handled by the Public Utilities Commission under its formal complaint procedures.

Southern California Edison serves some 7-½ million people in central and southern California.

To help customers reduce use of electricity, Edison has a free booklet, "Conservation of Electricity is Everybody's Business," which already has been distributed to 275,000 customers. The booklet offers 70 suggestions on how to reduce energy usage in homes.

Copies of the free booklet may be obtained by writing to Conservation, Edison, P. O. Box 800, Rosemead, CA 91770.

Key conservation suggestions in the booklet include the following:

—Reduce lighting by turning off unnecessary lights and by reducing wattage of bulbs or by replacement with fluorescent lamps.

—Operate home appliances such as dishwahsers, clothes washers and dryers with full loads only.

—Refrigerators and freezers, which are on all day and night, can be operated more efficiently by keeping condenser coils clean, and opening doors only when necessary.

—Eliminate all outdoor decorative lighting in homes and business, leaving only lights needed for safety and security.

—For heating and cooling systems, do not set thermostats higher than 68 degrees. (Nearly all types of heating and cooling systems use air circulating electric fans and blowers which go on and off if temperatures are set too high.)

—Do not heat a home swimming pool more than you have to, and do not heat it at all in the months when it is not being used.

Claremont okays home for elderly

CLAREMONT — The Planning Commission has granted a conditional use permit to Jerome Doidge for a home for the aged at 364 Utah Court.

A condition attached to the permit is that the applicant obtain the necessary state license to operate the home. The commission will review the permit in a year.

The city staff reported that a couple, the intended owners of the property, would care for a maximum of six elderly persons.

The house had been used for the care of four handicapped women without an approved use permit from the city.

Tennis demonstration:

Plum Tree Apartments holds opening today

CLAREMONT — The Plum Tree Apartments at 384 N. Carnegie St. will celebrate its grand opening today with activities that include a tennis demonstration by the resident tennis pro.

The $2 million complex, with 109 apartment units, was developed by American Housing Guild and is managed by the property management subsidiary, A.H.G. Management Corp.

It features recreational and social activities, including a tennis court and a resident tennis pro, a volleyball court, heated pool, outdoor gas barbecues, tot lots with safe and imaginative play equipment, sauna and jacuzzi pools, two level clubhouse, exercise room, billiards, fireside conversation lounge and party kitchen.

"One convenience for the mothers is our closed circuit television system which enables them to keep an eye on the kids playing outside said Nancie Larimore, director of consumer marketing.

The two story garden apartment development offers residents large living rooms with sliding glass doors which open onto patios or balconies, air conditioning, sound conditioning and extra storage areas, she added.

"Gourmet" kitchens are equipped with electric ovens, custom styled and crafted wood cabinets, dishwashers in most units, serving counters convenient to dining areas and double sinks. Refrigerators are available for a rental fee.

Tenants have five plans from which to choose. These include a furnished junior, one bedroom model; one bedroom, one bath; two bedroom, one bath; two bedroom, two bath; and three bedroom, two bath. Rents range from $180 to $320. Furniture designed for Plum Tree is available to residents on a monthly mental basis.

Five furnished model apartments are open daily from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Rents apply toward home down payment

FONTANA — The La Linda Homes is offering a home buying program designed to ease the cash outlay burden for buyers.

A buyer who lacks cash for a down payment can move into a La Linda home on a rental basis. After six months, money paid in rent will be applied toward the down payment requirement, said Richard Hall, builder.

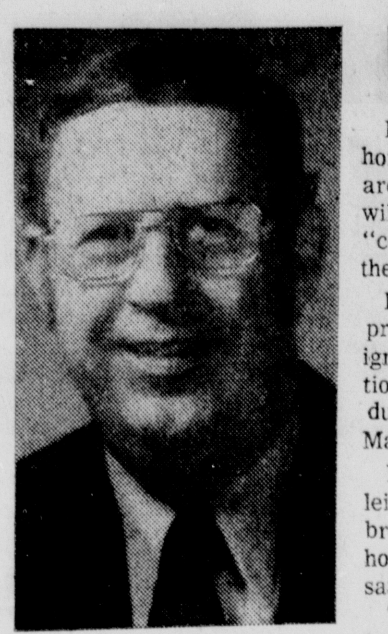
"It's like being able to live in your home rent free for six months while you save money for the down payment," he explained.

The 14 home project is located on Blanchard Avenue and Fairview Road. They are priced from $24,500.

The purchase price includes central air conditioning, "deluxe equipped" kitchens, shag carpeting, draperies and fences.

Buyers have their choice of floor plans with two, three or four bedrooms and one or two bathrooms.

The La Linda sales office is located at 7812 Blancard Ave. Visitors may reach the homes from the San Bernardino Freeway by going north or Sierra Avenue, east on Foothill Boulevard, north on Palmetto Avenue, west on Reed Street and north on Blancard to Fairview.



JIM HUSTON of Upland has been appointed chairman of the Crowell-Leventhal, Inc.'s customer relations department. Woolsey joins realty office

POMONA — Bob Woolsey has joined the Century 21-DeRose Realty office staff, announced Rose M. Demetriff, broker.

He entered the real estate profession in 1967 and currently holds a brokers license. Woolsey spent four years as office manager and sales manager for another real estate firm.

Energy crisis alters design of new houses

LOS ANGELES — Model homes will offer more hobby areas and recreation centers will become increasingly like "country clubs" because of the energy crisis.

Louise Kotz, senior vice president of Habitational Design, Inc., made these observations during a Building Industry Association Sales and Marketing Council meeting.

Families spending more leisure time at home will bring about the need for more hobby and craft areas, she said.

"Model homes should relate to that need by showing homebuyers a variety of indoor and outdoor activity areas which lend themselves to the growing popularity of crafts such as candlemaking, macrame, painting, sculpture and woodcarving."

Even homes with limited square footage can offer convertible craft centers with fold-down and stowaway furniture to make double use of existing space, she added

"Emphasis on at-home activities will change the space planning and interior design of community recreation centers."

If limited travel continues to prevail, Miss Klotz foresees these changes; — Personalization: Project recreation centers will have greater influence than ever on buyer purchase. Rather than giving the impression of a "hotel lobby or mass meeting room," design and decor should make a strong appeal to the individual, conveying a desirable "fun to live in" lifestyle."

She envisions such amenities as personal footlockers or storage areas to help buyers identify personally with the centers.

—Flexibility: To meet the demands of increasing community use, centers should be pre-planned so space and furnishings are flexible, permitting easy adjustment to large gatherings, small group activities and private entertaining.

—Variety: Particularly in areas where local amenities and recreation areas are few, community centers will become more like swank country clubs, incorporating such innovations as ice skating rinks, motion picture theaters and catering kitchens.

Miss Klotz, whose firm has designed model homes, sales offices and recreation centers for major projects, said homebuyers deprived of vacationing weekends will be looking more than ever for homes that offer "52 week vacations."

Company in right to refuse franchise contract renewal

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — In a decision which could affect some 200,000 service stations across the country, a federal judge has ruled that a company has the right to refuse to renew a contract with an individual holding a franchise

The decision came in an 11-page opinion by U.S. District Court Judge James A. Coolahan, who overturned a unanimous state Supreme Court ruling that Shell Oil Co. could not refuse to renew its franchise with the operator of a service station in Palisades Park, N.J.

The 200,000 service stations which could be affected by the ruling, if upheld, include 6,000 in New Jersey as well as any franchise which sells rights to its trademark.

Coolahan cited the federal Lanham Act, which allows a registered trademark owner the exclusive right to using the trademark, as well as the right to restrain all others from using it without his permission.

The state Supreme Court ruling, he said, "acts to destroy the right of an owner of a federally registered trademark to grant a license of that mark for a specific, definite term."

Coolahan continued: "Consequently, insofar as the Shell decision regulates the right of owners of federally registered trademarks and the rights of their licensees, it is invalid and inapplicable."

The service station operator, William Mariniello, said through his attorney the decision would be appealed.

DON'T BE SO

MODEST!

Brag a little...

You can't afford to be modest. After all, you're in business to sell. You have to tell buyers what you have to offer, why it pays them to do business with you, why you and your service and prices and products and sales policies are best.

The most economically effective way you can brag to your prospective customers is with a display advertisement in the Progress Bulletin.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — A wire coat hanger twisted open makes a handy holder when crocheting squares for a granny afghan. Just run the wire through the holes in the centers of all the finished squares and they stay together neatly. — CHRISTINE

DEAR POLLY — Save the tops off of hair spray cans. Your daughter or some other little girl will like having them to use as stools and chairs for their dolls. — BRENDA.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — An old broomstick makes a great hanger for baby's diapers, pants, towels, etc. It's very handy for drying any small things if placed horizontally between two chairs or two rods in a walk-in closet. — MRS. N. D.

DEAR POLLY — The cylinder-type cans that hold those new potato chips make wonderful holders for tennis balls. I also use one to carry my knitting. I put the yarn in the can and punch holes in the lid for the needles to stick through. Such a can is easily covered with pretty adhesive-backed paper. — ELAINE

DEAR POLLY — When traveling I find it better to place shoes in cotton shoe mitts or old stretch socks. Shoe mitts can also double for slippers. Leather shoes that have been worn will retain moisture when placed in plastic bags. — MARY ELLEN.

DEAR POLLY — My husband suggested that I tear off five or six liners when I open a box of disposable baby bottles, and put them aside. I always have an emergency supply when I run out of liners unexpectedly. — SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY — We make a fresh tray of ice cubes in less time than usual by leaving three or four cubes in the tray when it is refilled. The ice cubes will chill the water faster than normally. — TAMMY

DEAR POLLY — We have been married only a short time and are still in the process of saving money to buy furniture. I received beautiful china, crystal and silver for wedding gifts, but so far have not been able to afford a cabinet to display and store them. Finally I bought a couple of bookcases with glass doors, on sale for about $20. By sliding them close together I have a lovely cabinet. Eventually, the bookcases will be used as bookcases. — MRS. R. C.

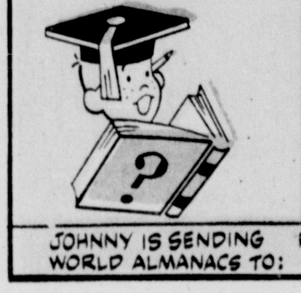
THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

TERRY RECK OF SANFORD, FL, ASKS:

"HOW DOES A SPIDER MAKE ITS SILK ?"



THE SPIDER MAKES ITS SILK IN SPECIAL SILK GLANDS IN ITS BODY. THE SILK FLOWS OUT THROUGH SPINNING ORGANS CALLED SPINNERETS ON THE UNDERSIDE OF THE SPIDER'S BODY. WHEN THE SILK COMES OUT IT IS A LIQUID. THE SILK HARDENS INTO A THREAD AS SOON AS IT TOUCHES THE AIR. WHEN SPINNING A WEB, THE SPIDER PULLS THE SILK FROM THE SPINNERETS WITH A HIND LEG. SOME SILK IS COATED WITH A STICKY LIQUID THAT HELPS THE SPIDER TRAP ITS FOOD. AN OILY STUFF ON THE SPIDER'S BODY PREVENTS THE SILK FROM STICKING TO ITS BODY, AND KEEPS IT FROM GETTING CAUGHT IN ITS OWN WEB.

Lindsay's hockey camp at Port Huron, Mich., serves as location for the segments, in one of which his goalie coach, minor league goaltender Bob Sneeden (extreme left), is featured. NBC cameraman Ray Figelski (extreme right) manned a hand-held PCP-90 camera on skates for part of the filming, in which three young hockey players are featured—Bruce McKay, Royal Oak, Mich. Conflict

"Lincoln: Trial by Fire," the second in the series of Bicentennial-themed television specials in the American Heritage series, will air Sunday at 7:30-8:30PM on ABC. The hour-long dramatization will focus on the little-known life-and-death struggle for power between President Lincoln and his general in command of the Army of the Potomac, George McClellan. McClellan, who thought the President was "an idiot," and briefly toyed with the idea of becoming "dictator, or anything else that might please me," felt a deep hostility toward Lincoln which had enormous effect on the early conduct of The War Between the States.

"Lincoln: Trial By Fire" was filmed on historic locations in and around the Virginia-Washington, D.C. area under the direction of Ed Spiegel. Produced by The Wolper Organization, the program was written by Theodore Strauss and based upon extensive research provided by the American Heritage Publishing Company. The historical consultant for this program was Bruce Catton, preeminent Civil War authority.

FIREHOUSE

Metromedia Producers Corporation/Stonehenge Productions discovered that a very important and intrinsically exciting segment of the 20th century world has been left unexplored by television. That segment is the world of the professional fire-fighter, and Metromedia's response to the oversight is the creation of a new series, Firehouse, airing on ABC, Thursdays at 8:30PM.

James Drury stars as Capt. Spike Ryerson of Engine Company 23 whose heroics have earned him the reputation of being the best, and the toughest fireman around.

The genesis of the series goes back about a year, when an original screenplay was written by an unproduced playwright named Frank Cucci. Cucci's brother-in-law was a fire chief on Staten Island, and in the pattern of middle America, Cucci himself had always been a firebug . . . chasing fire engines, responding to alarms and, as a child, wanting to grow up to be a fireman.

With this background, Cucci was inspired to sit down and write, purely on speculation, the screenplay called "Firehouse," which he brought to producer Dick Berg at Metromedia Producers Corporation. It was seen as a fine piece of writing and, with Berg as executive producer, Charles Fries as vice-president in charge of production and Don Taylor as director, "Firehouse" was made into one of the most highly acclaimed programs in the ABC Movie of the Week series.

The original "Firehouse" opened a vast outpouring of ideas, based on firehouse barracks humor, the jeopardy of the job and the personal stories of the individual fire-fighters who make adventure their life's work.

Both Metromedia and ABC realized a new door in television programming, and a series of half-hour stories was written about the danger-filled branch of public service—professional fire-fighting.

It was unanimously decided that each episode would be qualitative adventure, pin-pointing the heroics of fire-fighters and revolving each week around a specific adventurous event involving Engine Company 23.

Naturally, the actors have to be equal to the material, and Dick Berg cast the highly qualified James Drury in the role of Captain Spike Ryerson. A highly articulate actor, best known to television audiences for his portrayal of The Virginian, Drury was on the road touring in Frank Gilroy's play, "The Only Game in Town," when Berg contacted him. After three meetings, Drury accepted the lead role, both because of the concept and also because of the level of writing.

Drury goes on to explain that Americans have been chasing fire engines since the days that they were drawn by horses, primarily because of the danger everyone knows fire-fighters face. "It is, in fact, the most dangerous public service profession, with an injury and mortality rate even higher than that for policemen."

Help! Fire! Help! The men of Engine Company 23 answer cries for help each day, fighting the horrors of fire and fear.

Tall, blue-eyed Drury was born in New York City, where fire-fighters are hampered by congestion as well as old structures. "But it doesn't matter where fire-fighters work," he continued, "they're literally 20th century saviors . . . they exist only to save life and property."

Firefighters Billy Dalzell (left, Brad David) and Capt. Spike Ryerson (James Drury) put their lives on the line every day.

The second actor to be cast was Richard Jaeckel for the part of Hank Myers. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that Jaeckel was cast first, inasmuch as he had portrayed the same character in the 1½ hour "Firehouse" for the ABC Movie of the Week, and Dick Berg decided that the role of Myers was permanently Jaeckel's.

A new young actor, Michael DeLano, was selected to play Sonny Caputo, the company cook and the comedian of the group. Brad David plays the rookie Billy Dalzell, and Bill Overton was cast as rookie Cal Dakin.

Executive producer Dick Berg's basic orientation has been qualitative, melodramatic shows, such as Checkmate, Chrysler Theater, Alcoa Premier, and five MPC Movies of the Week: "Heat of Anger," "Footsteps," "Thief," "Firehouse," and "Class of '63"—the last three of which were for ABC-TV.

And, as a final plus, to put the whole project together, Metromedia Producers Corporation has assembled the finest, most professional crew available.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND THE 'DICTATOR' GENERAL

In the direst moment in American history, newly elected President Abraham Lincoln found himself faced with the task of assembling an army strong enough to defeat the impassioned soldiers of the South. In the aftermath of several disastrous Union defeats, the Army of the Potomac was hastily formed; the only thing missing was a general to lead it.

George Brinton McClellan, a 34-year-old West Pointer with a patrician pedigree and an actor's flair for the dramatic, was the man chosen. He had led his Ohio troops in the invasion of West Virginia, the first Union success. His vanity was stronger than his victory, but to the apprehensive North—and to himself—McClellan was already a hero. In raising this man to power, Lincoln created his own greatest personal adversary.

Lary Lewman plays George Brinton McClellan, Abraham Lincoln's first commanding general and the man who very nearly became America's first dictator.

"Lincoln: Trial by Fire," the second special in The American Heritage series from The Wolper Organization (airing Sunday at 7:30 p.m. on ABC) tells the story of the crises resulting from the head-on clash between these two great figures. Lincoln, the heartfelt abolitionist, soon found that his new commander was not at all opposed to slavery. An aristocrat by birth, and widely reputed to be the best-educated man in the army, McClellan contrasted sharply with the rumpled, self-educated Lincoln. The contrast was not lost on McClellan. Before long he was referring to the President as "an idiot," and in a letter to his wife he remarked: "I could become dictator or anything else that might please me." Unfortunately for the Northern cause, as his egomania grew, his willingness to go to war diminished. Try as he might, Lincoln could not get his general moving.

As their relationship deteriorated into a battle of wills, the nation tottered on the brink of disaster. When McClellan chose to parade the army in full dress before his own home, instead of the White House, so he wouldn't have to share the cheers with the President, Lincoln despaired. Because of McClellan's delays, a hopelessly outnumbered and disorganized force of Southern volunteers would gain the precious months necessary to become a capable fighting army.

Until the appearance of Grant, the Northern commanders were certainly less than successful. But the time and opportunity squandered by McClellan paved the way for the debacle which lasted four long years and cost more than six hundred thousand American lives.

The kidnapping of Mason's young co-counsel Maggie Larson from the courtroom complicates his attempt to gain a fair trial for a man accused of murdering a hated ranch foreman. Katherine Justice, Denver Pyle, and Andy Robinson guest.

4 23 6 10 36 World of Disney "Hog Wild" Part I of a two-part Idaho Western adventure about a Chicago family that moves West to seek a new way of life. John Ericson, Diana Muldaur, Clay O'Brien and Kim Richards star.

7 17 3 42 SPECIAL The American Heritage "Lincoln: Trial by Fire" Just after his election as 16th President of the United States, Lincoln chose General George Brinton McClellan to lead the Army of the Potomac in the growing conflict of the Civil War. This presentation centers on the conflict between Lincoln and the vain and obstinate young general who held back from attacking the enemy, while Lincoln, assailed from all sides, desperately needed a victory to hold the Union together. John Anderson plays Lincoln and Lary Lewman is General McClellan.

‘STARS OR BIT-ROLES?’

Producer John Hawkesworth had a problem somewhat like the one faced by the man who had three apples to divide equally among four people and sensibly decided to make applesauce. But Hawkesworth's dilemma centered around actors—not apples—the actors who would appear week after week on “Upstairs, Downstairs,” hosted by Alistair Cooke Sunday evenings at 9PM on KCET, Channel 28. Sometimes an actor was scheduled to dominate one of the 13 comedy-drama episodes, sometimes appear only briefly in another. Each episode is a self-contained story involving the lives of the Bellamys and their staff.

What to do to soothe those savage breasts under which lie the egotistical hearts of most actors? Make a stage variey of applesauce, form a “repertory” company. Once Hawkesworth hit upon the solution, he knew he could go about the task of finding the right talent around which entire segments of the “Upstairs, Downstairs” production could revolve, on a rotating basis from actor to actor, each week.

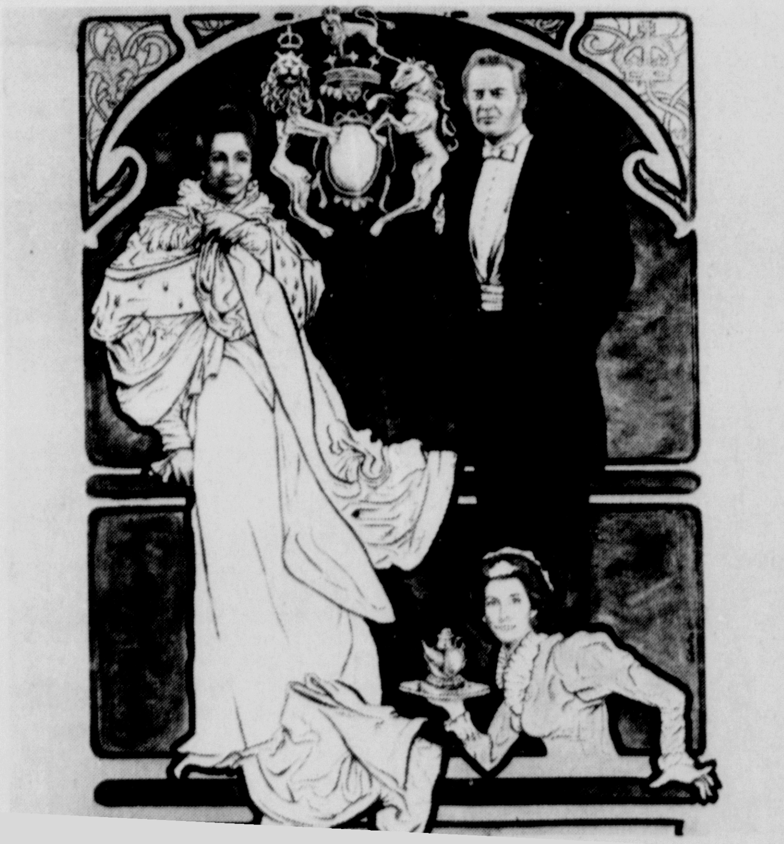
“At times,” says Hawkesworth, “I interviewed as many as 30 actors for one particular role. I told them they'd all be equal, even though some parts would emerge as being more important than others.”

With David Langton as master of the Bellamy mansion, Rachel Gurney as his wife, the Lady Marjorie, and Nicola Pagett and Simon Williams cast as their children, Hawkesworth's job was half done—the “upstairs” portion of his acting group was all set.

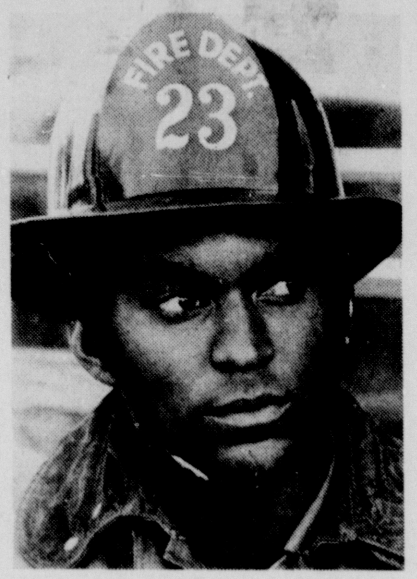
He still had to hire his “downstairs” staff, most of whom play major roles in series dealing with the gilt-edged extravagant reign of Edward VII. There was no question that Jean Marsh, who has appeared on Broadway in “Much Ado About Nothing,” and who is one of England's most respected actresses, would play Rose, the head house-parlormaid. It was Ms. Marsh who first came up with the idea for the series and brought it to Hawkesworth. Soon Gordon Jackson was reigning as Hudson, the butler and uncrowned king of the domestics, with Angela Baddeley territorializing the kitchen in the role of cook.

The pretty and talented Pauline Collins, cast as Sarah, the troublesome under house-parlormaid around whom so many of the episodes revolve, was soon to become a favorite with British audiences and had many extra episodes written especially for her. Some of the cast think Hawkesworth's savvy in choosing the right actor for each role goes a bit far. For example, David Langton, now appearing in the series' third season in England, is constantly being stopped on the street and questioned about his wife's (Lady Marjorie's) health!

Rachel Gurney as Lady Marjorie, David Langton as Richard Bellamy and Jean Marsh as Rose, a housemaid.



PISCES BILL OVERTON: ‘PERSONALLY INVOLVED’



Ask Bill Overton why he likes acting and he'll tell you that, for one thing, he is a Pisces, and therefore his personality is involved with being many different people. Acting allows him to be all of them. One of the people he has become via his television career is fire-fighter Cal Dakin. Overton/Dakin can be seen on ABC on Thursdays, 8:30-9PM, in the incendiary new adventure series, Firehouse, from Metromedia Producers Corporation/Stonehenge Productions.

In real life Overton has tried several different roles, too. In his childhood, he was an aspiring sports hero. It didn't matter which sport . . . he excelled in practically everything. Then, in college, he majored in pre-dentistry because he believed that he could help alleviate pain. After three years, he decided that, if he really wanted to help people, he should try getting himself into a position where his views would be heard. He narrowed his choices down to sports or acting or politics.

He changed his major to speech/drama and continued his education on a football scholarship. Politics took a back seat. Upon graduation he tried football, but after two years put that aside for acting. Overton says he's pretty sure he'll stay with this career, for a while, anyway. “What I'm looking for,” says Overton, “is a way to go through life helping as many and offending as few as possible. That's really the kind of man I want to be.”

Starring with Overton in Firehouse are James Drury, Richard Jaeckel, Mike De Lano and Brad David. Executive Producer is Dick Berg. Producer is Richard Collins, and associate producer is John Ireland.

Muhammad Ali takes a vicious left to the jaw from Joe Frazier that sends him to the canvas in their 15-round "Battle of the Century," which will be seen for the first time on home television on ABC's Emmy Award-Winning ABC's Wide World of Sports, Saturday (Jan. 26) at 5:30PM. Frazier scored the eight-count knockdown in the 15th round to help him win a unanimous decision and take sole possession of the World Heavyweight Championship. The defeat was Ali's first of his professional career. Both Ali and Frazier will be in the studios to help Howard Cosell analyze the replay.

MUSICAL FAMILY

The De Franco Family, who guest this week on the NBC Special "Jack Benny's Second Farewell," (Thurs., 8PM) are for real . . . a real family with real talent. Born of Italian immigrants, Antonio and Maria, the five De Franco children first saw the light of day in Port Colborne, Ontario, where Mr. and Mrs. De Franco had settled. Several years ago the whole family moved to Welland, Ontario where they resided up until the time the De Franco career necessitated a move to Hollywood.

The De Franco Family: Benny, 19; Marisa, 18; Nino, 17; Merlina, 16; and Tony, 13, became a successful musical group without planning a professional career. It all started about ten years ago when Mr. De Franco let Benny experiment with the guitar. Mr. De Franco played the guitar by ear so when he noticed his oldest son's interest in the instrument, he decided it was time to give Benny lessons. These lessons were so successful that Benny became a guitar teacher in less than eight years.

Soon after Benny began his lessons, Marisa wanted to show her talents. She took up the accordian and was soon playing duets with Benny. Nino followed their lead when he showed Benny a few tricks on the guitar himself. The three played so well together that Merlina wanted to be included in the group, so they bought her a pair of maracas so she could keep time along with them. But, Tony, who was only four at the time, immediately took to the maracas so Mr. De Franco bought Merlina a set of drums. Thus was born the De Franco Quintet.

The De Franco Family became a very popular act around the Niagara Peninsula area in Canada. They were in demand for local TV appearances, charity shows, and various parades and church functions. During this time both Benny and Nino were winning prizes for their guitar playing. Though the group sang along with their music while practicing, the De Franco Family never performed vocally in public. They'd always thought of themselves as a musical group and not as singers.

This all changed about two years ago when Mrs. De Franco, who knew her son Tony had a fine singing voice, asked Tony if he would sing a song along with the group for a large banquet in Toronto. Tony at first refused, but when Mrs. De Franco offered to pay him $5.00 to sing, he reconsidered.

Once up on stage, Tony belted out "Hey, Jude" with backing by his brothers and sisters and brought down the house. From this time on, The De Franco Family became the singing De Francos and Tony took his $5.00 and spent it all on chocolate candy.

"TELE-TALK"

"A day without wine is like a day without sunshine." The adapter of that poetic California wine industry slogan may have had Wayne Rogers in mind. For Rogers, the martini-tippling Trapper John of M*A*S*H, wine is the love of his life, next to acting. But right now the days without wine grow exceedingly long on the 500-acre vineyard he is developing near Paso Robles, Calif., between assignments on the comedy series, seen Saturdays at 8:30PM on CBS.

Sunshine abounds, but it will be four years before Rogers and his partner, a Southern California real estate developer, begin to see the fruits of their labor, when the Cabernet. Sauvignon, Zinfandel and Merlot clippings they are planting ripen into the luscious grapes that become premium varietal wines.

How did an Alabama boy who went to Princeton and broke into television become interested in the culture of wine grapes? "I love wine," Rogers explains.

Before plunging into the project, however, he did his homework for two years, taking courses in viticulture and oenology from experts. The actor, whose expertise now permits him to discuss soil and water conditions, and U.S. and European vineyard practices, joins in like other ranch hands to help install pumps, repair sprinkler systems, or attend to grape rootings still awaiting planting. With the amount of investment that he and his partner, as well as fellow actors James Caan and Peter Falk, have sunk into the San Joaquin Valley acreage, Rogers can't afford to overlook the slightest detail.

"When you look around and figure every one of these grape rootings represents 50 or 60 cents, something like a sprinkler not operating can't be tolerated," he emphasizes.

He envisions that eventually a winery will rise on the ranch, and that someday there may even be a Wayne Rogers Cabernet for wine connoisseurs.

Former U.S. Diving Champion, Strother Martin, co-star of MGM's "Hawkins" series, has been elected by the Swimming Hall of Fame as a member of the Honorary 1944 U.S. Olympic Team.

According to Buck Dawson, executive director of the Swimming Hall of Fame headquartered in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida, "As the 1944 U.S. National Diving Champion, Strother was a definite candidate for that year's Olympic Games which, unfortunately, were cancelled because of the war. This is our way of honoring a champion who never got to compete in the contest that he dedicated his early life to."

More than 4,000 U.S. college swimmers, coaches and former Olympic swimmers attended the ceremony.

Behind Rock Hudson's smart-looking wardrobe on NBC's "McMillan & Wife," is a costumer who has been with the screen and TV idol for 15 years. Although the name Peter Saldutti doesn't mean much to the public, it means a lot to Hudson. It's Saldutti's job to select the fabric that ultimately is used for Rock's made-to-order wardrobe. And the job isn't so simple.

"There are a lot of things to consider," Pete explained. "There's color combination; patterns; and of course, budget. But after 15 years with Rock, I have a general idea what he prefers. He usually approves most fabrics I bring to him but sometimes he'll fight me."

Saldutti then orders three sets of shirts, slacks and jackets.

"We need three sets—one for Rock, one for his stunt double and the third—just in case," Pete smiles.

DACK RAMBO: STILL A FARM BOY

Dack Rambo is one young actor who keeps his feet on the ground. You might even say he keeps them in the soil. Still in his twenties, the handsome Rambo has now been cast in a television series for the fourth time, something hundreds of promising young actors would like to have happen just once. Rambo's latest assignment is a co-starring role with Jeanette Nolan in Dirty Sally, a new family western which sprouted from a two-part episode of Gunsmoke. The series airs Fridays at 8 P.M.

Since being discovered by Loretta Young and making his acting debut on her second television series, Rambo has co-starred with Walter Brennan in "The Guns of Will Sonnet" and appeared regularly on the daytime serial "Never Too Young."

Such credentials might be enough to turn the heads of many young actors, making them lose their perspective, but Rambo has evaded that trap.

"When I first came to Hollywood, I saw what sudden success did to a lot of actors and made it a point to avoid that pitfall," says Rambo. "I realize that I still have a lot to learn about this business, especially after working with such talents as Walter Brennan and Jeanette Nolan."

Rambo credits his family upbringing with helping him maintain a balance in his life. "I was raised on a large farm in Earlimart, which is a small town near Delano, Calif.," he says. "As a youngster, I worked in the fields, drove a tractor, worked the irrigation equipment, chopped cotton and even milked the cows. Although I decided I didn't want to make a career out of farming as my father did, it really taught me the old fashioned value of hard work. I'm glad I have that background."

Befitting his star status, Rambo does have a home in Beverly Hills, but he still spends much of his free time on the family farm and is not averse to pitching in if an extra hand is needed.

"I don't feel like an actor," Rambo says. "I don't feel that I'm of the same breed. I have some actor friends, of course, but the majority of my friends are farmers."

Although Rambo has the looks of a matinee idol and a growing list of acting credentials, he gives the impression that he's still a farm boy at heart.

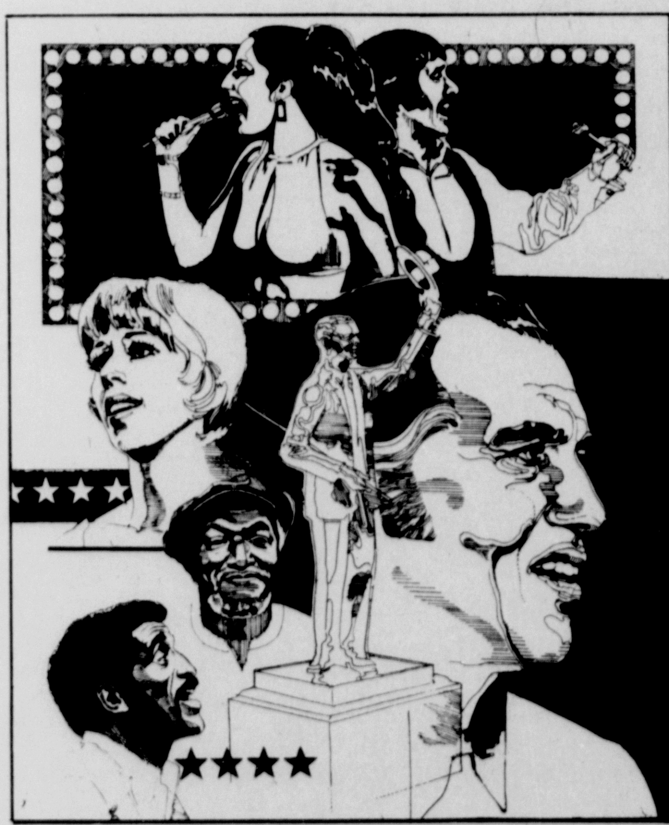
The "Georgie":
SYMBOL OF STAGE GREATNESS



Surrounding the "Georgie" award of the American Guild of Variety Artists (center), a replica of showman George M. Cohan, are winners (from top, counterclockwise) Sonny and Cher, Carol Burnett, Redd Foxx and Sammy Davis Jr., and host Ed Sullivan.

When the American Guild of Variety Artists presents its Entertainer of the Year Awards (Saturday, 10PM on CBS), it will do so in the form of "Georgies." Honoring George M. Cohan, the American stage's legendary actor-dancer-author-composer, the Georgie is a miniature replica of the eclectic Cohan (1878-1942). As if to underscore Cohan's inherent Americanism, he was born on July 4.

Oscar Hammerstein II once emphasized the fabulous showman's luck in being in the right place at the right time. He wrote: "Never was a plant more indigenous to a particular part of the earth than was George M. Cohan to the United States of his day. The whole nation was confident of its superiority, its moral virtue, its happy isolation from the intrigues of the old country, from which many of our fathers and grandfathers had migrated. Cohan's genius was to say simply what everybody was subconsciously feeling."

Cohan wrote 21 musical plays. They may seem old-fashioned by today's standards, but they have a joyous vitality that transcends their age. Audiences still hum his tunes and mouth his slangy phrases as if they had been newly coined. Songs from "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," Cohan's smash of 1905, still endure: "So Long, Mary" and "Mary's a Grand Old Name." And, of course, perennially popular are "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "Give My Regards to Broadway," from Cohan's 1904 production of "Little Johnny Jones," in which he starred.

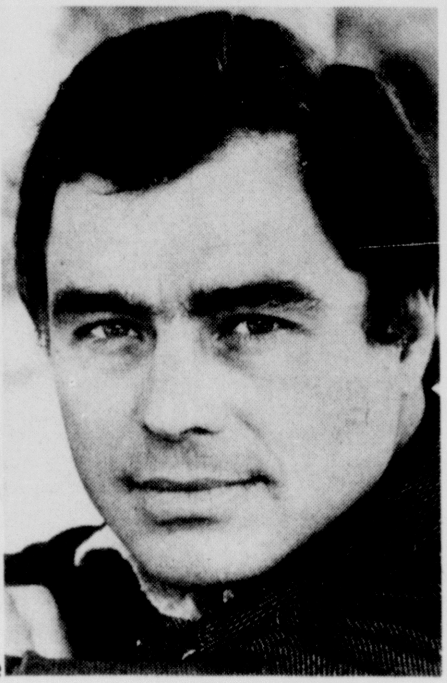
The versatile showman's music was heard most recently on Broadway in the 1968 hit, "George M!," in which Joel Grey starred as the young Cohan. Grey, who repeated that role in a 1970 television special, performs a medley from the show in his supper-club act. Cohan tunes, moreover, continue to crop up regularly on television shows.

An unusual highlight of Cohan's career occurred when he wrote and produced the drama "The Tavern" in 1920. (In addition to musicals, he wrote numerous straight plays.) The newspaper critics panned it, but three rising young magazine critics—Robert E. Sherwood, Dorothy Parker and Robert Benchley—found the play a brilliant, wildly entertaining burlesque, and said the newspaper reviewers were dunderheads. Today "The Tavern" is regarded as one of the better American farces. When his writing style seemed to become obsolete, Cohan's acting remained wonderfully fresh and vital. He once advised the young Spencer Tracy, "Spencer, you have to act less."

Cohan, who produced 80 Broadway shows from 1901 through 1940, was America's sovereign entertainer in the early years of this century. Today, the Georgie truly symbolizes his history of stage greatness, and it will shine gloriously for the winners of the Entertainer of the Year Awards.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan



Ed Winter, now co-starring as the playboy lawyer, Kip Kipple, in the recently cancelled ADAM'S RIB, is far from being cancelled himself. Rugged good looks, easy to talk to, a solid background in New York theatre (starred in PROMISES, PROMISES, THE APARTMENT, CABARET, etc.), I would guess that Winter will be a major television star before the end of 1974.

"Are you looking for anything special?" I asked as we devoured the superb food at Beni Hanas restaurant in Marina Del Rey. "Not really," he answered. "You mean you'd do anything?"

"Within reason, yes" he said. "I'm an actor and I have to keep working." "There's an awful lot of junk on the tube today. Wouldnt it really matter to you what you did?"

"As I said, within reason. I feel an actor has to look at any script he's being offered like a buyer. We're really not in the art business. Each actor has to look at his potential jobs with a view to his own economic standards." Interesting, I thought. Here was an actor who looked at Hollywood honestly and appeared to look at himself the same way.

"Look," he said, "I worked on the Broadway stage for a long time. I was lucky and successful. Now I've come to Hollywood in the hope of making some good money. I've got a wife and two kids. If I keep working hard, many good things are going to come along. Television has its share of punk stuff but it has some awfully good things, too. I don't expect to make it big overnight. There's a system in Hollywood that I'm sure you're aware of. If a producer is packaging a motion picture he starts by trying to nail Paul Newman or Robert Redford for the lead. If he can't get either of them, then he starts to work his way down the list of successful actors. In about 14 years he works his way down to me."

I laughed out loud because that's exactly the way it works. Most producers don't really care if an actor even fits a role. They go for the big names and that's that.

"We shot only 13 segments of ADAM'S RIB before it was cancelled. I was originally scheduled to work in 7 of them, but wound up doing 10. I thought all but one were excellent shows. I also think the series would have caught on had it been given more of a chance."

"Have you done anything besides ADAM'S RIB?" I asked. "Several guest appearances—THE BOB NEWHART SHOW, PERRY MASON, and the unsold Rosey Grier pilot, BIG DADDY."

Looking over Ed Winter's biography just now, I notice that he was nominated for the coveted Tony Award twice while working in New York. He didn't mention that to me, so I suspect I interviewed an actor who has a great deal of humility to go along with his other attributes. All in all, it was a refreshing interview.

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR MRS. PAT NIXON (answered through Helen McLain Smith, Mrs. Nixon's Press Secretary)

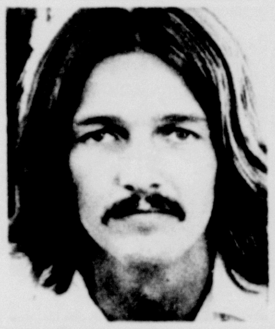
Why don't you and your husband attend public church services as other Presidents and their wives have?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● My husband is the first President to have worship services in the White House, but these are not the only times we attend church. The main reason for services in the White House is security. But we do attend a nearby Presbyterian church when we are in Key Biscayne, and we also attend other churches in San Clemente and when we are traveling around the country. But security problems are a concern, so that is one of the reasons we have White House worship services.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"

Why have you never married?—Maria Lipzig, Nyack, N.Y.

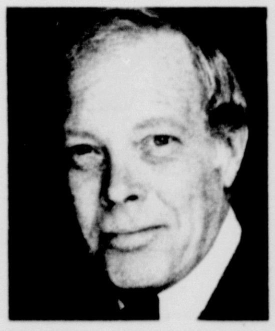
● I've come close a couple of times. But I tend to adapt to whatever the fellow does. For example, one boy was on the track team. So I went out for track, too, and was in the Junior Olympics. Another was a wrestler, so I created a cheerleading team for wrestlers. No one had ever heard of that before, but I did it. I was also engaged to a dress designer, but he made me look like a sofa.



FOR TED NEELEY,
who portrays Jesus in "Jesus Christ Superstar"

Has religion affected you deeply?—J. Brennan, Buffalo, N.Y.

● I was born in Texas and raised a Southern Baptist. My earliest desire was to become a minister. But I outgrew this ambition and was dismissed from church at 13 for playing rock and roll at a local nightspot. I think the rock musical "Hair" was the turning point in my life. I had been very closed-minded about a lot of things. I got into "Hair" and I found myself doing things I never would have done before.



FOR DICK HAYMES

I understand you had a drinking problem. How were you suddenly able to stop?—Phil Swanne, Los Angeles, Calif.

● I asked for God's help and got it. Actually, I didn't give it up—it gave me up. I consider myself blessed. I am very much involved with God. This is not a new involvement, but there were times I turned my back on what I knew was right and hurried toward self-destruction.

FOR ROSE MARIE, TV star

You always act as though you're looking for a man. What is your family status?—Robert R. Reinsmith, McAllen, Texas

● I am single, (widowed by the death of NBC trumpet player Bobby Guy), the mother of a grown daughter—and I am a horse fancier as well as a man fancier!

FOR ADM. THOMAS H. MOORER, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff

Why don't we get our troops out of Europe? It might contribute to peace—and save us money, too.—W. Coates, Anchorage, Alaska

● Since 1961, the U.S. has reduced its troop level in Europe by 35 percent. The Soviets, on the other hand, have increased theirs by 20 percent in the last five years. Is it wise to believe that unilateral U.S. withdrawals would be greeted by reciprocal action on the part of the Soviets? I think not. Any change should be mutual, not unilateral.

FOR RON SANTO, Chicago Cubs' baseball star

Why did you keep secret the fact that you're a diabetic?—Robert J. Keen, Potomac, Ill.

● My diabetes was detected when I was 18. I kept it a secret for many years because I didn't want any special treatment. Once I had established myself as a regular player, I felt there was no need to keep it a secret any longer. In fact, I felt the knowledge of my condition would encourage other diabetics to lead more normal lives.

FOR MRS. GERALD FORD

Is your daughter Susan as accomplished a housekeeper as I hear she is?—Mrs. Laurene Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● Susan's a very efficient housekeeper. She not only cooks very well, but sews and needlepoints, too. Whenever her father wants his favorite dinner—pot roast with all the trimmings—Susan's always our chef. Besides cooking and sewing, she loves plants and flowers and has the greenest thumb you've ever seen.

FOR JOHN WAYNE

You're so masculine. Do you believe in Women's Lib?—Seane Gilbert, Pocatello, Idaho

● I have been trying to figure out what Women's Lib means. Its leaders seem to be in active frustration. I have never thought of equality when I thought of women. I have always put them on a pedestal; but maybe the Women's Lib girls are right and men should consider them equals.

FOR WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

I understand that you made a statement on TV several years ago that the newly elected President Nixon was owned by the Chase Manhattan Bank. Why did you say that?—Mrs. Edwin Powers, Austin, Texas

● I never said any such thing. And anyway I regret it isn't true, because I have a couple of shares in the Chase Manhattan Bank.

When it's raining outside and the kids are running around inside, it's a big help to have some small surprise stashed away. And when the surprise you bring out is a Fisher-Price toy, you know your children will be amused for hours on end.

There are lots of colorful new Basic Hardboard Puzzles. Challenging and fun. But not frustrating. There's a new Play Family Animal Circus to perform with under the piano. A new Bouncing Buggy to toddle around the porch. And our big Play Family Village or Farm can keep a whole crowd busy.

Then there's a Movie Viewer with Walt Disney or Sesame Street cartridges to pass around from child to child. And no batteries to give out in the middle of the afternoon.

Because Fisher-Price toys run on imagination. And imagination is what children never run out of. Not even on a rainy day.

when I planned to retire before fifty

a true story by John B. Haikey

Starting with borrowed money, in just eight years I gained financial security, sold out at a profit and retired.

"Not until I was forty did I make up my mind that I was going to retire before ten years had passed. I knew I couldn't do it on a salary, no matter how good. I knew I couldn't do it working for others. It was perfectly obvious to me that I had to start a business of my own. But that posed a problem. What kind of business? Most of my money was tied up. Temporarily I was broke. But, when I found the business I wanted I was able to start it on a little over a thousand dollars of borrowed money.

"To pyramid this investment into retirement in less than ten years seems like magic, but in my opinion any man in good health who has the same ambition and drive that motivated me, could achieve such a goal. Let me give you a little history.

"I finished high school at the age of 18 and got a job as a shipping clerk. My next job was butchering at a plant that processed boneless beef. Couldn't see much future there. Next, I got a job as a Greyhound Bus Driver. The money was good. The work was pleasant, but I couldn't see it as leading to retirement. Finally I took the plunge and went into business for myself.

"I managed to raise enough money with my savings to invest in a combination motel, restaurant, grocery, and service station. It didn't take long to get my eyes opened. In order to keep that business going my wife and I worked from dawn to dusk, 20 hours a day, seven days a week. Putting in all those hours didn't match my idea of independence and it gave me no time for my favorite sport—golf! Finally we both agreed that I should look for something else.

"I found it. Not right away. I investigated a lot of businesses offered as franchises. I felt that I wanted the guidance of an experienced company—wanted to have the benefit of the plans that had brought success to others, plus the benefit of running my own business under an established name that had national recognition.

"Most of the franchises offered were too costly for me. Temporarily all my capital was frozen in the motel. But I found that the Duraclean franchise offered me exactly what I had been looking for.

"I could start for a small amount—a little over a thousand dollars—and that amount I could borrow. I could work it as a one-man business while getting a start. No salaries to pay. I could operate from my home. No office or shop rent or other overhead. For transportation I could use the trunk of my family car. (I bought the truck later, out of profits.) But, best of all, there was no ceiling on my earnings. I could build a business as big as my ambition and energy dictated. I could put on as many men as I needed to cover any volume. I could make a profit on every man working for me. And, I could build this little by little, or as fast as I wished.

"So, I started. I took the wonderful training furnished by the company. When I was ready I followed the simple plan outlined in the training. During the first period I did all the service work myself. By doing it myself, I could make much more per hour than I had ever made on a salary. Later, I would hire men, train them, pay them well, and still make an hourly profit on their time that made my idea of retirement possible—I had joined the country club and now I could play golf whenever I wished.

"What is this wonderful business? It's Duraclean. And, what is Duraclean? It's an improved, space-age process for cleaning upholstered furniture, rugs, and tacked down carpets. It not only cleans but it enlivens and sparkles up the colors. It does not wear down the fiber or drive part of the dirt into the base of the rug as machine scrubbing of carpeting does. Instead it lifts out the dirt by means of an absorbent dry foam.

"Furniture dealers and department stores refer their customers to the Duraclean Specialist. Insurance men say Duraclean can save them money on fire claims. Hotels, motels, specialty shops and big stores make annual contracts for keeping their carpets and furniture fresh and clean. One Duraclean Specialist recently signed a contract for over $40,000 a year for just one hotel.

"Well, that's the business I was able to start for a little over a thousand dollars. That's the business I built up over a period of eight years. And, that's the business I sold out at a substantial profit before I was fifty."

Our First Ladies, as We Never Knew Them, By a Man Who Served Them All

Pictorial Parade

"Mrs. Truman . . . had a bit of an inferiority complex. She was bright and politically experienced, but she considered herself a housewife and lived that way in the White House."

"Mrs. Eisenhower used to sit in bed and read newspapers, looking for food specials. She'd send out for special buys if they were cheaper than she was getting them wholesale."

"Mrs. Kennedy was forever giving me notes on yellow paper. It got so I had to carry my own pad. She had a mastery of detail, even to where to place ashtrays on the tables."

"Mrs. Johnson . . . lived in the shadow of Lyndon Johnson. Then she found out he was so busy he didn't have time to direct her, and she became herself."

"Mrs. Nixon . . . liked Mrs. Johnson's bedroom for herself because she said her husband woke up during the night to read and record and it was impossible to sleep with him."

In 1941, J. Bernard West was assigned to the White House as Assistant to the Chief Usher. Eleanor Roosevelt was then First Lady. In 1959 he became Chief Usher, an archaic title meaning he was responsible for everything concerning the domestic life of the First Family. He was in charge of the household's physical and fiscal running; oversaw the upkeep and renovation of the White House and its 16 acres of ground; supervised all personnel; catered to the whims of the First Ladies and made sure that both private and official life in the 132-room mansion ran smoothly. In short, he was indispensable to Eleanor Roosevelt, Bess Truman, Mamie Eisenhower, Jacqueline Kennedy and Lady Bird Johnson. He also introduced the intricacies of White House living to Pat Nixon.

J. Bernard West

During his 28 years of service, he discreetly refused to say a word about his life with this country's First Families. Now retired, he has written a book called "Upstairs at the White House" (Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, $8.95). Recently he chatted freely with Family Weekly.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Did any of the First Ladies during the many years you served in the White House ever seem to object to their role?

WEST: At first Mrs. Kennedy objected to being called the First Lady and suggested she be called Mrs. Kennedy. Gradually, however, she came to see there was a difference and accepted the title. As for having to live in the White House, it was my distinct impression that Mrs. Nixon was unhappy about that. She seemed most reluctant.

FW: Did any First Lady ever ask you to do something you couldn't do?

WEST: Not really. The White House is operated on the theory that there is always a way to do everything. Of course, there was Johnson's shower....

FW: What was the problem with his shower?

WEST: He wanted a certain kind. After several months' work and five different installations costing thousands of dollars, the experts came up with quite an invention. It had six different nozzles so that water hit every part of his body at a terrific force!

FW: Was he happy with it?

WEST: I think maybe he was satisfied in the end. At least he was proud enough of it to show it to Mr. Nixon when he came to look over the White House before moving in.

FW: What was Mr. Nixon's reaction to the contraption?

WEST: It was the first thing he took out. The second was the clutter of wiring for recording and phone equipment that Mr. Johnson had stuffed under the bed.

FW: Did Mrs. Nixon make any changes?

WEST: I was in the White House only for the first six weeks of the Nixons' residency. During that time Mrs. Nixon wanted the big canopied bed exchanged for a simple double bed for her husband, and she liked Mrs. Johnson's bedroom for herself because she said her husband woke up during the night to read and record and it was impossible to sleep with him.

FW: Did each woman have her own distinct way of working?

WEST: Yes—Mrs. Roosevelt popped in and out of the office at a running rate to hand over appointment lists and tell us what to do. She never walked, she ran. Mrs. Truman met with me at nine each morning in her office. She had a bit of an inferiority complex. She was bright and politically experienced, but she considered herself a housewife and lived that way in the White House.

I went to Mrs. Eisenhower's bedroom when the butler took her breakfast tray up anywhere between eight and ten. Like her mother, she adhered to the belief that a woman over 50 should never get out of bed until noon. She was always propped up in her pink bed with lots of pink pillows, and had a pink bow in her hair. She was very feminine and loved ruffles.

Mrs. Kennedy was forever giving me notes on yellow paper. It got so I had to carry my own pad. She had a mastery of detail, even to where to place ashtrays on the tables. Even when she was under great stress, when her husband's body reposed in the White House, she asked to have her Cezanne paintings replaced by American art so that when President De Gaulle came to pay his respects he'd "be aware of the heritage of the United States."

FW: Who enjoyed being First Lady most?

WEST: Mrs. Eisenhower. She liked parading around all dressed up. When Mrs. Kennedy came in, she had round tables put in the dining room for State dinners, to promote conversation. But Mrs. Eisenhower liked a banquet table. She and her husband sat at the table side by side in the center, like a king and queen.

FW: Was there any truth to the rumor that Mamie Eisenhower had a drinking problem?

WEST: She had no drinking problem during my time in the White House. It's possible that because she spent so much time in bed, she was unsteady on her feet sometimes. Her only exercise was a massage three times a week before breakfast.

FW: Who changed most during the time they lived in the White House?

WEST: Mrs. Johnson. Until she came to the White House, she lived in the shadow of Lyndon Johnson. Then she found out he was so busy he didn't have time to direct her, and she became herself. She became extremely interested in the beautification of Comes complete with loose Nutra soil, that won't cake up—plus seeds for five herbs—savory, thyme, basil, dill, and parsley.

Just plant, add water, hand in good light and bang—you've got yourself a hanging herb garden right in the kitchen. Complete directions.

Herbs you can pluck and use in your cooking. A hanging garden that adds so much to your kitchen. Absolutely wild crazy gift for someone with a kitchen. (Who doesn't have a kitchen?) Money back if not happy—even if you've started it growing—$4.00 complete with seeds. Two for $7.50.

America. But she wasn't too interested in the running of the White House. She was basically a businesswoman.

FW: Did any of the Presidents get involved in White House changes, aside from Johnson's shower?

WEST: Mr. Kennedy was very concerned about the grounds. And Mr. Nixon did away with the swimming pool.

FW: Why was that?

WEST: The press used to sit in the entrance to the President's office and had constant access to the Press Secretary's office. Mr. Nixon didn't like the way they treated him, so he covered the pool and put the press down there. They didn't like that. Now he probably wishes the pool had a trapdoor so he could drop some of the press through it.

FW: Did any of the First Families have any fights?

WEST: They may have had knock-down-drag-out fights upstairs, but I never heard them. The only one I ever heard was President Johnson cussing out his personal staff. Then he'd make up for it with something nice the next day.

FW: In your book, you say that the President can sleep in the White House free of charge, but that he has to pay for all the food. Which wives were most frugal?

WEST: Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Truman. Mrs. Eisenhower used to sit in bed and read newspapers, looking for food specials. She'd send out for special buys if they were cheaper than she was getting them wholesale. And every morning she had the butler give her a list of leftovers so she could tell him what to do with them.

FW: Who was the most colorful houseguest while you were in the White House?

WEST: Winston Churchill—he liked to run around nude—and Madam Chiang Kai-shek, who brought along her own silk sheets and had them changed whenever her body touched them.

FW: You were in the White House when Roosevelt died, Pearl Harbor was attacked, an attempt was made on Truman's life, Hiroshima was bombed and President Kennedy was assassinated. Which First Lady bore up best in time of crisis?

WEST: Mrs. Kennedy went through the worst and seemed extremely calm and aware of others' feelings. I remember after the private Mass for the late President in the White House, she saw me standing in my office doorway. She came over and put her arms around me. "Poor Mr. West," she said. And then she wanted me to take her to see her husband's office that she was meticulously redecorating for him. But she never got to see how it would look. It was already being dismantled for President Johnson.

Our Special NFL Draft Preview

An Insider's Report on the College Stars Pro Football Scouts Rate Highest

By Larry Bortstein, with "Harry Cartwright"

On January 28-29, the heads of the 26 National Football League teams will be meeting in New York to select the cream of the 1973 crop of senior college players in the annual professional football draft. The stakes are high and mistakes can be costly; a good or bad draft round can affect teams for years to come.

What will the teams be looking for this year? What players will be the most sought after? To find the answers, FAMILY WEEKLY went to the same kind of expert the coaches and general managers will be depending on — the professional football scout. We've called our expert "Harry Cartwright," but that is not his real name. For reasons of his own, he has chosen to remain anonymous. But he has long been recognized as one of the nation's best judges of potential football talent.

Here's how Cartwright sums up this year's draft:

- Running backs, linebackers and tight ends are unusually abundant.
- Quarterbacks are hard to come by. Most teams seeking young passers will do well to wait until next year.
- There are several outstanding linemen available, but the outlook is not too bright for blue-chip secondary defenders.

"Of course, a lot depends," says Cartwright. "A team may overlook a great player if they already have an established player at that position. They may go for a man who can fit into a spot where they feel they need help."

Cartwright feels John Cappelletti of Penn State and Jim McAlister of UCLA will be the first running backs selected by the pros. Other backs will also be snatched up quickly. "Charlie Davis of Colorado, Woody Green of Arizona State, Kermit Johnson of UCLA, Wilbur Jackson of Alabama—they're all good halfback types," says Cartwright. "Among fullbacks, Billy Ray Pritchett of West Texas State, Bo Matthews of Colorado, Reggie Harrison of Cincinnati, and Ed Shuttlesworth of Michigan will be the top choices."

Though UCLA was beaten by Southern Cal last season, three Bruins rated as first-round selections by Cartwright. Besides McAlister, UCLA offers place-kicker Efren Herrera and linebacker Fred McNeill.

Nor does Cartwright overlook the small colleges. He feels almost certain that first-round slots will go to wide receiver Roger Carr of Louisiana Tech (Terry Bradshaw's alma mater) and two defensive stars from Tennessee State, tight end Ed Jones and linebacker Waymond Bryant. (Tennessee State in recent years has sent more players to the professional ranks than any other university, except Notre Dame and Southern California.)

Mike Boryla: "Has the physical equipment the pros like."

John Hicks: "Could be first player picked in the entire draft."

OFFENSE

QUARTERBACK

Mike Boryla, Stanford (6-4, 200)

Completed 55 percent of his passes in 1973, for 1,629 yards and 17 touchdowns. Son of Vince Boryla, former pro basketball player and now general manager of the Utah Stars basketball team.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Has best arm of any college quarterback. Throws well short and long. Has a good head and good experience, since he started at Stanford for three years. Tall and strong, has the physical equipment the pros like. Some question about his quickness in setting up to throw. Doesn't run well but is tough to knock off his feet."

Cappelletti

McAlister

RUNNING BACK

John Cappelletti, Penn State (6-2, 210)

Heisman winner. Ran for 1,522 yards and 17 touchdowns in 1973. His per-carry average was 5.3 yards.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Extremely durable and strong runner. Can carry the ball again and again without seeming to feel the effect. Wasn't asked to do much blocking in college, so it remains to be seen how well he'll handle his blocking assignments in the pros. But seems to be the sort who can adjust easily."

RUNNING BACK

Jim McAlister, UCLA (6-1, 202)

Played in shadow of Kermit Johnson, but is considered the better pro prospect of the two. Hampered by injuries in 1973, but averaged 6.16 yards per try. Also one of the world's great long jumpers.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Has everything a runner needs, exceptional speed and quickness. Played fullback at college, but will probably play tailback or halfback in the pros. His long-jump records (over 27 feet) indicate great body control and spring."

WIDE RECEIVER

Lynn Swann, Southern Cal (6 feet, 180)

Averaged 13.7 yards per play. Fine punt returner as well as receiver. Caught 36 passes for 661 yards and six touchdowns in 1973. Also returned 18 punts for 189 yards and one TD.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Outstanding speed, timed in 4.5 seconds for 40 yards. Runs good pass routes. Knows how to catch the ball in all kinds of unusual traffic and crowd situations. That's going to help him in the pros. A great all-round athlete."

WIDE RECEIVER

Roger Carr, Louisiana Tech (6-3, 205)

Compiled astonishing college career average of more than 25 yards per reception.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Has great speed, though maybe not as great as Swann's. Has a great knack for being where the ball is thrown. He just knows how to play the position. Can jump high over defenders to catch the ball, which makes him even taller than he already is."

TIGHT END

Keith Fahnhorst, Minnesota (6-6, 245)

Named to the Big Ten All-Star squad for 1973. His specialty: blocking.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"He can catch the ball when necessary, but is coming into the league at a time when a tight end who can block well has become very important in helping beat zone defenses and running games. Great blocker. Big enough to play tackle in the pros, though he could stand a little more bulk in his upper body."

CENTER

Bill Wyman, Texas (6-2, 235)

Rated one of the finest offensive linemen in Southwest Conference history. The primary blocker for Texas' outstanding running back, Roosevelt Leaks, a junior.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Good solid football player. Comes off the line very quickly. Fits well into running game. His ability to block on pass plays remains to be seen, but he's very good in blocking for the run."

TACKLE

Scott Anderson, Missouri (6-4, 235)

Was All-Big Eight selection at center for 1973. Projected as either center or tackle for the pros.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Very strong for his size. Needs to gain weight to be effective in the pros, but has great speed and movement. Has 'quick feet.' A kid who doesn't get bowled over easily, a kid who can adjust to different situations."

TACKLE

Dave Lapham, Syracuse (6-5, 260)

One of few standouts on a team that won only two of 11 games in 1973. A devastating blocker.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"You can spot a good prospect even when he's playing for a poor team, and this kid is one. Has very quick feet, good mobility and a very strong body. Does everything you could ask from an offensive lineman."

GUARD

John Hicks, Ohio State (6-3, 258)

Woody Hayes rates him the finest offensive lineman ever produced at OSU. First interior offensive lineman ever to be a serious candidate for Heisman Trophy (was runner-up). Played tackle in college, could play tackle or guard in pros.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"What can you say about this guy? May be the best player in the country—should be first player picked in the entire draft. You want blocking? He sometimes takes out two or three guys in one play. Has great speed, faster than many backs."

GUARD

Booker Brown, Southern Cal (6-3, 260)

John McKay calls him the finest offensive lineman he's seen. Named on most All-America teams.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Extremely strong upper body is his main asset. Doesn't just block guys, really raps them. Can make it either at guard or tackle. Probably hasn't reached his peak in physical size yet. He's one of those guys who may play at 275 pounds or more in the pros."

PLACE-KICKER

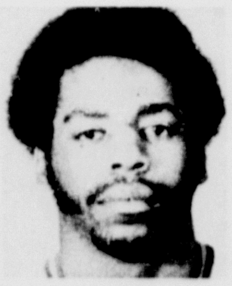
Efren Herrera, UCLA (5-10, 185)

A soccer-style kicking specialist who led major colleges most of the 1973 season in scoring. Hit eight field goals in 11 attempts.

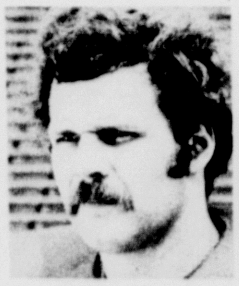
SCOUTING REPORT:

"A strong leg on kickoffs and field goals. More teams are realizing how important the kicker is and kicking specialists are becoming high draft choices by many clubs. This guy has been one of the better ones in the last couple of years."

Gallagher



Jones



Barzilauskas

Dutton

DEFENSE

END

Dave Gallagher, Michigan (6-4, 245)

An All-America choice who played mostly tackle for undefeated Michigan.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Doesn't rate tops in any single category, but is a solid, hard-nosed kid who likes to play aggressively and always tries to improve himself. He's the type who could end up making it really big in a few years."

END

Ed Jones, Tennessee State (6-9, 264)

Considered Tennessee State's greatest-ever defensive-line prospect. Has great strength and speed, awesome size. Helped lead team to undefeated season and top ranking among the nation's college-division teams. Coach John Merritt calls Jones "quick as a hiccup."

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Possible first pick in the draft. You have to love his size and what he can do with it. Great natural talent, but also takes coaching well. He's going to give offensive linemen plenty to worry about in the pros. Most have never had to block anybody so tall."

TACKLE

Carl Barzilauskas, Indiana (6-6, 270)

Led the pass-rush for a team that ranked sixth in the country in pass defense. Received several All-America mentions.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"A standout senior. We all knew he had great size and a lot of ability, but he didn't produce as well as he should have in his sophomore and junior years. He's ready now, though. He took off a little weight and that helped his speed without cutting down his strength."

TACKLE

John Dutton, Nebraska (6-7, 248)

Named to most All-America squads. Was a major reason for Nebraska's top ranking in pass defense.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"One of those real big men with terrific speed and strength, though he may have to put on some more weight. No one blocker was able to handle him in college, though he won't have it that easy in the pros. He occasionally was stung by a counter play or suckered into a trap. But no one's going to run up his back."

NFL DRAFT PREVIEW

LINEBACKER

Waymond Bryant, Tenn. State (6-3, 236)

Top outside linebacker for Tennessee State's undefeated 1973 Tigers.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"This is a year for big linebackers, and Bryant is one of the great ones. Very agile and can drop back against the pass as well as play the run. A very mature individual with a good head for football. He says he came to Tennessee State because he wanted to be with a winner, and he's learned how to win. Great leadership potential."

Bryant

Gradishar

LINEBACKER

Randy Gradishar, Ohio State (6-3, 240)

Rated as possibly the finest linebacker in the Big Ten since Dick Butkus. One of the defensive standouts for Ohio State's Rose Bowl Buckeyes.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Has a chance either at middle linebacker or on the outside. Very aggressive and quick and can move extremely well for a big man. In other years, he might have a chance in the defensive line, but he's developed into such a good linebacker it wouldn't make sense to change his position. Plays well even when hurt, which is a good sign of his interest in the game."

LINEBACKER

Fred McNeill, UCLA (6-3, 210)

Played defensive end for the 1973 Bruins, but projected as a pro linebacker. Brother of Southern California tailback Rod, another likely high draft pick.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"The only question about him seems to be his size. But he was giving away lots more weight playing up front in college than he'll give away playing linebacker in the pros. A tough hitter, has excellent pursuit. Really stays on top of his men and makes sure they go down."

McNeill

Capria

FREE SAFETY

Carl Capria, Purdue (6-3, 180)

Leader of Boilermaker secondary that limited 1973 opponents ,to only six touchdowns by passing and a 40 percent completion rate.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"His height is a real help in covering the pass. Also runs well, and has a good instinct for pass coverage. Safeties in the pros have to be able to cover the run now, and this is where Capria will be put to the test."

STRONG SAFETY

Mike Townsend, Notre Dame (6-3, 183)

Key man in the Irish secondary that helped Notre Dame to 10-0 record. Brother of Notre Dame's wide receiver Willie Townsend.

IN THIS GRIND-EM-OUT WORLD, IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A QUALITY CIGARETTE?

If the cigarette is Kent there is.

Kent is probably the most quality-tested cigarette made.

We try to get rid of any taste-robbing imperfections before a Kent ever sees the light of a match. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

But Kent quality goes beyond that.

We go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find the right kind of tobaccos for the milder Kent blend.

To complement this blend, we even invented our own filter, the famous Micronite filter—to smooth the flavor of Kent.

Why are we such sticklers about how Kent is made?

Because, that way we can give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

Star Chat

By Peer. J. Oppenheimer

Big David Hartman, Lover of Ballet—And Baseball!

"When I was on the road and couldn't get a king- or queen-sized bed to sleep on diagonally, I'd get twin beds and put the mattresses on the floor end to end."

Dave Hartman: A BA in economics, too.

From his television series "The Bold Ones," I'd been impressed by David Hartman as an actor. I also knew that he was tall. But it wasn't until I met him for lunch at Reuben's restaurant near Universal Studios that I realized just how tall he is—6'5"—and how articulate.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Are people ever surprised how tall you are when they first meet you?

HARTMAN: The first thing everyone always says is, "I never knew you were so tall!"

FW: Has your height ever been a problem?

HARTMAN: Oh, I don't know. I was tall at 15, and I decided a number of years ago to make it work for me. Like when I auditioned for the chorus in "Hello, Dolly!" in New York a number of years ago. I was told I'd never be in the chorus because of my height, and I thought, "Well, that's fine with me! Don't put me in the chorus, give me a part instead!" Luckily I'd had training as a dancer and singer, and that happened to be the combination that Gower Champion wanted. So I auditioned for him—and my being tall, along with my training, paid off.

FW: What about more mundane things, like finding places to sleep and clothes to wear?

HARTMAN: Beds were a problem until five or six years ago when I could afford to have an extra-big bed made up. When I was on the road and couldn't get a king- or queen-sized bed to sleep on diagonally, I'd get twin beds and put the mattresses on the floor end to end. As for clothes, I have to have them made. I spend money on a few good things that fit properly. I'm no clothes fiend. I usually live in Levis and a shirt that wore out three years ago. [I noticed his well-broken-in shoes had a hole in the sole of one of them.]

FW: Your father was an executive in an advertising company. Why didn't you follow in his footsteps?

HARTMAN: I have a BA in economics from Duke University, and most of my credits for an MA. But after three years in the Air Force, I felt I had to start from scratch again anyway, and I just wasn't interested in business. So I decided to attend the American Academy of Opera. I also studied ballet and took acting lessons.

FW: Why ballet?

HARTMAN: Because of what is called the psychology of the body. I didn't really want to become a ballet dancer—I'm too tall for that. But it taught me how to walk properly, and how to handle my body. Besides, I enjoy it! I think it helps anyone in the theater, particularly if you're tall. If you stand up straight, people tend not to notice how tall you actually are. My mother always made me stand up straight. She was forever putting her hand in the small of my back and saying, "Don't slouch—stand up!"

FW: Was there ever anything else you wanted to do besides act?

HARTMAN: I wanted to be a baseball player, and I spend a great deal of time with the San Francisco Giants. I still go through spring training with them whenever I can, but it's hard to last past your thirties in baseball.

FW: You became so famous as a doctor on "The Bold Ones." And now you're doing medical specials on TV. Does it bother you to watch real operations?

HARTMAN: Not at all. I feel very comfortable in hospitals and in the surgery arena. But I would get upset if I saw an accident. That's quite different.

FW: Do you think you have the temperament to be a doctor?

HARTMAN: Basically I'm a calm person, but I do get enthusiastic—as I am over the advances in medicine.

FW: How do your parents feel about your success?

HARTMAN: Both of my parents are dead. My father died of a heart attack when he was in his sixties. My mother died in her late fifties. I'll always remember them as marvelous people. They used to say to us, "We want you to see the world from our shoulders." And you know, I think my brothers and I do see it that way. fw

NFL DRAFT PREVIEW / Who Will Get the Nod for Number 1?

Continued

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Plays all defensive situations well. Though many pro teams now use the zone rather than man-to-man coverage of passes, a man with great speed still is helpful in the secondary, and Townsend has real good speed. His height also helps him a lot in covering receivers. The type of guy who seems to do his best in the biggest games."

CORNERBACK

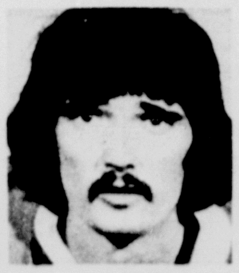
Ken Pope, Oklahoma (6 feet, 205)

Overshadowed by several flashier teammates, but rated one of top pass defenders in nation. Helped the Big Eight champion Sooners to a sixth-place national ranking in overall defense.

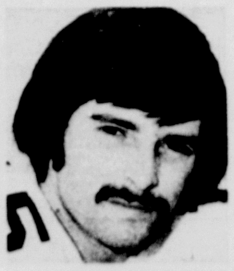
SCOUTING REPORT:

"Tough and aggressive—a real good hitter who enjoys contact. One of those guys you never hear much about because all he's doing is his job. Not flashy, but goes about his business with a lot of drive."

Pope



Henley



Ramsey

CORNERBACK

Bruce Henley, Rice (6-2, 173)

Played a lot at safety in college, and that may be his best pro position, though he is projected for the moment as a cornerback. An All-Southwest Conference selection.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Good speed and good instincts for sports in general. Could probably make a lot of teams just on athletic ability alone, regardless of position. One of those guys who played great for a weak club. Lots of talent."

PUNTER

Chuck Ramsey, Wake Forest (6-2, 190)

Led the nation's collegiate punters most of 1973, averaging about 45 yards. Had lots of opportunities to kick because the Deacons were the worst team in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

SCOUTING REPORT:

"Keeps the ball high and lets his teammates have plenty of time to get downfield to cover the returns. A lot of pro teams could have used this kid this last season."

THE NO. 1 PICK?

Perhaps the greatest honor of all connected with the draft is being the first player selected of all the 442 chosen.

Harry Cartwright suggests that the first player drafted will be, for the third year in a row, a lineman. (In 1972, it was Walt Patulski, a Notre Dame defensive tackle who went to Buffalo; in 1973 it was John Matuszak, a defensive end from the University of Tampa who was picked by Houston.)

"This year," says Cartwright, "the first choice is liable to be either John Hicks of Ohio State or Ed Jones of Tennessee State. I lean toward Hicks because there's always a scarcity of big super-offensive linemen."

Much depends, advises Cartwright, on which team makes the first selection. The Cowboys dealt defensive tackle Tody Smith to the Oilers for their first choice in the 1974 draft. If the Cowboys retain first choice, they might elect to draft Tennessee State's Jones, whom they could groom as a replacement for Bob Lilly. fw

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

How Well Do You Know the Reasons Behind Boredom?

True or False: The more sensitive a person is, the more subject he is to boredom. (See number 5)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Nobody knows what boredom is.
2. Some lucky people are never bored.
3. Boredom can do irreparable harm.
4. Boredom is one thing that yields no benefits to anybody.
5. The more sensitive a person is, the more subject he is to boredom.
6. When you're bored, there are three places to look to find the villain.

ANSWERS

1. False. Dr. Ralph R. Greenson, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at UCLA School of Medicine, has made an intensive study of boredom, and finds that it "is not a sickness, but it is also not a wellness. It is a signal, an indication that the conscious ego has lost contact with the deeper levels and structures of the mind." It is described as a state of dissatisfaction—a sense of emptiness, frustration and restlessness. A typical statement of a bored person is cited: "I can't get with it, I am nowhere, I am out of it." This language, notes Dr. Greenson, clearly indicates that the person is out of touch with his feelings and emotions.

2. False. As one authority observed in summing up the findings of a study on the subject: "There are people who pride themselves on the fact that they are 'never bored.' The statement is pure bravado, and easily punctured. It can be stated as a clinical fact that the person who is 'never bored' doesn't exist." It's pointed out, however, that boredom varies from individual to individual, and some people are capable of snapping out of it more quickly and easily than others.

3. True—because when boredom becomes sufficiently acute, people are tempted to do almost anything to escape it. For example, a recent study of high school students in connection with a drug-education program showed that "in describing their reasons for drug abuse, a considerable majority attributed their use of drugs to boredom." And a Stanford University survey of school dropouts showed that more than 40 percent left "to escape the boredom and frustration of academic life."

4. False. As one specialist has found after psychiatric research of the various aspects of boredom, "Boredom also may serve as an adaptive function, particularly if it is recognized as boredom and is only temporary. It is a kind of local anesthetic, dulling the pain in a particularly sensitive psychic or emotional area while natural healing takes place." It's further observed that sometimes boredom may also serve as a period of germination before the birth of creative ideas.

5. False—as evidenced by the findings of a university study which showed that sensitive and cultured people are actually more immune to boredom than others. One reason for this is that they have keener self-awareness, clearer insight into their innermost feelings and desires. This makes them much less subject to common boredom arising from a restless desire to do something without knowing what. It's observed, however, that though persons of greater sensitivity are less often bored, they are more likely to be depressed.

6. True. There are (1) many people who bore us to tears. The same is true of (2) circumstances and situations—monotonous repetitive work, for example. But most of the time, when people are bored, (3) the boredom stems from within. More often than not, boredom is temporary and is relieved by a change of pace or scene, or indulging in a favored kind of recreation. But if your boredom is chronic, then you should think of it as a symptom, a signal that is trying to tell you that you need to modify your life-style to provide better and more satisfying expression for your real feelings. fw

Now—for the first time—an international Jet-Setter reveals the "inside" story!

How The Beautiful People Get Rid Of Both Cellulite And Ordinary Fat—Without Dieting!

The exquisite authoress: Luciana Avedon, the former Princess Pignatelli.

Yes, the Beautiful People cannot afford to be fat!

Those stunning, sleekly-slim couples who grace the pages of the fashion magazines and society columns...who spend each new Season in New York and Cannes and Saint Moritz and Saint Tropez...who live surrounded by a horde of admirers and photographers must remain youthful and slim right up to 50...60...70!

And yet they eat lavishly, feasting on exotic cuisines as they travel the globe, but always retaining their fantastic figures.

And, if you were to ask them what they do to maintain their Beautiful People Bodies, the answer would always be the same: "I don't do ANYTHING; I don't diet!"

That's right! The Beautiful People Don't Diet! They enjoy the finest food in the world and yet the needle on the scale barely moves! How do they do it?

For the first time, Luciana Avedon (former Princess Pignatelli and now the wife of the European cosmetics executive, Burt S. Avedon) reveals the "BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE MIRACLE FORMULA" responsible for all those lusciously svelte figures on the society pages. How they NEVER go on fad diets, NEVER take dangerous amphetamines, diuretics or diet pills, and NEVER give up their favorite foods either! How they simply go right on eating the foods they like—but in a special way that keeps them always fashionably slim, without their having to jump on and off the diet merry-go-round.

To give just a few examples:

One California socialite says: "I always keep my weight fluctuation within two pounds. It's bad for the face when you go up and down."

Another stunning fashion leader says: "I weighed more at age 25 than I do now." (She's now 37!)

Another says: "Sitting down to nothing but clear soup or health food depresses me; it makes me feel like an invalid."

And another Italian Beauty confesses: "Take away pasta and I would die!"

But yet they know how to splurge like this without incurring disaster on the scales! They get their food kicks—constantly—but their figures never show it!

They eat the finest food in the world (even the delicacies and "tempters" you'd be horrified to touch), but they do it in a way that never lets them put on more weight than they can simply "peel off" in a few days any time they decide to!

(In fact, these Beautiful People secrets of delicious figure-maintenance are so powerful that, when one young, overweight model was introduced to just one of them, she lost 22 pounds in one month and stayed at that weight from then on! And another young girl, when shown how, lost 20 "impossible" pounds in two short months, even though not a single meal demanded special preparation!)

So, From Now On, Forget About Debilitating Diets! The Beautiful People Don't Use Them—Why Should You?

Once again, let us emphasize that the Beautiful People think dieting is a "bore." They eat well—very well—and they are not fat! They wouldn't think of doing without their favorite foods and the needle on the scale barely changes!

Why then shouldn't you follow their plan and lose weight—pounds and pounds and pounds of it! The process is the same, even if you start with a 50 pound handicap. And you do it all by yourself (without "fat" doctors, or the group therapy approach of diet clubs.) And, yet, (to repeat once again) you do not "sacrifice" the foods you love for a single minute!

Yes, you can still enjoy parties, restaurants, business lunches or dinners, and "super-relaxed" vacations. You can eat all the foods you usually do, and still find the pounds and inches gradually, but permanently, melting off!

Listen, As The Beautiful People Tell You How To:

Condition yourself by developing your own built-in "Fat Radar" so that the minute your weight starts to shoot up, you can shoot it down!

Take off fat while it's still "soft"...before the body has had a chance to make it part of the muscle structure. Before it marbelizes, as in a fat steak, and becomes even harder to lose!

Make the natural diuretic power of food even MORE effective, so that accumulated tissue water drains out of your body faster and you NEVER get that bloated look!

Lose tons of weight—all in the right places—and NEVER get "scrawny" looking in the face. Actually melt unwanted pounds right off your body, and still retain that "youthful" bloom in your face the Beautiful People way!

PLUS...

How to be thin as a model, and still have the energy and stamina of a truck driver!

The Beautiful People's special "Secret Elimination Diet" that disintoxicates your system...drains out internal poisons...at exactly the same time that you are painlessly losing weight!

The Beautiful People "Easy-Diet Plan", a permanent part of your life, so that you continue to lose weight for as long as you wish, and yet NEVER feel deprived!

How to prevent your body from automatically "adjusting" to your first massive weight loss, so that it actually prevents you from taking off even more pounds.

What to do if you are a "sandwich fiend" and don't want to cut them out of your diet.

Why the Beautiful People make sure that they never lose more than 18 pounds at a time.

How they painlessly "retrain their nervous system so that they don't go on eating binges during an "anxiety attack."

The most carefully guarded Beautiful People secret: how to lose weight super-fast, purify your body, and heighten your senses to a new state of awareness at exactly the same time!

How the Beautiful People lose weight while they are traveling.

How the Beautiful People keep their children from developing unhealthy and fattening eating habits.

What the European Beautiful People do at once when their skin looks bad, they have trouble sleeping, or they are just feeling dreadful.

Why the Beautiful People feel that American men are a "disaster...overweight, over-tobaccoed, over-alcoholed, and undersexed." And, what Beautiful People Males "over 30," do to retain their very special attractiveness.

The Beautiful People "cure" for sporadic over-indulgence. In other words, how to eat your cake, and have a knock-out figure too!

Yes, The Beautiful People Have Been Looking Fabulous For Years THIS Way. Now You'll Learn How, WITHOUT RISKING A PENNY!

You are just as capable of keeping younger, prettier, slimmer and more attractive as any of the Beautiful People you'll read about in this book. And once you know their "secrets", you'll be well on your way to joining the ranks of all the Beautiful People all over the world, who realize that being beautiful also means being slender

ABOUT THE AUTHORS:

Roman-born Luciana Avedon, the former Princess Pignatelli, was educated in Switzerland. Her husband, Burt S. Avedon, is Director of European operations for Eve of Roma, an internationally famous cosmetics firm. She has been a fashion designer and coordinator, and is currently a beauty consultant. Her first book, The Beautiful People's Beauty Book, was a best-selling title here and abroad.

Jeanne Molli was formerly on the staff of the New York Times, Ladies' Home Journal and Newsweek.

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS:

How The Beautiful People "Smooth Away" Ugly Cellulite, The EASY Way!

Yes, while these Beautiful People are incredibly slim and supple at all ages—actually glowing with good health—they have also learned how to FREE themselves of ugly and distorting CELLULITE! (Cellulite, as you may know, is "orange peel fat"—the hard lumps of hideous fat that stick to the back of the thighs, knees, arms, buttocks and back. The same ripply fat pockets that cause desperation and unhappiness in thousands of American women who cannot walk down a beach, or up to a husband or lover, without feeling unattractive or just plain ugly!)

This is not ordinary fat, by any means. And it can't be gotten rid of by ordinary means. Instead, it's bumpy, hard lumps of toxic material—really a gel-like substance—that become trapped in bubbly, immovable pockets just beneath the skin. It's found in pencil-slim models and housewives alike. In fact, it's reputed to disfigure almost 90% of the women in the world! But not the Beautiful People! Why?

BECAUSE OF THESE TWO SIMPLE "CELLULITE CHASERS" THAT YOU CAN USE YOURSELF RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME, STARTING IN JUST A FEW MINUTES A DAY!

No, you don't need fancy doctors, or expensive health spas to be able to bid farewell to these unsightly globules. You can achieve spectacular results simply by following these two simple steps beginning on Page 26:

First, attack the cellulite you're carrying around right now through this special self-massage treatment designed to break it up and quickly "wash" this figure-distorting mess right out of your body!

Second, follow the unique Anti-Cellulite-Food Program that will actually help your natural circulatory system to rid your body of annoying substances BEFORE they can build up and become IMMOVABLE CHUNKS OF FAT!

Both these Cellulite Fighters are yours, as just one section of this great Beautiful People Over-All Body Beauty Plan...yours to read from cover to cover, entirely at our risk!

THE WORLD'S FASTEST, MOST SUCCESSFUL BODY SHAPER EVER!!!

“I lost 6 inches off my waistline in only 21 days...“

DOING JUST ONE FIVE MINUTE EXERCISE — TWICE DAILY — AND DIDN'T EVEN HAVE TO GIVE UP EATING THE FOODS I LOVE — DID IT!

"I never thought it would happen to me...but it did. I got fat.

"As a former fashion model, I'd always taken pretty good care of myself because if I didn't look good, I didn't work. But when I got married, and didn't need a job, it was a different story.

"For about 5 years, I neglected my body and ended up a mess. And worst of all, I looked about 10 years older than I really was. So I decided that it was time to do something drastic. I tried a few of those 'effortless exercisers,' but, of course, they didn't do a thing.

"Then I heard about Joe Weider's "5" Minute Body-Shaper Plan. After just 21 days on the plan, my weight dropped from 143 lbs. to 129. And my waist went from a sloppy 31" to a nice, trim 25", just about what it was when I was modeling. I can't thank the Weider 5-Minute Slimming Plan enough. It gave me back my youth." ALETA HOPKINS

WHAT IS THIS INGENIOUS PLAN?

The Weider "5" Minute Body Shaper plan is based on doing ONE CONTINUOUS RHYTHMIC CO-ORDINATED EXERCISE while still eating the foods you like. That's all you do! This one five-minute exercise is designed to attack the Waist and Hips (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look) — as well as burn off excess body fat fast by speeding up your metabolism, burning up stored calories and releasing excess water — while still reshaping your chest, abdomen, firming up your legs and arms — your total body!

It's safer than strenuous workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts . . . or any other vigorous sport.

The unit weighs about 16 oz., and fits any wallet-sized case. You can carry it and use it wherever there's floor space — anytime. Even while watching television.

WHAT COMES OFF IN 14 DAYS?

Individual results vary, but during an average 14 day period, you can expect to lose up to four inches from your waistline and up to ten pounds off your present weight. It strengthens your heart and lungs, increases stamina and endurance, improves your digestive function and general health. IT TOUGHENS YOU UP. For a '5-Minute Exerciser' → it sure does a lot!

WHAT SATISFIED CUSTOMERS SAY:

Results vary, depending on how much overweight each of our student is. Nevertheless, this is a sampling from the impressive letters we receive: Willie Ellis — "I lost three inches off my waist and nine pounds in seven days." Kent Christensen — "I lost 5½ inches off my waist and 20 pounds in 10 days." Marino Zoller, M.D. — "I lost 2 inches off my waist in 14 days." Michael Benedict — "I lost 6 inches off my waist and 22 pounds in 21 days." Ken Waller — "I lost 3 inches off my waist in 5 days."

WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Osteopaths, Athletic Coaches...agree its the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping-Up Plan ever invented.

"Doctors have always known that exercise, done while lying on the back, virtually eliminates strains while slimming and reshaping the body. Yours is the finest Body Shaper Program on the market." RICHARD TYLER, D.C.

"Beats jogging and working out in gyms — and much safer. I lost 4½ inches off my waist in 14 days."
JIM HANLEY, famous athletic coach.

"Based on sound physiological and medical knowledge, it burns off fat and shapes the body without strain to the heart or other organs. I lost 12 lbs. of excess weight using it." DR. ANITA SANTANGELO, Chiropractic Orthopedics

BIRD BATH
Shave and a haircut—cheep cheep!

Ever hear of a bubble bath for birds? Well, retired Army man Bill Farquhar-Moody has set up a beauty parlor for our fine feathered friends in the back room of his house. Bubble baths are just one of the beauty treatments given to the favorite species of ornithophiles. Birds of all shapes and sizes come to Bill to have their beaks, nails and feathers clipped and trimmed. For a standard bird bath, Bill, who is 65, uses a "very soft toothbrush and special baby soap to wash the feathers." Parakeets and canaries take about 15 minutes for a complete treatment. Larger birds, of course, take longer.

What stretch of U.S. road has more accidents per mile than any other? Mayor David Cohen of Holmdel, N.J., says he thinks he has the champion—a 2.4-mile stretch of New Jersey 34 that had 95 accidents from January, 1970, to September, 1973, with six fatalities. In 1973, there were 17 accidents, three fatalities. This, says Mayor Cohen, ranks it right up there with the "Killer Highways" listed by T. K. Irwin in FAMILY WEEKLY ("These May Be America's Deadliest Highways," December 2, 1973). Mayor Cohen blames the bad surface—potholes on the shoulders that cause the driver to lose control. So far, no action from the State Department of Transportation, but the Mayor keeps trying. Any challengers to Mayor Cohen's tragic "champion"?

JOAN COLLINS AS "MARILYN"
And now to sleep . . .

Marilyn Monroe, more of a legend since her death than during her lifetime, is now the subject of a new play titled, appropriately enough, "Legend." British actress Joan Collins, normally a brunette, is shown here with the blonde wig she'll wear for the part. "But it will take me more than a wig and a talk with her makeup man to understand Marilyn," admits Miss Collins, 37, who knew Marilyn "only slightly" in the fifties when both were under contract to 20th Century-Fox. The London play dramatizes the last four days in Marilyn's life, coming to a climax with a 25-minute soliloquy as the actress slowly succumbs to an overdose of sleeping pills. The audience, hopefully, will remain awake.

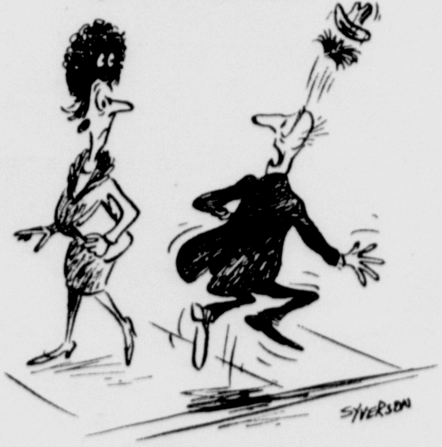
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



HAIR LINES

My wife has a rat in her hair.
I'm sorry to give you a scare,
But it isn't a rat that will scurry,
Which means you've no reason to worry.

My wife has her hair in a bun,
Which no one would think would be fun.
However it isn't to eat,
It's a hairdo that's rolled-up and neat.

In fact it's the rat that I mention,
And thereby, I think, got attention,
That's used by my wife, whose hair's thin,
To help make the bun her hair's in.

With her hair in a bun and a rat
In her hair, it's a wonder, at that,
Her coiffure is considered so chic,
And people don't point and then shriek.

My youngest child wanted to know the truth about the tooth fairy. He wanted to believe, but friends have told him different. After he asked me time after time, I felt compelled to tell the truth, so I said, "Yes, son, I am the tooth fairy. I am the one who puts the money under the pillow."
